A Dual Adaptability Pays in Malaya.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH BRITISH TROOPS IN NORTHERN MALAYA, Dec. 30 [Delayed] [By dispatch rider to Kuala Lumpur].—The Japanese, noted for their ability to adapt the ideas of others to their own use, are doing so with a vengeance in Malaya.

For they are waging a war of might—copied faithfully from the European blitzkrieg model—without overlooking a single bit of jungle trickery which primitive Malayan fighters might have used.

Taking tips from the moderns, they are smashing at the British from the air with a superior number of planes—both dive bombers and fighters. They are charging at them on the ground with 10 ton tanks where the situation calls for mobile fortresses, and, in turn, meeting British tank attacks with modern anti-tank guns. They are blasting at British positions in the jungle with deadly, up to the minute mortars and six inch field guns. Their machine guns are spitting armor piercing bullets. And they outnumber the British defenders!

Ape the Primitives, Too!

Aping the primitives, however, the Japanese are utilizing every approved type of jungle fighting. They herd hapless prisoners ahead of them as shields; they wrap up in leaves and snipe from tree tops; they float down sluggish streams, infiltrate thru jungle trails with skill and stealth, and their attacks are led not by soldiers in soldiers' uniforms but by soldiers disguised as Malayan natives.

I'm getting a first hand view of this mixed war of might and jungle trickery. I'll give some instances. First the war of might:

Japanese planes are constantly buzzing around near the front. I counted 60 in one day. And they have changed their tactics, too. Once they were content to attack towns indiscriminately. Now they concentrate in deadly fashion on the strafing and bombing of British transport columns on the highways.

Sharp Watch Required.

So far they have not been able to slow up these columns to a great extent, but it is necessary to maintain a sharp watch as the enemy planes come in very low with machine guns rattling.

A slipping clutch on a motorbike today probably saved the life of the British captain who is conducting Associated Press Photographer Frank Noel of Albany, N. Y., and the Tribune correspondent, the only Americans at the front. He stopped to fix the clutch—and a Jap flyer dropped two bombs right around the corner for which he was headed. Then, too, I sprained my ankle when I tripped over vines while fleeing thru the jungle to escape a dive bombing attack.

Tanks Advance Recklessly.

Seven Japanese tanks, judged to be about 10 tons each, appeared this afternoon just after I had left an advanced position. On they came toward the British, making no attempt at concealment and flying an enormous "Rising Sun" flag, until anti-tank guns opened up. One tank was knocked out. The others retired. Their presence indicates the Japanese have been able to repair bridges demolished by the defenders in their retreat.

I am told that the Japanese have been firing armor piercing bullets in their machine guns for the last few days, which somewhat increases the danger to Britons. But then, I'm also told, the Japs are not as skilful as the British in handling automatic weapons.

Altho the British say there is little trouble in dealing with Japanese infantry when it can be found in the jungle, they admit the foe is using mortars and aircraft with telling effect in the fighting. The Japanese also are using some anti-tank guns and some six-inch field pieces.

General Explains Strategy.

A brigadier explained British strategy in fighting delayed withdrawal action. He said their task is to resist frontal action as long as possible before the inevitable Japanese pincers movement develops.

Two generals told me British empire troops are clearly superior to the Japanese, man for man, but that the foe's sheer weight in numbers was forcing the British to withdraw toward Singapore. The Japs, they

Tryst in Cafe Brings Death to Girl, Man

A man believed from identification papers in his pocket to be a St. Louis industrialist, and a pretty young Chicago girl were found dead early today in a private dining room at the L'Aiglon café, 22 East Ontario street, apparently as the result of poison taken in their champagne.

Coroner A. L. Brodie and police said the papers indicated that the man was Clare S. McArdle, vice president and sales manager of the Missouri Portland Cement company. His home was believed to be at 512 South Meramec avenue, Clayton, a suburb of St. Louis.

The couple had arrived at the café and had taken a dining room about 9:45 o'clock last night, according to Gino Moresi, 914 Grace street, their waiter.

Order Dinner with Champagne.

Moresi said they ordered a pheasant dinner and champagne; then told him they did not wish to be disturbed.

At abouf 12:45 a. m. today, Moresi, ready to go off duty, went to the door and knocked. He got no answer. He kicked at the door and pushed it open.

Inside, sprawled on the floor, were the couple, dead.

The girl was clad in a red evening gown. The man was in business attire.

The wine drunk by the couple was Pomery-Greno, Rheims, 1928, and is served at L'Aiglon at $9.50 a bottle. The couple's dinner check ran to about $20.

His Clothing in Suitcase.

Also in the room was the suitcase brought there by the man. In it were clothes and papers.

In a compact belonging to the woman was a quantity of crystalline powder, believed to be poison.

In the girl's purse were two letters. One of them, signed by McArdle, said he would meet her "tonight" at L'Aiglon, then would take the midnight train back to St. Louis. It mentioned that his mother was worried about the war, with its blackouts and sorrows.

Police and Coroner Brodie, who was on the scene in 25 minutes after the discovery of the bodies, identified the girl as Mrs. Nancy La Motte Wassman, about 23 years old, 1419 Hollywood avenue.

The L'Aiglon café, scene of the double death, is a café noted for the excellence of its cuisine. It is located in the heart of the near north side "hot spot" district.

TAKE BABE RUTH TO N.Y. HOSPITAL ON A STRETCHER

New York, Jan. 3 [Saturday] (AP).—Babe Ruth, baseball's former home run king, was taken to a hospital from his Riverside drive apartment early today in a private ambulance. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, who later said he had been taken to an unnamed hospital for a "routine checkup." The apartment house doorman said, however, that Ruth had been carried to the ambulance on a stretcher and appeared to be "a very sick man."

Senate Group Approves Price Czar Bill

U. S. MAY TAKE OVER PRIVATELY OWNED AUTOS

Ceilings Are O. K.'d on All Goods.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Two important moves to organize the civilian life of the country on a rigid war basis were disclosed in the capital today. They were:

1. A senate subcommittee reported the administration's long delayed price control bill authorizing an administrator to fix maximum prices for commodities, articles, materials, and services, other than those of employes, to prevent excessive price increases during the war and an economic collapse afterward. It provides for creation of an office of price control and an emergency court of appeals. It would permit a further steep inflation of farm prices but would not control wages.

Motorists First to Be Hit.

2. Price Administrator Leon Henderson said there is a "gloomy possibility" of commandeering passenger cars now in owners' hands, no possibility of any passenger car production for the duration of the war, and further curtailments on civilian consumption. He indicated some cars will be exported to South America in exchange for war supplies. It was estimated that the rubber shortage may last for five years. Declaring strict rationing would spread to other civilian commodities, Henderson said: "You think it's tough now, but you ain't seen nothing yet." [Details on page 8.]

The price control bill was reported by the senate banking and currency subcommittee and later was approved in substantially the same form by the full committee.

It corresponded with the measure passed by the house on Nov. 28 in not providing for control of wages, in authorizing the regulation of rents only in so-called defense areas to be designated by the administrator, and in permitting inflation of farm prices before the flexible ceilings prescribed for agricultural commodities could be imposed.

Bill to Floor Wednesday.

The senate is expected to begin consideration of the price control bill next Wednesday, two days after the convening of the second session of the 77th congress, the first session of which adjourned sine die today.

Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of President Wilson's war industries board, and other leading economists have insisted that both farm prices and wages must be controled to prevent disastrous inflation.

The senate subcommittee, however, even rejected a policy declaration amendment by Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.], which proposed simply that the National Defense Mediation board and other government agencies endeavor to stabilize prices and the cost of production thru the stabilization of wages at levels generally prevailing on Oct. 1.

Adopt Policy Amendment.

The full committee adopted a Taft amendment declaring it to be the policy of the government agencies to "work toward a stabilization of prices and cost of production" but not thru the stabilization of wages.

In its provisions relating to administration, the senate bill follows the recommendations of Henderson. The price administrator [presumably Henderson] will be appointed by the President. The emergency court of appeals, consisting of three or more federal court judges who will be designated by the chief justice, would have authority to review and set aside, in whole or in part, regulations and orders issued by the administrator.

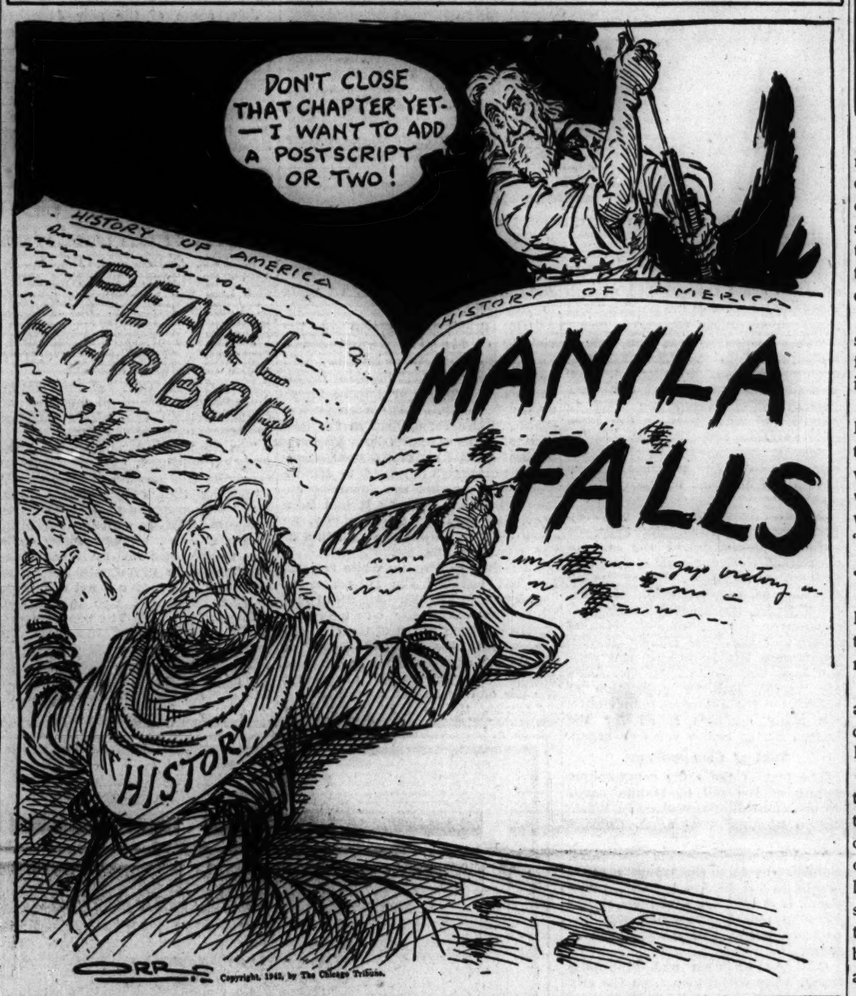

Over administration opposition, the house adopted a provision for a five-man board of review, independent of the administrator and with power to affirm, modify or set aside his orders.

May Require Licenses.

The senate committee reinstated a provision, which the house eliminated, authorizing the administrator to require licenses as a condition of selling articles subject to his regulation whenever he deems such action to be necessary. An exception prohibits the requirement of licenses for

All-Night Car Parking to Be Stopped: Kelly

The all-night parking ordinance will be revived, and this time enforced, Mayor Kelly announced yesterday.

"We can't take the chance of snarling transportation or causing traffic hazards by having autos left on the streets at night," the mayor said. "Furthermore, leaving cars on the streets in all kinds of weather rots the rubber in the tires."

If the car owner doesn't want to make use of a public garage let him find room for parking in a back yard or on a vacant lot, the mayor suggested.

Storage Rates $5 to $14.

Meanwhile the garage owners, tho hopeful of an increase in business as result of the mayor's action, insisted there would be no increase in storage rates, which now range from $5 to $14 a month, depending on the neighborhood.

The ordinance the mayor proposes to enforce permits the police to take possession of a car parked for long periods on the street, take it to a garage, where the owner must pay towing and storage charges to redeem it. The problem of all-night parking has long troubled the city and numerous attempts have been made to end it, chiefly, the public always has felt, by the garage operators.

Space Available Is Moot Point.

It has been contended that there is not enough space for all the city's cars in public garages. There are about 800 in the city and, figuring an average capacity of 100 cars, there is thus space for about 80,000 autos. There are thousands of private one and two car garages, just how many, it appears, no one ever has taken the trouble to learn. But there are 587,099 passenger autos registered in Chicago.

"There is plenty of room in our garages at present," said Emil Mermall, executive director of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, which represents 350 of these establishments. "Our most recent survey, in August, showed garages in one north side neighborhood at only 47 per cent of capacity and in a south side neighborhood at 40 per cent of capacity.

"The percentage of occupancy has increased with the coming of cold weather but there still is room for many more cars."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The fact that a girl left a banana on a bus made news in England today. She is Miss B. Johns of Wandsworth, London, who received the banana as a gift from a friend in America.

"I decided to take it to work with me," she said. "I knew it would be the envy of every one. I thought that perhaps I could auction it for the Red Cross. Luckily I had a girl friend with me as a witness, or no one would believe that I ever had it."

"We have no trace of the banana." the lost property office of the London Transport board told an inquirer when asked if it had been found.

"Whoever ate it has my best wishes for a happy new year," said Miss Johns. "I have written to ask for another—and the next time I will eat it as soon as it arrives."

HIGHLIGHTS OF DAY'S FIGHTING ON ALL FRONTS

With Manila and nearby Cavite naval base in the hands of the enemy, Gen. MacArthur's defenders of the Philippines early today stubbornly resisted Japanese attacks on new lines in the mountainous and jungle country north of the capital.

American and Filipino troops still held Corregidor, the island fortress, and other smaller forts in Manila bay.

There was every evidence that MacArthur intended to continue the battle for Luzon Island, on which Manila is located, altho it was admitted that the Japanese were pressing their attacks with "increasing intensity."

Japs Call It "Last Stand."

The Japanese announced that MacArthur's men had withdrawn to Corregidor and the mountains north of Manila for a "last stand."

While Japan was exulting, its axis allies still apparently were caught in the grip of disaster in Russia and Africa.

Moscow announced the recapture of Maloyaroslavets, a key town 65 miles southwest of Moscow. This soviet advance dug another salient into the German lines south of Mozhaisk, German stronghold west of the Red capital. The Russians already have broken the German lines north and south of Moscow.

British Capture Bardia.

In Libya, the British captured the last rear axis position of substantial strength. It was Bardia, 300 miles to the east of the battleground where axis forces were attempting a delaying action. More than 5,000 axis defenders were killed or captured at Bardia, and 1,000 imprisoned British troops were liberated.

In the far east the Chinese also claimed a victory—the killing or wounding of 15,000 Japanese in a counterattack on the outskirts of Changsha, the capital of Hunan province.

The situation north of Singapore was about the same as it had been. The Japanese landed fresh forces in western Malaya. The British were engaged in a heavy battle with these troops about 290 miles from the mighty British base. The British line on the eastern Malayan coast, 190 miles from Singapore, apparently was holding.

U. S. Warships Aid Dutch.

The Netherlands East Indies command disclosed that American warships and planes were helping in the defense of those vital islands. A communique reported that one American ship and two planes had been ineffectively attacked in the northern part of the archipelago.

A dispatch from Canberra, Australia, said that Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander for India and Burma, will become chief of land, sea, and air forces—apparently all allied forces—in the Pacific.

Marines Exceed Record Strength of World War I.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special].—The marine corps has passed its former record strength achieved in World war No. 1, the navy department announced today. On Dec. 31 the corps had 77,729 officers and men compared to the previous high of 75,101 on Dec. 11, 1918.

HOUSE MEMBERS HIT AT NEGLECT OF U. S. DEFENSE

Lay Pacific Losses to Lend-Lease.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—While administration senators today were minimizing the fall of Manila and prospective loss to Japan of the Philippine Islands, there was a verbal explosion on the floor of the house, touched off by the evidence of American unpreparedness in the Pacific.

Rep. Woodruff [top] and Rep. Hoffman.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] and Rep. Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.] charged that American soldiers and sailors went to their death in Hawaii and the Philippines because the American made airplanes and other arms that would have given those possessions protection were sent instead to Great Britain.

Protests Death of Brother.

"A week ago Wednesday, in the little town of Hamilton, in my home county, a young man named Lohman, whose brother was lost in the Philippines, came up to me and, in substance, said, 'How come that my brother had to die without the things that were necessary to make a fight?'" said Hoffman.

"You can talk all you want to about the wrongs that other rulers or other nations have committed, and I agree with you on that, but how about this wrong, this criminal act of sending our men to die without means of defense? That is wrong—a crime for which we are to blame, a situation which must never again occur.

"That boy said to me, in substance, 'How come that the fighting planes and the bombers and the ships were not provided to aid my brother in making his fight for his country? How come they were over in the other, the eastern hemisphere?' And did I have an answer? No. There was no answer, except the one that we had sent the fighting planes, the bombers, the destroyers to aid Britain.

Expects to Hear Squawks.

"In the days to come, when those who have had so much to say about the necessity and the advisability of fighting right away, of sending an AEF at once, learn that they are not going to get tubes and tires and automobiles, you listen to the squawking; and the loudest squawk will come from those who advocated immediate war, and that without thought of preparation.

"This is our war. I hope the first to lose their tubes, their tires, their automobiles, their cocktails and their dinners down at the swank hotels will be the senators and the congressmen. I should like to see them go back and eat a little cornmeal and mush and a baked potato without butter or even milk gravy. I should like to see, and it is going to be my purpose as far as I can to try to see, that every red cent which we appropriate goes for the boys who are doing the fighting, and to see that we who stay here at home do not squawk too much over something that does not hurt us."

No administration member ventured to combat Hoffman's denunciation of the Roosevelt lend-lease policy under which the major portion of military aircraft produced in the United States was diverted to Britain, Russia, and China.

Congressman Woodruff lauded the heroism of the American defenders of the Pacific islands, which, however, he said, does not remove "the stigma of unpreparedness, of laxity, of indifference to repeated warnings, of the naval and military high command in those areas."

"We have heretofore considered it incredible," he went on, "that with all the billions we have spent and all the work that has been done in the United States, we would have been

Argentina to Draft 50,000 for Year of Army Training

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 2 (AP).—Argentina today began the enrollment of 50,000 conscripts for a year of military training. The number was 5,000 higher than the usual new year military class, in line with the needs of an expanded military and naval program recently approved by congress.

so blind and foolish as to practically give it all away to other nations, keeping not even sufficient equipment and supplies for our own adequate defense. Yet that is what now proves to have been the case.

"We did not learn these facts from any military or naval or administration officials of our own. We had to wait until the blunt, candid British prime minister came to our congress and publicly told us the facts.

Finds Situation Incredible.

"We have heretofore considered it incredible that our east and west coasts might not be adequately protected. We have believed it inconceivable that with reiterated warnings of impending danger, and with the expenditure of the unlimited billions we have poured into what we were told was the national defense, that at least enough machines, munitions and supplies would be retained to protect our own coasts. It begins to look as tho we may have been mistaken.

"Had there been anything like adequate foresight on the part of those charged with responsibility for looking ahead both in the Atlantic and the Pacific areas, the Philippines, Guam, Midway, and Wake would have had help from our airplanes. The Japs would not have had it all their own way.

Wants Incompetents Ousted.

"Regardless of where the blame falls, the incompetents in the administration and in the army and the navy must be ferreted out and thrown out. This is no time for face-saving. It is time to save America. Instead of further concealing these weaknesses and permitting them to continue, we must eliminate them and plug up the dangerous open holes in our defense.

"It is worse than silly to talk about hushing up all criticism for fear the enemy may find it out. The enemy has already demonstrated that he knows more about our weaknesses than our own army and navy officials did. There must be an end to that situation.

"This is life and death business now. America must be protected. Incompetence must be ended. Incompetents must go. Bureaucrats and self-seeking politicians must give way to earnest, patriotic, capable men and women who can and will do the necessary job of making certain our defense is adequate and our preparedness great enough."

Connally Tells Manila's Fall.

Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, announced the fall of Manila in the senate.

He said that since "under ordinary circumstances" the news would be discouraging he felt somebody should "sound the note that it is no cause for depression.

"Except for the surrender of our forces the country need not be depressed," he said. "The Philippines have always been a military liability."

He said that on account of the distance of the Philippines from the United States, Japan probably could put 1,000,000 men in the Philippine Islands before the United States could send one transport.

Says Don't Be Disheartened.

"I trust," he added, "the people of the United States will not be disheartened. When we get ready—and I hope it will be soon—of course, we will retake the Philippines and take measures to see that the attack on Hawaii will be appropriately punished. The people should be reassured that we're not losing the war."

He said that as soon as the United States "hits its stride" and marshals its man power militarily and industrially, "we'll win the war."

CLAIMS JAPANESE DIED LIKE FLIES IN LUZON JUNGLES

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 2.—Most of the Italian evening newspapers today announced the fall of Manila in exultant headlines such as, "Major Defeat of the American Forces in the Pacific." However, tomorrow's readers of the Messaggero will find a sobering commentary to the American defeat in the Pacific in the form of a special dispatch, dated Tokio, citing the reasons for "tremendous losses" suffered by the advancing Japanese forces.

Purportedly the statements of a wounded Japanese officer to the paper's special correspondent in the Philippines, it starts with the warning that the struggle in the Philippines is still far from concluded. Admitting that the Americans fought like "demons," the article says that worse than the American resistance, however, was—and still is—the virgin Luzon forests thru which the invading armies, after suffering casualties in their debarkation, had to fight "and die like flies" at a speed of three to four miles a day.

"Cobras and crocodiles and the trees thru which even the artillery could not blast a way had to be attacked by the suffering infantry," the article said.

"Alive and Well" Telegram Brings Messenger a Ride

Youngstown, O., Jan. 2 (AP).—Donald Clemens, a telegraph messenger, had his first taxi ride today—thanks, indirectly to the navy. Clemens delivered to Mr. and Mrs. August C. Kramer a telegram saying their son, Donald, 24 years old, survived a battle in the Pacific in which he previously was reported killed. Mrs. Kramer called a taxicab to take the messenger back to his office.

JAPANESE ATTACK NEW LINE NORTH OF LOST MANILA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The war department said in a late day communique that American and Philippine troops north and northwest of Manila were continuing stubborn resistance against Japanese attacks following the loss of the Philippine capital. The attacks were said to be pressed with "increasing intensity."

The communique, based on military reports received from the islands up until 4 p. m. Chicago time, consisted of fewer than 40 words and shed no further light on the position of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces or their intentions following the withdrawal from Manila and the evacuation of the nearby naval base of Cavite.

Text of Communique.

The text of the communique:

"1. Philippine theater: American and Philippine troops north and northwest of Manila are continuing to resist stubbornly attacks which are being pressed with increasing intensity.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Both Manila and Cavite, it was said earlier, had been stripped of military supplies and equipment before they were left to the Japanese.

With the loss of Manila and Cavite the battle of the Philippines entered a new stage. It was one, moreover, which some strategic experts here believed might continue for some time, with MacArthur's men compelling the Japanese to keep on the Island of Luzon men and materials which otherwise would be thrown into the attack on Singapore and the Dutch East Indies.

Communiques Spare of Detail.

The war and navy departments' earlier announcements on the Luzon fighting were blunt and spare of detail, but they contained clews which led military observers here to reconstruct the situation in this fashion:

It was evident that with Japanese forces approaching Manila from two directions, over a terrain little adapted to defensive fighting, MacArthur decided to yield the city and continue the battle on ground of his own choosing.

So, despite enemy harassments, he ordered a daring maneuver. The defending forces to the south withdrew and joined the American and Philippine troops which had been resisting the attack from the north. This left the southern approach to Manila wide open and the enemy marched in unopposed.

MacArthur Has Compact Army.

But to the north it gave MacArthur a compact, one unit fighting force with the advantage of shorter lines, closely coördinated command, and a broad battlefield of farm land, jungle, and mountain country in which to make a determined stand.

At his back was Manila bay, the South China sea, and the long, ruggedly mountainous Batan peninsula which forms the western inclosure of the bay. Just off the end of the peninsula lies Corregidor, the rocky island fortress, and nearby it three smaller fortified islands—Forts Drum, Hughes, and Frank.

It was considered unquestionable here that the strategist MacArthur had laid his plans months ago for the tactics he had been using in this delaying action. Cavite, for instance, was apparently abandoned several days ago.

All Ships Removed.

"The United States naval base at Cavite was evacuated before the enemy entered Manila," the navy announced. "All industrial and supply facilities, including fuel, were destroyed.

"The personnel of the naval hospital remained at their posts at the naval hospital, Canacao, to care for the wounded. All ships and naval personnel were removed from the Manila-Cavite area prior to enemy occupation."

Announcing the fall of the city and the entry into it of advance elements of the invading forces at 3 p. m., Manila time [midnight Thursday, Chicago time], the war department said:

"The loss of Manila, while serious, has not lessened the resistance to the Japanese attacks."

It went on to say that the tactical situation about the city had necessitated the junction of the northern and southern defending forces.

"This maneuver was successfully accomplished in the face of strong enemy opposition," it continued. "The consequent shortening of our lines necessarily uncovered the road to Manila and made possible the Japanese entrance into the city.

"As it had previously been declared an open city no close defense within the environs of the city was possible."

Presumably, if previously prepared plans were followed, the Japanese entering Manila found the city in control of the municipal police and Filipino constabulary. Under the advance plans, representatives of Francis B. Sayre, the American high commissioner, and President Manuel Quezon of the local islands government were left behind to deal with the Japanese. Some 2,000 Americans are among Manila's population of 625,000, but the number was indefinite, for many civilians sailed for the United States before the war began.

Text of Communiques.

The text of the army communique telling of the fall of Manila based on communications received in Washington up until 8:30 a. m. Chicago time:

"1. Philippine theater: Advanced elements of Japanese troops entered Manila at 3 p. m. Jan. 2, 1942 [Manila time]. It is reported that these troops were limited to a size necessary for police duties and maintenance of order.

"All American and Philippine troops were withdrawn from the city several days ago, and all defense installations were removed or destroyed. Many of the wounded American and Philippine soldiers were evacuated from the Manila area on Dec. 31, 1941, and are now en route to Australia.

"The practical situation in the vicinity of Manila necessitated a radical readjustment of the lines held by American and Philippine troops and a consolidation of defense forces north of Manila. This maneuver was successfully accomplished in the face of strong enemy opposition. The consequent shortening of our lines necessarily uncovered the road to Manila and made possible the Japanese entrance into the city. As it had been previously declared an open city, no close defense within the environs of the city was possible.

"The loss of Manila, while serious, has not lessened the resistance to the Japanese attacks. American and Philippine troops are occupying strong positions north of the city and are holding the fortified island of Corregidor and the other defenses of Manila bay effectively, preventing the use of this harbor by the enemy.

"During the past 24 hours there has been heavy fighting on the ground with repeated enemy attacks from the north. Japanese air activity is somewhat less in intensity than for several days.

"A landing of a small enemy force was effected at Jolo in the Sulu Archipelago in the south of the Philippine group.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Jolo, scene of the new Japanese landing, is the center of the land of the warlike Moros, Mohammedan Filipinos. There and on the larger nearby islands of Mindanao, Gen. John J. Pershing and other famous American military figures first won fame in fighting to subdue the fierce tribesmen three decades ago.

OUTLINES PARTIAL WORSHIP OF GOD IN NAZI CHURCHES

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 2.—Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, a high Nazi official and long the anti-religious polemist of modern Germany, has just released a proposed new program for the "religion of National Socialism" based on a partial worship of God, whose works are "eternal."

His program calls for the "immediate turning over of all churches and chapels within the reich's quarters to become national churches."

"In the national reich church," the program declared, "all . . . must recognize God and his eternal work." Providing that only national "orators" may speak in the churches, the program "excludes from becoming 'orators' . . . all who today or in the future attempt by any means whatsoever to perpetuate the Christian faith, for they are not only liars to themselves, but also to the German people. . . ." The program prohibits the printing of the Bible, the guiding document being decreed as Adolf Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf." In addition to a copy of "Mein Kampf," a sword is to be placed on all altars.

MANILA TAKEN 3 TIMES BEFORE; ONCE BY BRITISH

Dewey Captured the City 44 Years Ago.

It was nearly 44 years ago that the American people were electrified by the news that the Spanish fleet had been destroyed in Manila bay in a dawn-to1-lunch battle with Dewey's cruisers.

Passing the then lightly armed island of Corregidor, where big guns now guard the entrance, Commodore George Dewey attacked the Spanish fleet anchored in the bay on May 1, 1898, and destroyed it to the last ship. The surrender of Manila followed on Aug. 13.

Previously the Philippine capital had been taken by the Spaniards in 1565, captured and sacked by the British in 1762, and returned by them to the Spaniards in 1763.

"Fire When Ready, Gridley."

Sailing from Mirs bay near Hongkong, Dewey disregarded the danger of mines and torpedoes to take his four small armored cruisers Olympia, Baltimore, Raleigh, and Boston, the unarmored cruiser Concord, the gunboat Petrel, and the armed revenue cutter Hugh M'Culloch into the bay at dawn on May 1, 1898.

Adm. Montojo of Spain had anchored his two armored cruisers, two gunboats, an old wooden steamer and two other warships in line just east of the spit on the south side of the bay that became the United States naval base of Cavite.

Dewey, parading his ships past in a line, opened fire at 5,000 yards at 5:41 a. m., . . . "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley" . . . and then quit at 7:35 a. m., for breakfast.

Just before lunch he resumed the battle, but by that time two of Montojo's best warships were afire, and all Dewey had to do was sink the rest of them and silence the shore batteries.

Only Seven Americans Wounded.

Taking possession of Cavite, Dewey sent word to Washington that he could capture Manila any time, but lacked the men to hold it. He waited there most of the summer until nearly 11,000 troops had arrived from San Francisco. Then the Americans entrenched within 1,000 yards of the city on Aug. 7.

The 13,000 Spaniards within the city were surrounded by Filipino insurgents and were unable to put up a prolonged fight when the general assault began on the morning of Aug. 13. They raised the white flag at 11 a. m.

JAPAN MAKES START OF WAR AGAINST U. S. A NATIONAL HOLIDAY

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 2 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The Japanese cabinet directed today that the eighth of every month be celebrated as a national holiday in commemoration of the start of the war with the United States and Britain.

[The Japanese actually sprang their attack on Pearl Harbor soon after dawn Dec. 7, Hawaii time, but the imperial headquarters official announcement that Japan was at war did not come until dawn of Dec. 8 in Tokio.]

The cabinet announcement said the new holiday would replace the day of national service, which has been observed the first of every month to encourage increased sacrifices toward establishing a new order in east Asia.

MANILA—CAPITAL OF 7,083 ISLES AND 16,356,000 PEOPLE

Manila, which fell to the Japanese invaders of the Philippines yesterday, was the capital of a commonwealth made up of 7,083 islands with a population of 16,356,000 persons living principally upon 11 islands.

Physically, Manila was not too attractive until recent years. It was built on ground almost on sea level at the mouth of the Pasig river, and for years it was known as one of the most unsanitary cities in the Orient. It was cleaned up when the Americans took charge in 1898.

Manilla was torn by destructive earthquakes in 1645, 1863, and 1880. The earthquake of 1863 killed several thousand persons.

BELIEVE MALOLOS IS NEW CAPITAL OF PHILIPPINES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—With the fall of Manila, Philippine circles here speculated that the provisional capital might have been transferred to Malolos, 25 miles to the north.

Malolos was the capital of Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo's insurgent government in 1899, when the Filipinos refused to accept American sovereignty following expulsion of the Spaniards.

There appeared little doubt that military headquarters was at Fort Mills, on fortified Corregidor Island at the entrance to Manila bay.

HERE IS A 25 DAY STORY OF WAR IN THE PHILIPPINES

First Japanese Landing Took Place Dec. 10.

Dec. 8—War begins [Dec. 8, Manila time, Dec. 7, United States time], armed forces go on alert. Japanese bombers range over military bases and ports the length of the Philippines, but no raid yet on Manila.

Dec. 9—First air raid alarm in Manila sounds at 12:40 a. m.

Dec. 10—Japanese land at Aparri and Vigan, 250 and 200 miles from Manila; intense excitement but no panic in city; Japanese bombers raid Nichols air field, Fort William McKinley and Nielson airport district.

Dec. 11—Japanese landing at Lingayen, most likely beach for offensive against Manila, reported under control. Japanese battleship Haruna sunk by bombs from plane of Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., who was killed. Kelly first war hero.

Invaders Wiped Out.

Dec. 13—Lingayen invaders wiped out. Japanese try more landings on west coast of Luzon Island but all repulsed, landing at Legaspi, 250 miles southeast of Manila, disclosed.

Dec. 14—Two Japanese transports off Legaspi damaged by American bombers.

Dec. 16—Manila quiet but Olongapo naval base, 50 miles away, bombed for second time; Japanese land attack slackens.

Dec. 18—Manila has first air raid alarm in three days but only light damage caused at Nichols and Zablan air fields; more than 30 planes bomb Port of Iloilo on Panay Island; President Manuel Quezon tells people to have confidence in government and people of United States.

Cavite Base Is Bombed.

Dec. 19—Philippine army inducted into United States armed forces of the far east; two waves of bombers raid naval base at Cavite.

Dec. 20 — Four transports land troops in Davao, Mindanao island, heavy fighting rages; bombs fall wide of Nichols field.

Dec. 21—Manila has an hour air raid alarm; Japanese step up activity around Vigan.

Dec. 22—Battle for Manila begins, Japanese land troops from 80 transports in lingayen gulf; Americans and Filipinos more than hold their own in first fighting;

Japs Land in South.

Dec. 24—Japanese land at Atimonan, 75 miles southeast of Manila; 40 transports in flotilla; Jap planes drop heavy bombs in first raid on Manila port area; United States headquarters considers declaring Manila open city to escape ravages of bombing, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and staff take field.

Dec. 25—Japanese pour more men into Luzon battle; tank units reach area near summer capital of Baguio, another spearhead advancing 25 miles from coast reached Binaloan, 110 miles from Manila.

Dec. 26—Gen. MacArthur declares Manila open city in proclamation dated Dec. 24; air alarms sound in Manila as Japanese strike at nearby objectives; tank battle rages on southern front, artillery duel on northern; anti-aircraft guns in Manila dismounted.

Dec. 27—Japanese reported 83 miles north of Manila at Moncada; Japanese bombers disregard declaration of capital as open city and bomb it for three hours and 17 minutes, many dead and huge fires started in ancient walled city.

Manila Bombed Again.

Dec. 28—Japanese bomb Manila again in utter disregard of its undefended status; raid lasts two hours and four minutes, spreads fires and ruin; Japanese adavance on southern front, little change on the north.

Dec. 29—"Suicide squads" of young Filipinos hold Japanese at least 48 hours, enabling army to reorganize defenses; Manila has air alarm but no raiders; Japanese instead raid island fortress of Corregidor for two hours; Japanese land new forces in southern Luzon.

Dec. 30—Japanese fight to Luisiana and Dolores, each about 45 airline miles southeast of Manila; northern battle line runs east and west thru Zaragoza, 65 miles above Manila, as defenders leave Lingayen area.

Dec. 31—Gen. MacArthur acknowledges Americans and Filipinos "are being pushed back" on northern and southern fronts by Japanese tanks, armored units, infantry and dive bombers; southern battle line only 30 minutes from capital by automobile. Associated Press in New York received information that fall of Manila is imminent.

Jan. 1.—Japanese claim advance so near Manila that gunfire from battlefront can be heard in capital streets; United States war department communique says MacArthur's forces have been regrouped into defensive arc close around Manila.

Jan. 2.—War department announces Manila has been occupied.

JAPS CLAIM U.S. TROOPS RETREAT TO ISLAND FORT

Others Enter the Peaks, Tokio Reports.

TOKIO, Jan. 2 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—Philippine defenders under Gen. Douglas MacArthur tonight were reported officially to have withdrawn to the island fortress of Corregidor and the mountains of Batan peninsula for a "last stand" after the fall of Manila.

Corregidor is at the entrance of Manila bay, 27 miles southwest of the captured island capital, and the peninsula just southward from Luzon, across the bay west of Manila. The official announcement said Americans and Filipinos crossing the bay to Corregidor were subjected to a heavy air assault and declared those in Batan were isolated.

"U. S. Forces Doomed."—Japs.

The Domei news agency said MacArthur himself had established new headquarters at Corregidor.

[The Berlin radio, quoting a Tokio report, said Gen. MacArthur has been wounded in the right shoulder by a shell splinter. In Washington it was said that nothing was known of any injury to the general.]

A Japanese military observer boasted that the entry of Nipponese forces into Manila "not only finally seals the doom of United States armed forces in Luzon but in effect places the entire Philippines under Japanese military dominance."

Domei quoted other commentators as saying the occupation of Manila "has rendered useless the string of powerful American bases about the city, including Corregidor, the Cavite naval base, the Olongapo naval repair station and Nichols and Clark airfields, on which the whole American defense structure of the commonwealth is based."

Give 4 Reasons for Success.

Politically, the fall of Manila was represented as signifying "the elimination from the orient of another stronghold of American imperialism" while economic control of the archipelago, it was pointed out, would place rich resources of cotton, hemp, and sugar at Japan's disposal.

The Japanese success in the Philippines was attributed here to four reasons:

The attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7 "which smashed all American plans to reinforce the Philippines in case of war.

"The overestimation of MacArthur's resources which led to a false sense of security."

"Geographical difficulties involved in defense of the islands.

Fleet Used It as Advance Base in Pacific.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Navy men today did not minimize the significance of the loss of Cavite naval base in Manila bay to the Japanese invaders of the Philippines.

Cavite is America's farthest advanced base for the submarines and other warships of the Asiatic fleet. It meant that the navy must turn to some new point for facilities to maintain, repair, supply, and fuel the undersea boats which are counted upon heavily to harass Japanese naval and commercial shipping movements in oriental waters.

No Warships Taken by Foe.

But navy men said that no submersibles or other warships were taken by the Japanese, owing to evacuation of all craft from the base along with stores, equipment, and records.

A secondary naval base, Olongapo, was still in American hands. Its usefulness was dubious, however, because of the announced withdrawal of most naval forces from the islands and Olongapo's vulnerability to air attack.

Situated on Subic bay, some 50 air miles northwest of Manila, Olongapo had been almost abandoned by the navy until reënforcement of Philippine defenses started recently. A floating drydock, the Dewey, built in the United States and towed across the Pacific, was long stationed there.

Gets New Importance.

A coastal fortification was installed years ago at the entrance of Subic bay, but its strength was rated less than that of other forts safeguarding Manila bay to the south.

Olongapo was given new importance by the new turn of the fighting because of its location—American and Filipino forces are fighting the Japs north and northwest of Manila.

Cavite, occupying a peninsula jutting into Manila bay 10 miles southwest of the capital by road and six miles by water, was headquarters of the 16th naval district.

It was not the base for the Asiatic fleet commanded by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, which uses no shore established operating base.

The entire navy installation was comparatively small in area, taking in about 250 buildings on 50.35 acres in all, but it represented the bulk of approximately $17,470,000 expended by the navy in Philippine installations since American seizure of the Philippine archipelago in 1898.

List Navy's Possessions.

Beside the navy yard, submarine base and hospital, the Cavite area took in a marine barracks, ammunition and mine depot, naval prison, fuel depot, a high power radio station with 17 buildings, a marine railway capable of hauling ships displacing up to 2,000 tons out of the water for overhaul, and a submarine telephone and telegraph cable.

The navy had more than $25,000,000 worth of property and supplies on hand in the Philippines in June this year, most of it located in and around Cavite.

This total does not consider how much material had been sent there from June 30 to the opening of hostilities Dec. 7. Neither did it include the value of planes and ships and other fighting equipment.

JapsSeizeAmericanBishop, 3 Missionaries in China

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—The national council of the Protestant Episcopal church today said it received a cable saying that Bishop Lloyd R. Craighill and three other Episcopal missionaries have been interned by the Japanese at Wuhu, China, where the church has a school. The others, the council said, were Laura Clark of Hamilton, N. C.; Sister Constance Anna of Cleveland, and C. W. Lanphear of Worcester, Mass.

NORMANDIE BEING CONVERTED INTO NAVAL AUXILIARY

Biggest, Fastest Ship of Kind in World.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—The $60,000,000 liner Normandie, once pride of the French merchant marine, is rapidly being converted into the largest and fastest naval auxiliary ship in the world, headquarters of the 3d naval district said today.

Navy officers invited newsmen to her pier and allowed them to interview Lieut. Comm. Lester C. Scott, U. S. N. R., who has charge of converting the 83,423 ton liner into a unit of the fleet.

Several thousand workmen swarmed over the giant liner, painting her a war time gray, sealing up portholes that once gleamed with bright lights, and preparing to lay gun mounts.

Care for Art Treasures.

Naval officers stressed the care being given more than $2,000,000 worth of art treasures, statuettes, painted glass, and other objects, which were removed from the ship to be stored. To be stored also is $20,000 worth of rare wines.

The government's "straight seizure" of the liner means that America will pay France a sum which will be fixed in the Federal Court of Claims after the war.

Comm. Scott would not say how the Normandie would be used.

Hull Heavy with Silt.

Naval officers said the ship, renamed the Lafayette, had accumulated more than seven feet of silt during her two and a half year lay-up at her Hudson river pier. She will have to be drydocked to scrape her hull. A channel must be dredged before she can be moved. Comm. Scott said her engines are in excellent shape.

"We are treating her as gently as possible," an officer said. "We know what this ship means to French pride."

The spacious swimming pool will be removed but the chapel, seating 300 persons, and the theater will remain for the crew. Such famous suites as the Trouville, with its private deck, sharkskin walls, mother of pearl piano, and golden telephones will remain intact but the furnishings will be removed.

Kungsholm Put in Service.

Sweden's largest and finest passenger ship, the 20,067 ton Kungsholm, recently purchased by the United States, was turned over to the government at formal ceremonies today.

Officials said the liner would be sent to Lisbon soon to exchange axis diplomatic officials for American officials.

The navy today took over the 20,614 ton passenger liner Argentina, owned by the maritime commission and announced it would be converted into an auxiliary.

The liner, scheduled to sail tomorrow for South America, had already been loaded with cargo, while approximately 200 passengers had been booked. It is expected to be added to the naval auxiliary fleet.

FROM PHILIPPINES TO THE HOSPITAL —TO SEE BABY SON

Eugene Lange, 20 years old, an air corps mechanic, will arrive here early today, and it's a safe bet he'll make directly for the Michael Reese hospital. His wife, Shirley, 20, and their baby boy, only 4 days old, will be waiting for him. Lange enlisted in the air corps in September, 1940. Last May, when he was scheduled to be sent to the Philippine Islands, he and Shirley were secretly married. He left for the islands shortly after hostilities broke out, but his superiors learned of the marriage and he was sent back on a refugee ship. Friends said he probably will apply for service at Chanute field. His home is at 4825 North Kedzie avenue.

TRIBUNE OFFERS NEW FRIEND OF YANK SERVICE

Will Answer Problems of Military Men.

[The "Friend of the Yank" department in The Tribune will attempt to answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns of the newspaper and personally where stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query. Information on army and navy service also will be given by The Tribune's Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

The war department's order recalling all enlisted army reservists to active duty invoked numerous letters seeking information from THE TRIBUNE'S new department, Friend of the Yanks.

One reservist said: "I was retired from the regular army five years ago as a technical sergeant. Will I go back with that rank or as a private?"

The war department order directing recall of the reservists contained specific assurance that, wherever practicable, a reservist will be recalled in the same rank or specialist rating he held at the time of release from active duty, and also will be reassigned to the same unit or station in which he served.

Rank Always Retained.

Where it is not practicable to reassign the man to his former station, he will be assigned to an arm or service in another station or a replacement training center, but with his old rank.

In other words, a sergeant goes back as a sergeant, a corporal as a corporal, a private 1st class as a P. F. C.

Another reservist asked "Who will pay my fare back to camp?"

The army points out that reservists may either pay their own way to the camp to which they will be ordered and then be reimbursed by the government, or they can apply to the army headquarters in their area for a transportation order allowing them to travel at government expense. They are allowed 75 cents a meal ordinary subistence, or $1 a meal when eating in railroad dining cars en route.

Should Notify Commander.

A third reservist, saying he moved from the west coast since leaving the army, wants to know whether he should report to his former corps area headquarters, or to the headquarters of the corps area in which he now lives.

Sixth corps area officials recommend that such men immediately write to the commanding general of the corps area from which they came, notifying him of their new address, of their present military status, and of their occupation.

Other questions on the recall of reservists will be answered at a later date.

Aviation Cadets.

J. B. C. asks: "I understand the process of signing up aviation cadets has been speeded up by the army. How?"

Reply.

Only recently the many army air corps aviation cadet examining boards to which flying cadets apply have been authorized to make the final decision on such applicants. Previously such boards gave the applicants physical and education examinations, then sent the results to the chief of the air corps in Washington, D. C., for final approval. This no longer is necessary.

Navy Mother.

Mrs. T. W. asks: "My son is in the navy. Is there any organization which I could join to meet the mothers of other navy boys?"

Reply.

There is a Chicago chapter of the Navy Mothers' club, a national organization of navy, marine, and coast guard mothers. Write Mrs. Helen Joyce, Navy Mothers' club, Room 1025, 333 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.

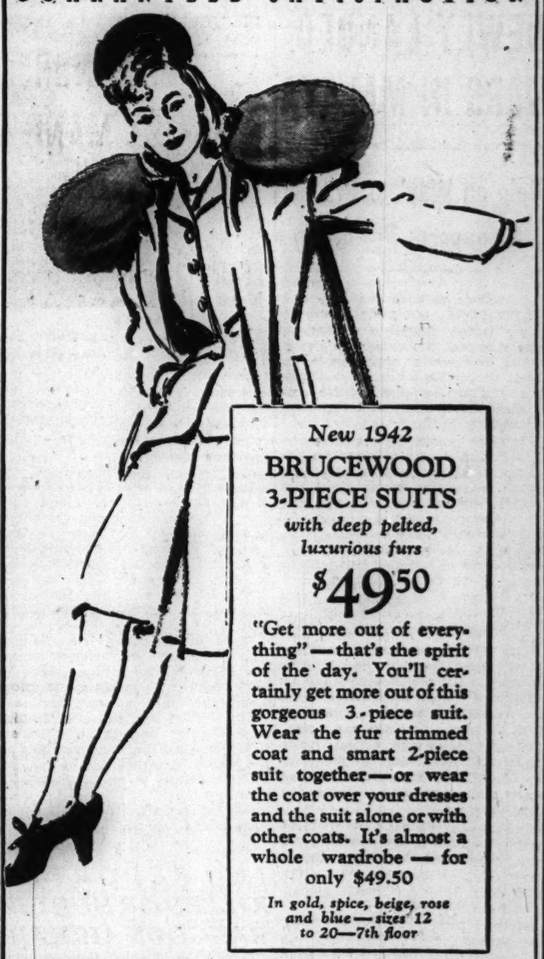

Swedish Merchant Ship Losses in War Put at 122

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—The newspaper Arbetet reported today from Malmo, Sweden, that Swedish merchant ship losses in the war now totaled 122 ships of 483,825 tons and that 779 persons had been killed or were missing and believed dead. Belligerents granted Sweden, a neutral, the right to sail six ships a month to the Americas, but many have been sunk.

BRITISH BATTLE NEWLY LANDED JAPS IN MALAYA

'Help on Way' to Protect Singapore: Pownall.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 2 (AP).—Britain's jungle tested defenders of Malaya were engaged in battle with newly landed contingents of Japanese invaders nearly 300 miles above Singapore tonight, and latest reports stated that the fighting was becoming increasingly heavy.

The more violent fighting developed in west and central Malaya as the British came to grips with the enemy along the main front extending roughly east and west. They moved also to check Japanese who have landed in strength on the lower Perak coast west of the main British positions. Some of the heaviest fighting was in lower Perak province below Ipoh, which is in itself 290 miles above the great Singapore base.

Front Obscure for Days.

Since stating that fighting was under way south of Ipoh on Dec. 29, communiques have not disclosed the location of the west Malaya front.

Information obtainable here indicated, however, that the main positions extended in an irregular 50 mile line from the coast near the mouth of the Perak river across the railroad to the mountains which rise a few miles eastward.

Military quarters have not disclosed the place of the Japanese landing in lower Perak, but maps here define lower Perak as an area between the Perak and Bernham rivers, 270 air miles from Singapore.

Informed persons believe the Japanese landed from fishing boats and other craft found in ports they have occupied on the northwest Malayan coast.

Little to Say About East.

Military quarters had little to say about the situation on the east coast of Malaya, where British patrols and artillery were reported engaging the enemy in the vicinity of Kuantan, 190 miles from Singapore. British quarters were silent on a Tokio report that the port of Kuantan was occupied Dec. 31, but they reiterated that the British still held the airfield there.

As the British struggled to stave off the invaders the highest British authority issued a brief, unelaborated message that "considerable help is on the way."

The exact nature of this aid was not disclosed by Gen. Sir Henry R. Pownall, the new British imperial commander in chief in the far east, but he added simply: "It is intended to fight for every inch of ground down the Malay peninsula."

Air Activity Increases.

Air activity continued heavy on both sides, the Japanese again concentrating on Singapore Thursday night with little success and the RAF striking out against advanced operational bases of the invader.

Specifically, said the communique, British bombers heavily assaulted the enemy airdrome at Gong Kedah Thursday night and early today, dropping explosives on runways and enemy planes, at least two of which were set aflame. Other fires were left in the area.

Japs Raid Malacca Shipping.

TOKIO, Jan. 2 [Official radiio recorded by Associated Press].—Imperial headquarters announced today that Japanese planes sank a 2,000 ton ship and damaged another of 3,000 tons in a New Year's day attack upon enemy transports in the Malacca straits, between Sumatra and the Malay peninsula.

CHINESE ENTER BURMA.

Chungking announced that Chinese troops had entered Burma to join the command of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in chief for India and Burma. Burma, the head of the military supply road to China, long has been considered a likely Japanese objective.

The Chinese military spokesman did not disclose the size of forces already sent to Burma, but he remarked: "We are prepared to send more troops to areas where our assistance is needed."

JAP ARMY LOOTS MALAYA TOWNS, BRITISH ASSERT

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—The British Broadcasting company today relayed the following broadcast by the ministry of information in Singapore describing Japanese looting in northern Malaya:

"In Singapore, the ministry of information has described how the Japanese are looting all the available food, rice stocks, cattle, bicycles, and even shoes from villagers in northern Malaya.

"First of all, the Japanese send a patrol of four or five men, dressed as Malayans, into the village. If there are no British or Indian soldiers there, they come back and return in strong force to terrify the villagers. At the point of tommy guns they make them pile anything they have at the roadside, where it is collected by Japanese transports."

India Invokes Whipping, Death as War Measure

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 2 (AP).—The death penalty and whipping for certain crimes especially in areas under enemy attack "where there is reason to fear that criminal individual organizations may try to take advantage of the situation" were authorized today.

Vultee Plant at Nashville Turning Out Dive Bombers

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 2 (AP).—First production of the Vultee Vengeance dive bomber at the Nashville plant of Vultee Aircraft, Inc., was announced today by plant officials. They described the warcraft as superior to any dive bomber in the air, including the German Stuka.

New Year Recruits

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

For the first time, 10 married men appeared for interviews at the offices of the army air corps along with some 300 others who came to enlist, be interviewed, or "just to look around." Married men, according to a recent change in policy, may become aviation cadets if they can furnish affidavits certifying that their families have sufficient means of support.

Three brothers were among 70 men who enlisted in the United States Coast Guard. They are the Maybornes of Rockford, Ill.—Arthur, 19 years old, Leslie, 20, and Lloyd, 22.

The first to join the navy in 1942 was Chester Runkowski, 17, 2510 North Monticello avenue, and first in the marine corps was Arthur Toepfer, 26, 2011 Leland avenue, a machinist.

Army officials reported 128 additional enlistments, bringing the total since the war began to 1,604.

1,000 REPORTED KILLED OR HURT IN RANGOON AIRRAID

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 30.—[Delayed.]— Casualties in the first mass Japanese air raid upon Rangoon are now known to have totaled 1,000 persons. Losses in a second attack officially were described as negligible.

The Rangoon radio said allied air losses totaled six planes and six flyers in a defense estimated to have cost the Japanese 40 aircraft and 49 airmen.

The wrecks of 20 Japanese planes were said to litter various places about the city and its environs.

JAPS CLAIM 40 PLANES.

Japanese imperial headquarters claimed that 40 British planes were shot down, eight others were set afire on the ground, and a power plant was demolished in the opening raid upon Rangoon Christmas day. It acknowledged the loss of eight Japanese planes, and said another was forced down in neighboring Thailand.

British reports from New Delhi said 10 raiding bombers and 16 fighters were known to have been destroyed and others were probably fatally damaged by the defense guns and flyers.

RUSH TO COLORS EXCEEDS WAVE OF '17 ENLISTMENTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—During the first two weeks of fighting against Japan, recruits to the United States army surpassed the total for the entire month of May, 1917—the second month the nation was in the World war.

Even with a ten day lag in reports from regional headquarters over the nation, 42,657 new men have been listed here and Col. Harold N. Gilbert, chief of recruiting, estimated today the total for the month probably will go as high as 50,000.

During May, 1917—the United States declared war on April 6, 1917—there were only 39,589 enlistments.

The rush to the colors, with recruiting offices of the army, navy, and marine courts working overtime, is expected to increase with the end of the holiday season. All the forces need men.

DARWIN HAS AIR RAID ALERT; JAPS HIT AT AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 2 (AP).—Darwin, the major port on the north coast of Australia, experienced a two hour alert early today, but no Japanese planes appeared. It was the city's second air raid alarm of the war.

Japs Admit Australian Move.

TOKIO, Jan. 2 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Japanese reconnaissance planes were said today to have returned safely from a flight "in the direction of Australia" on an undisclosed mission.

"Aussies" Attack Jap Isle.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 2 (AP).—The Australian air force carried out a small scale attack on ground installations and seaplanes at Kapingama Rangi [southernmost Japanese controled island in the Caroline group, according to a communique issued here today.

Chileans Deny Jap Sub Halted Ship Off Peru

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 2 (AP).—The Chilean owners of the steamship Copiapo denied reports today that the ship had been halted by a Japanese submarine off the Peruvian coast. Unconfirmed reports from Tocopilla, northern Chile, said yesterday that the ship had been halted and that several Japanese submarines were operating in the south Pacific.

WAVELL TO LEAD ALLIES IN PACIFIC, AUSTRALIA HEARS

F. D. R. Silent on Reports from Canberra.

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 2 (AP).—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander for India and Burma, and the first military leader to score a smashing success against the axis, will head the land, sea and air forces in the Pacific, the Australian Associated Press said tonight.

Gen. Sir A. P. Wavell.

[The dispatch apparently referred to command of all allied forces, since a Reuters dispatch from Canberra said Australian Prime Minister John Curtin had "confirmed indirectly" that Wavell was being considered for such a post.]

The press service said it had learned authoritatively that the 58 year old general who laid the groundwork for the conquest of most of Premier Mussolini's African empire was to be the new Pacific commander in chief.

Roosevelt Silent on Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—At his press conference today, President Roosevelt refused to comment upon a report that Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, would be selected as the supreme commander of the allied fleet. Nor would he discuss reports that Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, commander in chief of the Indian forces of Britain, would be named supreme commander of allied land forces in the Pacific theater of war.

MIGHT TOP MACARTHUR.

As commander in chief of the Pacific, Gen. Wavell presumably would take precedence over Gen. Douglas MacArthur, head of the hard-pressed Philippine forces; Adm. Thomas C. Hart, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet; Gen. Sir Henry R. Pownall, the new British far eastern commander at Singapore; Gen. Hein Ter Poorten, Dutch commander at Batavia; Chinese and other chieftains.

Gen. Wavell's headquarters at present is at Simla, India, where he was shifted last July, changing places with Sir Claude Auchinleck, present British middle eastern commander.

A few days ago an ABC [American, British, China] military council was created in Chungking, China. It was composed of Gen. Wavell, Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese generalissimo, and Maj. Gen. George A. Brett, chief of the United States air corps.

3,834 BRITISH PLANES DOWNED IN '41, NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, Jan. 2 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—German sources said tonight that 3,834 British planes had been destroyed in the air by German forces during 1941, not including planes lost on the ground, and that Germany had lost only 1,046 planes on all British fronts. British losses since the start of the war were listed by the Germans at 8,727, inflicted by Germany alone.

Britain announced Thursday night that the axis had lost 4,093 planes in 1941, on the western and middle eastern fronts, not taking into account the more than 5,000 German planes claimed by Russia. British losses for the year were put at 2,189.

U.S. FORCE AIDING DUTCH; AMERICAN WARSHIP IS HIT

Indies Sea-Air Battle Bares Joint Action.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 2 (AP).—United States warships and planes already are helping the small but modern Netherlands fleet defend the Dutch East Indies, the Netherlands command disclosed today in a communique which reported attacks on one United States warship and two planes.

The attacks occurred in the northern part of the archipelago, the communique said.

No serious damage was done to any of the United States or Netherlands warships, it was stated, and no damage at all was sustained by the two United States planes which were attacked in force by enemy aircraft in the same area.

Cite Jap Terror Tactics.

The Dutch communique again stressed the Japanese campaign of systematic terrorization of the native population of the islands by bombing and machine gunning, and gave these new incidents:

1. Three Japanese planes attacked Laboean Bilik on the east coast of Sumatra, west of Singapore, altho the town is devoid of military objectives.

2. Other aircraft similarly attacked Amoerang on Celebes, east of Borneo, and tried without success to fire copra warehouses.

3. One adult and two children were killed by planes bombing and machine gunning Bobo, Dutch New Guinea, and two adults and 12 children were wounded.

Aneta news agency said the toll of an air raid Dec. 29 on Sorong, New Guinea, was three dead and six wounded.

Operate with British, Too!

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The navy said late today it had no information of any damage to United States warships operating in coöperation with naval forces of the Netherlands East Indies.

American naval officials, however, for the first time disclosed that American naval units were coöperating with both the British and the Dutch in Pacific waters.

Netherlands East Indies officials reported from Batavia, the Indies capital, this morning that an American ship had been damaged.

said, always seem to have fresh reserves, while one British battalion, now withdrawn for a rest, fought five fresh enemy battalions in little more than two weeks. Many front line British troops are very tired because of this sort of thing.

The Japs are tough fighters. When greeted by heavy fire they tend to "herd," but they always stand their ground, fighting to the last man. Because of this tendency to advance or make a stand, British officers estimate that the Japanese casualties outnumber those of the imperial forces by far.

Jap Staff Work Good.

High British officers also praise Japanese staff work, saying that as long as Nipponese officers have control Japanese units maneuver very well.

So much for the modern Jap army! Now for the elemental, the primitive characteristics of their fight.

The Japanese is fanatically, suicidally, brave. A British gunner told me how one lone Japanese ran to meet certain death. The Briton's armored car was guarding a withdrawal, when out of a ditch came the Japanese. He was attired in blue shorts, a white shirt, and sneakers and he began strolling slowly toward the armored car, a German-type "potato masher" hand grenade in one hand. Told to halt where he was the Japanese began "running like a rabbit" directly toward the car.

"I let him have it with the machine gun," the gunner added.

Later two similarly clad Japanese emerged from a crowd of natives who had taken refuge in a ditch and opened fire on the armored car with hand grenades, altho it meant summary slaughter for them.

Disguised Troops Lead Attack.

Strange garb for soldiers to be wearing? Not a bit of it. The British have found that almost invariably Japanese attacks are headed by troops dressed as Malayan natives.

On one occasion, they tell me, the Japanese attackers marched three Indian prisoners down the road as shields. Bayonets and tommy guns prodded the prisoners on.

Many Japanese "fifth columnists" have penetrated Malaya, and they give the British considerable trouble—but not for long after they're caught. I saw them bring in one, a Chinaman, about 63 years old, who fought vigorously before he was overpowered. After being questioned he was led away into the rubber trees. Two shots rang out almost immediately. There are many of this type.

Since most British soldiers cannot understand the languages of the Malayans, Tamils, resident Chinese and other types of civilians now wandering aimlessly about, it is particularly difficult to distinguish innocents from "fifth columnists"—altho every care is taken to do so.

Local defense volunteers, who a few weeks ago were European business men in Malay, are now seen in action and their linguistic ability helps in such cases.

15,000 JAPS FALL AS CHINA SPRINGS CHANGSHA TRAP

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 3 [Saturday] (AP).—Fifteen thousand Japanese soldiers were killed or wounded Friday morning in a terrific Chinese counterattack in the outskirts of Changsha, a Chinese communique said today.

The battle still is raging fiercely for the capital of Hunan province.

The communique said the main Chinese forces, which previously had been held back, attacked the Japanese from all directions in a sudden onslaught.

A Chinese spokesman yesterday said Japan apparently was launching a general offensive against China.

The Chinese yesterday described the struggle for Changsha as in its final phase. Japanese occupation of the northern suburbs was acknowledged, but Japanese casualties obviously were enormous.

The Chinese commander of Changsha broadcast last night that the city proper still was held.

The Chinese also were engaged in hand-to-hand fighting in the next eastward province of Kiangsi and were reported directly attacking the wine-making city of Shaohing, in the coastal province of Chekiang, roughly 500 miles northeast of the Changsha battle zone. The Chinese said they had recaptured three points around Shaohing.

The Chinese declared they had executed effective flanking attacks against the Japanese supply lines all the way to the Japanese base at Yochow, 100 miles north of Changsha at the point where Tungting lake joins the Yangtze river.

The Chinese central news agency said scores of villages had been taken in the Milo river region, seriously threatening the Japanese line of supply or retreat.

To the east, the Chinese said they had recaptured Fenchsin, west of Nanchang, in Kiangsi province. Bloody fighting also was reported around Kaoan, 40 miles southwest of Nanchang.

BRITISH CAPTURE BARDIA, LIBYAN POCKET OF AXIS

Reveal How Tank Convoy Aided Defense.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 2.—Bardia fell today and with its capture by South African and British troops came the story of how a convoy of axis trucks loaded with reënforcements and supplies had actually gotten all the way thru from west of Tobruk to the isolated east Libyan stronghold.

Before the final attack more than 1,000 prisoners had been taken. Today about 5,000 more were captured or killed in battle. About 4,000 were Italians, the remainder German troops.

The British said their casualties were light.

Holds Out 46 Days.

Well protected with field fortifications, Bardia had held out for 46 days after the beginning of the present campaign. One ship was reported shelled in the harbor while trying to get supplies in and presumably some supplies got in that way.

Also stiffening the port's resistance was the large measure of help which came overland the night of Nov. 26. Between 300 and 500 vehicles escorted by about 50 tanks got thru. The convoy entered Bardia, left the supplies, ammunition, and men, and left the way it had come.

On the way out the tanks turned aside to overrun and crush the headquarters unit of the 5th New Zealand brigade. Then it attacked Fort Capuzzo and finally retired to the west.

Two Pockets Remain.

As the present British advance got under way six weeks ago, the rest of the territory near the Egyptian frontier fell in the first days of battle, but a few islands, like Sollum, Halfaya [Hellfire] pass, and Libyan Omar held out. Bardia was one of those. Libyan Omar fell a month ago, Bardia today, and Halfaya and the Sollum area still are holding out.

These islands were strongly prepared positions, with entrenchments, mine fields, and other means of defense. The first efforts to march into Bardia met stiff opposition and the British decided that the sensible thing was to cut off the town and let it alone, until it was forced to surrender.

With things going quietly farther to the west, it was decided that the time had come to clean up Bardia and eliminate its nuisance value. Bardia had a nuisance value, like Sollum and Halfaya, because, first, it was a useful little port, and, second, it is on the main east-west highway and helped force the British truck traffic to take a long detour into the desert.

Led by Tanks.

Tanks were sent there to reënforce the infantry and after a few days of feeling out the enemy, the British attacked on Dec. 31 after an artillery barrage and this morning drove thru for the final blow.

British tanks led the South African infantry in, while the air forces, both British and South African, helped with close coöperation. They gave what the army communique calls "invaluable assistance by intensive bombing and low-flying attacks in close support of the troops."

Bardia is not part of the Sollum-Halfaya island of resistance. It was a separate unit, cut off from Sollum by a gap of about 15 miles held entirely by British forces.

1,000 British Freed.

The people who were happiest tonight over Bardia's capture were the more than 1,000 British prisoners collected there in the course of the last seven weeks of fighting, who were released when the town was recaptured by their comrades.

Field artillery, as well as tanks and infantry, played an important part in the capture. It pounded the already battered town heavily before the tanks and troops advanced down the waddies [gullies] that form passes thru the towering escarpment to take the town.

At the other end of the North African battlefield, the air force has been taking a leading part in the last couple of days.

In the last 24 hours, four air forces —the royal, Australian, South African, and "Free French"—combined in a constant hammering of the enemy fighting vehicles and transport.

Mechanized Units Scattered.

Mechanized units and truck convoys were disrupted and scattered and the Australians shot down four Nazi dive bombers and one fighter when they found them trying to attack the British forces.

All along the coast, as far west as Tripoli, the British and imperial aircraft are dominant in the air and have been making life uncomfortable for the retreating Germans and Italians, with particular attention to the region around Agedabia and El Agheila.

The Sollum and Halfaya pocket still represents an obstacle in the middle of the road to the west, but it is the last one and, tho it means a long detour for all traffic along the coast, it is not likely to last long if the British find it worth the trouble of eliminating.

Axis Reports Air Attacks.

ROME, Jan. 2 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—British raids on Misurata and El Melaha, deep in Tripolitania, caused some damage to buildings and civilian casualties, the Italian high command said today, while axis airmen attacked British forces maneuvering from the Agedabia front south of Bengazi.

[The nature of the British raids was not set forth, but they apparently were by air. Misurata is a Mediterranean port 130 miles east and El Melaha a few miles east of Tripoli, the Libyan capital.]

Violent combats were reported on the Agedabia front, near the gulf of Sirate below Bengazi, and the high command declared axis air formations attacked British forces "and pushed them in a northwest direction."

Tells How British Fleet Sank Axis Subs on Route to Bardia

[Larry Allen, seagoing Associated Press correspondent, who has traveled 80,000 miles with the British Mediterranean fleet, is back on the job after recovering from injuries suffered last month in a Mediterranean operation. Below he gives an account of the latest victorious fleet attack.]

BY LARRY ALLEN.

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP QUEEN ELIZABETH OF THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET, AT ALEXANDRIA, Jan. 2 (AP).—A British destroyer squadron sank three axis submarines—two German and one Italian—and was joined by other light units of the imperial fleet in a smashing bombardment of Halfaya [Hellfire] pass and Bardia, helping pave the way for the final capture today of Bardia, bitterly-contested Libyan outpost near the Egyptian border.

Returning from this successful assault against German attempts "to keep Bardia going," units of the attacking force brought back 130 crew members taken prisoner after the axis U-boats were sent to the bottom.

The German and Italian crewmen showed the white flag and piled from their disabled craft after they were forced to the surface by depth charges, Adm. Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, fleet commander, related in an interview aboard this flagship.

Attacked British Ships.

The destroyers Farndale, Kipling, Hasty, and Hotspur accounted for the submarines, which attempted to sink British supply ships and merchantmen bound for Tobruk and Bengazi, while supporting axis supply vessels bound for Bardia.

"During the advance of our army in Libya the enemy appeared to have been making special efforts to interfere with our supplies by sea," Adm. Cunningham said.

"In this they have had little success, while our counterattacking forces have done a great deal of execution."

He said there were indications German submarines are in the eastern Mediterranean in considerable numbers, but that his forces were leaving no stone unturned to meet the menace.

No Return Fire.

In the shelling of Halfaya and Bardia, Adm. Cunningham said the British naval force, including both destroyers and cruisers, poured explosives into the axis bases for half an hour with no sign of answering fire.

The reason this dawn assault went unchallenged, he explained, was because the axis guns "were too busy replying to our army's artillery."

He said remnants of the main German army apparently were falling back upon reserve supplies at Tripoli, where they might make a new strong stand against the British push.

Commenting on increasing axis air assaults upon the island fortress of Malta, the admiral said the foe evidently was trying to neutralize that base both from the standpoint of dockyards and the air.

Can "Look After Itself."

"But I feel Malta will be able to look after itself," he added.

Reviewing the results of the 1941 Mediterranean campaign, he placed the victory in the battle of Matapan, in which the Italians lost three of their heavy 8 inch cruisers and a number of smaller units, as the year's outstanding single achievement.

Now with the British far advanced in Libya, he said the captured harbor of Bengazi could be used by fleet units as an advance base for operations against axis forces fleeing toward Tripoli.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK BY MINE IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Jan. 3 [Saturday] (AP).—The admiralty announced tonight that the 7,175 ton British cruiser Neptune had been sunk by a mine in the Mediterranean. The destroyer Kandahar, which was in the company of the Neptune at the time she sank, also was damaged by a mine and subsequently was sunk by British forces, it was said.

"Statements made by the enemy indicate that some of the ship's company of H. M. S. Neptune have been picked up and are prisoners of war," said the bulletin. The greater part of the crew of the Kandahar was rescued, however, it declared.

[The Neptune, built in 1933, normally carried a complement of 550 officers and men. The Kandahar, a 1,600 ton craft completed in 1939, carried about 180 men.]

The Italian high command reported Christmas day that "in the central Mediterranean British sailors from the ship Neptune [mentioned in an Italian communique Dec. 19] were rescued. They were found near our shores, brought in by the tide."

The Dec. 19 communique had told of attacks by axis planes in which five British cruisers were torpedoed.

WHAT'S IN NAME? STREET IN BARDIA GETS 5 IN YEAR

WITH BRITISH FORCES AT BARDIA, Libya, Jan. 2 (AP).—The British flag was hoisted today from the municipal building on Bardia's main street, originally called the Via Benito Mussolini.

Australian troops on entering the town a year ago had changed the name to Ned Kelly street, for a famous Australian bandit who is the counterpart of Robin Hood. The British upon taking over from them called it Churchill street.

Later, when the Germans regained control they named it Adolf Hitler strasse. The South Africans today chalked up "Smuts avenue," after the famous South African leader, Jan Christiaan Smuts.

34,766 CONVICTED BUT BLACK MART WORRIES BRITAIN

Thefts from Railways Are Headache Also.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Despite an official announcement today that 34,766 food law violators have been convicted since the outbreak of the war, members of parliament are reported dissatisfied with Food Minister Lord Woolton's new plans to smash the black [illegal] markets by taking the profit out of crime. Fines up to three times the value of the goods sold, as well as the standard fine of up to $400, are provided.

During November alone, official statistics disclosed, there were 2,400 prosecutions in the courts under the food control orders, of which 2,228 were successful.

Apart from direct black market operations, the authorities are reported worried by the fact that claims for lost goods on the railways are mounting steeply—in some London depots thefts have increased 300 per cent above the prewar level. The rationing of food and clothing has increased the temptation to steal and the blackout makes it easy.

Union Counsels Members.

The National Union of Railwaymen called its members' attention to the epidemic of thefts and emphasized the folly of throwing away characters and jobs for goods usually worth a few shillings. Silk stockings, cigarets, and whisky are the goods chiefly stolen by petty thieves.

Railway police and Scotland Yard men are reported to be hunting for an organized gang whose agents are believed to be working as clerks, porters, and in other railroad jobs. In one big London depot a conspiracy is said to have been discovered whereby false labels were attached to packages, thereby consigning them to the receiving center for black market operations.

It has been estimated that the country's loss in food, clothing, and war materials in transit averages between $40,000 and $48,000 weekly.

Deliveries to Be Curbed.

In a move to conserve gasoline, rubber, and man power, Col. J. J. Llewillin, parliamentary secretary for the war transport ministry, announced today that his department, in coöperation with the food ministry, has decided that shopkeepers' deliveries will be "rationed" in the future.

Suggested methods are: Shops in the same locality would pool their vehicles, limiting the areas in which deliveries might be made and restricting deliveries of certain goods to certain days. Thus, groceries and provisions might be delivered on only one day weekly, and fish and meat on two or three days. The delivery of milk and bread will not be affected immediately.

For the first time in many months butchers reported that plentiful supplies of pork are available in London this week-end. Popular varieties of fish, such as rock salmon and kipper, are on sale at 16 to 31 cents a pound, and smoked salmon is available to persons willing to pay the price of $4 a pound.

Apples are a rarity. Rhubarb is priced at 16 cents a stick and Christmas puddings still are on sale at 45 cents a pound.

COLLECTOR ROBBED OF $900.

H. Jerry Hollinger, 838 South Clinton avenue, Oak Park, a collector for the Monte Carlo Ale company, 3815 Grand avenue, was robbed of $900 cash and $300 in checks by two Negroes who accosted him in front of a store at 223 East 51st street.

SOVIET PINCERS PERIL NAZIS ON MOSCOW FRONT

Key Town Retaken, Reds Menace Big Salient.

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—New disaster threatened the German salient west of Moscow tonight after Red army forces reoccupied Maloyaroslavets, about 65 miles to the south, tightening pincers fashioned from the Nazis' own plan.

The soviet thrust to Maloyaroslavets, 30 miles south of the German advance position, and a companion Red army drive to Staritsa, 80 miles northwest, left the Germans facing the prospect of encirclement or a hazardous retreat of more than 80 miles from Mozhaisk to Vyazma.

[According to a dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, the Russians have given the estimated 150,000 German troops in the Mozhaisk region until 2 p. m. Saturday to surrender "or take the consequences."]

Even before the capture of Maloyaroslavets, the Russian westward push to Staritsa and Kaluga had thrust deep salients into the Nazi lines both above and below Mozhaisk, menacing the rear of that position. Mozhaisk, under the fire of Russian artillery, seems about to collapse.

Swing Around Mozhaisk.

As the southern claw of the Red army shaped up, the Red drive was swinging around Mozhaisk, barndoor fashion from a point hinged in the vicinity of reclaimed Narofominsk, some 30 miles southeast of the exposed German strongpoint.

With Maloyaroslavets back in their hands, the Russians appeared further to have blasted the Germans from the entire 100 mile length of the rail line from Moscow to Kaluga.

[A special Moscow communique early today reported more than 15,000 Germans were killed from Dec. 26 to 31.]

In order to straighten their line from Staritsa to Kaluga, to use the German term, it appears necessary for the Nazis to fall back on Vyazma, 140 miles from Moscow.

Vyazma is roughly half-way between Mozhaisk and Smolensk. Smolensk is reported to be the scene of Adolf Hitler's new Moscow front headquarters. It is some 230 air miles from Moscow.

The correspondent of Pravda, Moscow communist newspaper, reported from the Kalinin-Staritsa front that Staritsa, 125 miles northwest of Moscow, was part of a powerful defensive line.

This line was cracked when the Red army took Staritsa on New Year's day. Its southern bastions were broken on the Oka and Nara rivers when the Russians took Kaluga, 110 miles southwest of Moscow, and routed six army corps.

Nazis Claim Red Attacks Foiled.

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP).—The German high command communique today reported Russian break-thru attacks at numerous points on the eastern front were "cut up and others were eliminated." Destructive German air attacks were reported and "strong bomber and fighter formations" were said to have attacked "enemy forces landed at Feodosiya [Theodsia], in the Crimea, and port installations." A medium sized merchant ship and a small warship were reported sunk.

Finns Change Name of Front.

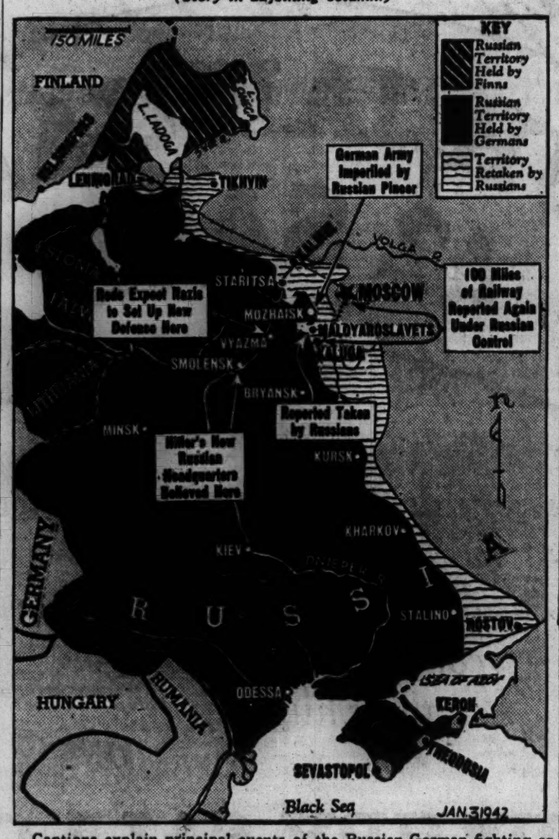

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 2 (AP).—The Finnish high command communique today changed the name of the Russian war front between Lakes Onega and Ladoga to the Aunus isthmus front.

This front has been referred to until now as the Svir river front, but the new name was geographically justified by the fact that the isthmus embodies the ancient Karelian Finnish province of Aunus.

[Since the Svir river cuts thru the isthmus at its east side, the inference was that Finnish troops probably had withdrawn westward to a line still between the lakes, but too far from the river to justify continued reference to it as the Svir river front.]

NAZIS REPORTED BUILDING 3 LINES TO HALT RUSSIA

Two in Poland, Third to Guard Germany.

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 2.—Apparently fearing a sweeping Russian counter offensive, the Germans are reliably reported to be feverishly building three lines of defense, the third of which is designed to protect Germany proper.

The first line is being built along the Polish-Russian frontier. Here the Germans are rebuilding the Russian fortifications which have been called the "Stalin line." The Russian fortresses and dug-outs naturally were directed toward Poland and now the Germans are turning them around. This line passes just west of Minsk and covers the Pinsk marshes. A large strip of this territory had been cleared of civilians and declared a prohibited zone.

Work Halted, Then Resumed.

The second line is stronger and follows the river Bug, which also was the line of demarcation between Russia and the German occupied Poland in the days of Russo-German "friendship." Here the Germans' task is easier, because they started to fortify the river immediately after the occupation of Poland, despite the "friendship."

The work on the fortifications is said to have been halted after the German attack on Russia, probably because the Germans could not imagine the danger of a Russian recrossing of this line. Work on these fortifications was resumed toward the beginning of December.

The third line of fortifications is being built along the river Oder. Located in Germany near the old Polish border, this line betrays German worry over the possibility of Russia dislodging them from all of Poland.

Civilians Reported Conscripted.

Confident that the Poles never would attack them, the Germans had almost neglected to fortify the Oder line, which in itself presents a strong natural defense. Now steel and concrete bunkers are said to be rising along this river, more than 500 miles from the old Russo-Polish frontier and twice as far from the present battlefields of Russia.

Apart from Polish prisoners working on the Oder line, it has been reliably reported that 60,000 Polish civilians have been conscripted for work on the two other lines. Ill-clad and undernourished, they are said to be dying in masses in the bitter cold.

Now It Can Be Told: 2 Inch Snow Blankets Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—Southern California had a most unusual New Year's. The complete story couldn't be told until today. It was unusual enough not to welcome the new year with noisy street parades, or Pasadena's Tournament of Roses and football game, or Santa Anita race track's handicap. But on top of all that it snowed. A mantle as deep as two inches covered scattered sections of the city, and many a youngster built his first snowman. It was 10 years since the last snow fell in the city.

CHARGES 180,000 CROATS SLAIN BY NAZI TERRORISTS

Serbian Prelate Tells of Massacre.

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—The archbishop of the Serbian orthodox church reported today that more than 180,000 persons had been massacred in the axis created state of Croatia alone since the fall of Jugo-Slavia.

His report, made public by the Jugo-Slav legation, was replete with individual instances of torture by Nazi supported elements.

The archbishop reported that in the village of Korito 163 persons were tortured, tied into bundles of three and thrown into a pit.

Toss Bombs at Victims.

"When it was found that some were still alive, the Ustashi [Croat extremists] threw bombs among them to finish them off," he reported. "Eventually, 226 bodies were consigned to the pit and subsequently petrol was poured into it and set afire," the report said.

Between July 25 and July 30, 1941, more than 500 persons at Krupa "were cut to pieces with knives and scythes" and the bodies thrown into a river, the archbishop said.

Digs Grave for Son.

The archbishop cited the case of a clergyman "who was ordered to dig a grave for his student son who had been tortured to death in front of him.

"Then the parent was made to read the burial service," the archbishop added. "Three times he fainted but was revived each time and finally tortured and murdered on the same spot.

"Four men in another village were crucified on the doors of their homes before being mutilated and killed."

FIVE BAIL OUT OF CRIPPLED ARMY BOMBER

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—The army reported that a four motor bomber, a B-24, its landing gear disabled since 3 p. m., crashed near Imperial Beach tonight, but that the crew of five parachuted safely.

Names of the crew members were not released. An army spokesman said the plane was not destroyed and no extensive fire resulted because of the small amount of gasoline remaining in the tanks.

The bomber's landing gear apparently was damaged in a takeoff in central California. The pilot notified army headquarters of his plight and was advised to fly to San Diego, where a clinic of aircraft experts would be assembled at the Lindbergh field control tower. The craft arrived about 5 p. m., and a crew of ground experts tried to prescribe remedies but the trouble could not be corrected.

A few minutes before 9:30, the pilot reported: "No. 1 engine is gone. We're going to start crawling out now. We are flying over the field and heading for the water."

The navy and coast guard stood by with boats to pick up the airmen who might land in the ocean.

ALASKAN ASKS PLANES AND BASE TO THWART JAPS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Immediate strengthening of the strategic Aleutian Islands, potential Pacific ramparts for the rich territory of Alaska, and concentration in the area of "planes, more planes—lots of planes" was urged today by Alaska's delegate to congress, Anthony J. Dimond.

From his intimate knowledge of the region Dimond contended that any Japanese offensive directed against Alaska necessarily would start in the Aleutian Islands, which stretch in stepping-stone fashion almost to Asia. He also suggested that an attempt be made by this country to lease from soviet Russia the Komandorsky Islands—which lie near the Asiatic tip of the Aleutian chain—both for self protection and as a closer base for aerial operation against Japan.

"What happened at Guam is enough to tell us what we should do on the islands off Alaska," Dimond said. "If we have sufficient planes, Alaska itself won't be in danger."

Ensign and Cadet Killed in Crash of Naval Plane

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP).—Ensign George W. Gentle Jr. of Cleveland, O., and Aviation Cadet William Benjamin Sprague Jr., 25, of Spokane, Wash., were killed today when their monoplane crashed near the naval air station here. Cause of the crash has not been determined.

JAPS TO SEEK STRICT RUSSIAN NEUTRALITY; FEAR U. S.-BRITISH AID

BERLIN, Jan. 2 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Dispatches from Tokio today quoted an editorial in the newspaper Hochi which declared that "we must ask the soviets to observe most strictly the stipulations of the neutrality pact with Japan and to reject Anglo-American machinations energetically and immediately."

"Recent reports anent closer Anglo-American coöperation," the article was quoted as saying, "and the understanding reached between Churchill and Roosevelt to induce soviet Russia to increase its help for England and the United States, reveal the efforts of the western democracies to drag the soviet completely to their side. We could not look disinterestedly at such a development."

VICHY WAR GUILT JUDGE RESIGNS; NAZIS SEE PLOT

BERLIN, Jan. 2 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—Vichy dispatches tonight said the president of the Riom supreme court, which was created to handle France's war-guilt trials, had resigned, "causing a sensation in Vichy."

"Postponement of the trial by some weeks already had led to the belief that influential forces are at work trying to postpone the trial until after the war," the German dispatch said.

The president of the court, Henri LaGarde, was reported to have given reasons of health for his resignation, but the Nazi correspondent said Vichy circles "do not quite believe this version."

Instead, he said, some quarters in Vichy felt LaGarde "was prompted by the full realization of the difficulties of handling the matter to be brought up for hearing."

CANADA MAKES WHEAT FUEL FOR WAR MACHINES

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 2 (AP).—Canada's ever-increasing production of tanks and other war machines may some day operate with fuel derived from wheat.

Altho production of this fuel is in primary stages, Solon Low, provincial treasurer, said today the government, in collaboration with Vancouver distillers is accumulating data which will be of invaluable assistance.

"So far the experiments have been quite satisfactory," Low said, "and we are also experimenting on automobiles in Edmonton with anti-freeze made from our wheat." He said the Vancouver plant is purchasing quantities of Alberta's surplus wheat and abstracting alcohol, which tested 85 per cent proof.

26 NATIONS SIGN PACT FOR FINISH FIGHT UPON AXIS

Washington Accord Bars Separate Peace.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—A pact for a fight to the finish against Germany and its allies has been signed by 26 nations, the White House announced today.

An agreement that none of the signatory countries will conclude a separate peace with the axis was one phase of the declaration which emerged from the conversations here of President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, British prime minister. Churchill has expressed in public his scorn of the French government for making a separate peace.

One part of the declaration said each nation pledged itself "to employ its full resources, military or economic, against those members of the tripartite pact [Germany, Italy, and Japan] and its adherents with which such government is at war."

Russia One of Signers.

Observers said this was of significance with regard to Russia, one of the signers of the agreement. Russia is not at war with Japan and therefore, under the agreement, need not use its military strength against the Japanese.

The document, signed yesterday on the first day of 1942, listed as the three leading nations "the United States of America, by Franklin D. Roosevelt," "the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, by Winston Churchill, and "on behalf of the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, by Maxim Litvinov, ambassador."

The declaration stated it was based upon "a common program of purposes and principles embodied in the joint declaration of the President of the United States of America and the prime minister of the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland, dated Aug. 14, 1941, known as the Atlantic charter." [Roosevelt and Churchill drew up the "charter" on a battleship in the Atlantic.]

Other Signers of Pact.

In addition to the signatures of Roosevelt, Churchill, and Litvinov, the following names were affixed to the document:

National government of the republic of China, by Tze-ven Soong, minister of foreign affairs; the commonwealth of Australia, by R. G. Casey; the kingdom of Belgium, by Count R. V. D. Straten; Canada, by Leighton McCarthy; the grand duchy of Luxemburg, by Hughes le Gallais; the kingdom of the Netherlands, by A. Loudon; New Zealand, by Frank Langstone; the republic of Nicaragua, by Leon de Bayle; the kingdom of Norway, by W. Munthe de Morgenstierne; the republic of Panama, by Jaen Guardia; the republic of Poland, by Jan Ciechanowski; the republic of Costa Rica, by Luis Fernandez; the republic of Cuba, by Aurelio F. Concheso; Czecho-Slovak republic, by V. S. Hurban; the Dominican republic, by J. M. Troncoso; the republic of El Salvador, by C. A. Alfaro; the kingdom of Greece, by Cimon P. Diamantopoulos; the republic of Guatemala, by Enrique Lopez-Herrarte; republic of Haiti, by Fernand Dennis; the republic of Honduras, by Julian R. Caceres; India, by Gira Shankar Bajpai; the union of South Africa, by Ralph W. Close, and the kingdom of Jugo-Slavia, by Constantin A. Fotitch.

Heralded by Roosevelt.

At his press conference earlier in the day Mr. Roosevelt told correspondents to expect an important announcement. There had been expectations that a plan for unity of allied action, especially in the Pacific, had been completed. The President's only comment was that the Atlantic charter which he and Mr. Churchill drew up at sea last August applied not only to the Atlantic but to the entire world.

"It is a living proof," remarked Secretary of State Cordell Hull, "that law-abiding and peace-loving nations can unite in using the sword when necessary to preserve liberty and justice, and the fundamental values of mankind."

ENEMY ALIENS START TURNING IN THEIR RADIOS

Scores of enemy aliens yesterday visited police stations thruout the Chicago area to deposit their short wave radios and cameras in compliance with a recent government order.

Among the first was John A. Reggiani, 62 years old, owner of a restaurant at 2018 Prairie avenue, a native of Italy, who handed in a radio to Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Central police.

United States District Attorney J. Albert Woll issued temporary instructions to all police in regard to the impounding of the articles pending arrival of official orders. He stipulated that police take the serial numbers of the articles received, make out the receipt in duplicate, and be certain that the alien signs both copies.

CONGRESS BOWS OUT, GETS READY FOR NEW SESSION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The historic first session of the 77th congress came to a quiet end today, with last minute speeches in both the house and senate reflecting deep concern over the war.

By prearrangement, the senate's work was completed at 12:22 p. m., when that chamber adjourned. The house wound up at 12:46 p. m. Among the members, who in other years bade noisy farewells to their colleagues, there was no celebration.

The second session will open Monday. Work will begin almost immediately, with President Roosevelt scheduled to address a joint session Tuesday. His budget message will be presented a day or two later.

Peter Zopf, 29 years old, 3751 Greenview avenue, and Miss Myrtle Whyte, 33, of 4636 Malden street, yesterday obtained the first marriage license issued in Cook county this year. The couple had been waiting outside the marriage bureau 45 minutes when the office opened at 9 a. m. Zopf, a salesman, said he met Miss Whyte two years ago on a "blind date." After obtaining the license the couple hurried to the Marriage court and were married in the first 1942 ceremony performed by Judge John J. Wallace.

STUDY REMOVAL OF ARMS PLANTS TO INLAND AREAS

Chicago Looked Upon as Logical Site.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The possibility of moving vital arms plants, such as airplane and engine factories, away from coastal danger zones is being studied by the government, President Roosevelt disclosed today.

The President indicated that the studies include plans for moving important sections of plants at a moment's notice, with the assembly line located far from units producing individual parts, if necessary.

The process under study does not mean the relocation of an entire defense plant, Mr. Roosevelt emphasized. He said it might mean that certain divisions of a plant would be geared to be moved, at any time, to a great many different locations.

In some instances, he said, there might be a duplication of facilities to prevent an interruption of production by bombing.

Long Urged by Experts.

Location of America's main arsenal in the interior of the country long has been advocated by leading military observers, despite a government tendency to place contracts for the building of numerous gun and munitions plants and airplane factories on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards.

Since the attack on Pearl Harbor, the California blackouts have served to emphasize the importance of inland sites for arms production.

Chicago, with its supply of trained workers, its rail and waterway transportation facilities, and its proximity to basic raw materials is cited frequently as one of the most logical places for locating new arms plants remote from blackouts and the peril of enemy attacks by sea and air.

Looks to Seven Day Week.

On the question of arms production, the President said he expects to receive over the week-end a report on the inauguration of the seven day work week in armament industries. The seven day week, he said, will be the best method in some cases of obtaining an immediate production increase.

A temporary problem of unemployment has been created by the OPM order halting sales of new passenger cars, the President conceded. He said he had received a number of reports from labor leaders in the automotive industry showing virtually a 100 per cent understanding of the matter.

They realize, he said, the need for retooling auto factories so they can produce war equipment; that many employés must be out of work for a while. Asked whether workmen might be out of work for six months, the President said he would guess that the average would be two months.

McNary Protests Move.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Senator Charles McNary [R., Ore.] today protested to Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, against a proposal to locate at least 400 miles inland all defense plants planned for Pacific coast states.

The senator interpreted the proposal as meaning that a 20 million dollar government financed aluminum fabricating plant planned for construction at Fairview, Ore., will be built instead at a site far to the east.

After conferences with various officials McNary said he found that the OPM, the interior department and the Reconstruction Finance corporation were willing for the Fairview plant to remain at its present site but that army and navy officials believed it should be built at another site.

The senator said he believed no move should be made at this time and none should be planned until the present "hysteria" subsides.

DUCE TO SILENCE 'WAR OBSTACLES' IN ITALY TODAY

ROME, Jan. 2 [ANDI Agency to Associated Press.].—Benito Mussolini will address party leaders tomorrow and the newspaper Il Picolo said he would give orders "clear and precise" on elimination of "obstacles" to coöperation between the home and war fronts.

Fascist leaders thruout Italy have been ordered to read in public Mussolini's speech of Jan. 3, 1925, soon after the death of the Socialist and anti-Fascist Giacomo Matteoti. In that speech Mussolini gave the Fascist slogan of "Basta" [enough] and said in reference to the anti-Fascist movement that "when two parties are struggling, the solution lies in force. There has never been another solution and there never will be."

Il Picolo said the problem now is one of solidifying the country, and the Fascist party's mission is "unequivocal and irrevocable."

Plans for Strict Rationing Told by Henderson.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Commandeering of passenger cars now in owners' hands was described as a "gloomy possibility" this afternoon by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

He also told a press conference he could see no possibility of any passenger car production for the duration of the war after factories assemble their present inventories of parts and materials. He pictured a future of further curtailments on civilian consumption.

"If you think it's tough now," he said, "you ain't seen nothing yet. Wait until about March or April."

War Held Key to Future.

"Do you foresee cities without taxicabs?" a reporter asked.

"That depends upon how soon we can whip the Japs," he answered.

Earlier in the day the Office of Emergency Management said the rubber shortage, the most acute shortage affecting automobile operation and production, may last five years—unless imports from the far east can be renewed.

Henderson said the motor car industry now has 213 million dollars' worth of parts and materials and that approximately 100 million dollars' worth of material is to be used in assembling 200,000 more automobiles. The remaining 113 million dollars' worth of stock will be reserved for replacements of worn or broken parts, he said, and the industry will continue to make parts.

Rationing to Exceed Tire Rules.

"These 200,000 cars, plus 450,000 new cars now in dealers' hands, comprise a pool that will not be replenished until the war ends," Henderson said. "After they are gone, there won't be any more. So we're going to be even more strict in rationing than we were in the tire quota order, which was pretty tough."

"And then when cars are needed for essential service," asked a reporter, "will the government have to requisition from private owners?"

"I don't like to stick my neck out," Henderson replied, "but that's a gloomy possibility."

"How soon?"

Export of Cars Held Likely.

"The 650,000 cars won't last long," Henderson replied. "The military is likely to want some of them, and I believe some will be exported to South America in return for military supplies."

"What about used cars?"

"I don't know what's to be done about them," he said. "We talked to the used car dealers. Our boys in the back room know how to fix their prices if we have to do it. There are going to be more demands upon civilian economy. On washing machines and refrigerators, for example, we're more likely to curtail supply than we are to ration. The military also is making heavy requirements upon the railroads."

Parley Set for Monday.

Returning to the subject of new automobiles, on which production was halted and dealers' stocks were frozen last night, Henderson said he and others would confer Monday with the automobile industry and with auto union executives to determine ration and production programs.

"In addition to the acute rubber shortage," he said, "another reason for ending car assembly is that all of the facilities of the industry—the floor space, the labor, and the equipment—are needed for armaments. The factory inventories can be used up by about Feb. 1. By March 15 the plants will be ready for capacity output of military vehicles and munitions."

Henderson was not encouraging on the shortage of tires for the 28 million passenger cars now in operation. The OEM reported it would take at least five years to replace a deficit of 600,000 tons a year of crude rubber that had been imported from the far east. A survey showed that not more than 15,000 tons was available annually from the Amazon valley and only 7,000 tons can be obtained this year from Mexico and the United States.

War Upsets Calculations.

"On Dec. 10, when we cut future automobile production by 50 per cent," said Henderson, "we didn't anticipate the serious turn of the war in the far Pacific. We didn't contemplate a complete shut down. There was talk of meeting civilian needs with a 'victory car,' a single model affording bare transportation. All such considerations have now ended.

"In the distribution of the few cars now available for the rest of the war, only those with an AAA or a super AAA rating are going to get one. It'll probably be more strict than the tire rationing."

Under the tire rationing rules only physicians, policemen, firemen and the like will get new rubber. It will be impossible to obtain new tires for the typical family car and even the taxicab and the traveling salesman's machine.

Retread Capacity Static.

"We'll provide rubber to retread old tires," Henderson said, "but we haven't enough rubber to increase the number of molds and increase the capacity of the retreading industry.

"The tires to be made of reclaimed rubber aren't good for essential services—they require reduced speeds, are good only for 6,000 to 9,000 miles, and you really will have to carry around a dolly for changing them on the road.

"Tough?" he answered a reporter, rolling a long cigar in his mouth, "wait until March or April!"

A photograph of a number of MacMurray college girls was published in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Oct. 19 on the "Youth on the Campus" page. Among those pictured was Miss Betty Lindsay Roseberry of Paris, Ky., a senior. Among those who saw the picture was Harry Smith, an English teacher at the University of Wisconsin.

He wrote to Betty. She wrote back. He invited her to the Wisconsin-Minnesota game. She went. On Dec. 14th Smith, a lieutenant in the army reserve, was called to duty and assigned as an instructor at St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis. On Dec. 21 Miss Roseberry and Lieut. Smith were married.

This information was received yesterday from Mrs. William Blanton of Paris, Ky., Betty's mother. Mrs. Blanton wrote to ask for a copy of the paper containing the picture and to say that Paris is "much agog with the romance."

SENATE UNIT OK'S BILL TO CREATE U. S. PRICE CZAR

the sale of newspapers, periodicals, books, and radio time.

The committee adopted an amendment by Sen. Taft authorizing trade associations and other representatives of producers, wholesalers, retailers, etc., to enter into voluntary agreements with the administrator for the establishment of maximum prices. This would exempt such agreements from liability to prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

The house bill provides that no ceiling shall be established for any agricultural commodity which is [1] below 110 per centum of the parity price or [2] below the market price for such commodity on Oct. 1, 1941, or [3] below the average price for such commodity during the period July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1929.

Eliminate One Provision.

The senate bill eliminates the third condition. In the case of cotton, potatoes, lambs, butterfat, chickens, and turkeys, the 10 year 1919-'29 price was higher than the Oct. 1, 1941 price or the equivalent of 110 per centum of parity. Thus the senate change would permit the establishment of prices for those commodities somewhat below those which could be fixed under the house bill.

The senate bill contains a provision authorizing the President to transfer the function of price fixing for agricultural products from the price administrator to the department of agriculture. Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard advocated this provision and it was supported by farm bloc members who have accused Henderson of fixing maximum farm prices too low.

SINKING OF 3 SUBS IN 66 HOUR FIGHT TOLD BY CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 2 (AP).—Three German submarines and possibly more were sunk in a 66 hour running battle against U-boats attacking a Canadian-protected convoy in the Atlantic last summer, the royal Canadian navy announced today.

Some units of the convoy were lost, the statement said, but added the greater part of the convoy reached English ports.

The counterattack against the submarines was directed by the Canadian destroyer Skeena, whose commander, Lieut. Comm. J. C. Hibbard, was promoted to acting commander in recognition of his exploit.

Example and Table Illustrate How Parity Sets Farm Prices

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Parity prices, one of the conditions in both the senate and house price fixing bills for governing the ceiling on agricultural products, are variable prices intended to give the farmer a purchasing power in terms of non-agricultural commodities equivalent to the ratio prevailing from 1909 to 1914.

Wheat Parity Is $1.39.

As shown in the following table, the actual price of wheat on Nov. 15 was 93.4 cents per bushel while the parity price was 126.4 cents. A 110 per cent of the parity price was 139 cents. Thus, under either the senate or house bill, the price of wheat could not be fixed below $1.39 a bushel.

Moreover, since the parity price fluctuates in relation to industrial prices, it will go still higher unless the industrial price rise is halted.

Following is the complete table of farm price examples under the pending legislation as supplied in the official transcript of the proceedings before the senate committee [prices the nearest cent]:

Wool uniforms and overcoats were expected to be received next week. The army authorized use of regulation olive drab uniforms to replace the blue cotton uniforms of the reserve militia.

6 NAVY CAPTAINS ARE NOMINATED REAR ADMIRALS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—President Roosevelt today nominated six navy captains for temporary rank as read admirals. The group included John R. Beardall, naval aide to the President, and Capt. Olaf M. Hustvedt, at last reports commander of the battleship North Carolina.

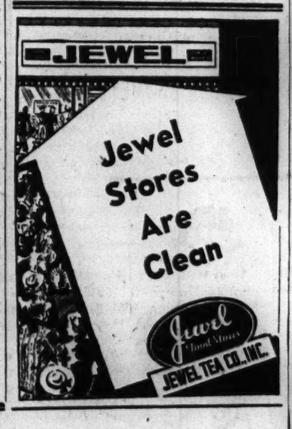

The other captains named for advancement are Willis A. Lee Jr., 53, of Owenton, Ky., who was named director of fleet training a year ago; William R. Purnell, 55, of Bowling Green, Mo., last reported on duty as chief of staff to the commander of the Asiatic fleet; William Ward Smith, 53, of Springfield, N. J., last reported on the staff of the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, and Theodore S. Wilkinson, 53, of Rosslyn, Va., named director of naval intelligence one year ago.

TRANSIT UNITY URGED TO ABATE AUTO SHORTAGE

Voluntary unification of operations to meet transportation needs growing out of curtailment of the use of automobiles and expansion of war industries was urged upon Chicago's metropolitan transportation systems yesterday by the City club of Chicago.

Herman L. Ellsworth, president of the civic organization, sent a report of its local transportation committee to all companies and public officials concerned. Among the proposals were operating unification of steam and electric suburban railway, elevated, bus, and street car lines; universal transfers in the metropolitan area; elimination of bus routes paralleling other types of transportation and extension of bus routes to suburban areas where workers now depend on autos; and operation of the Dearborn street subway, and the Logan square, Humboldt park, and possibly Douglas park elevated lines by the Chicago Surface lines.

U. S. HAS ENOUGH HORSES TO TAKE PLACE OF TRUCKS

However, Wagons Scarce, Stockman Says.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Companies that are planning eventually to replace their delivery trucks with horses will find plenty of animals, but an acute shortage of horse drawn vehicles, according to Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America.

Speaking of the effect of the stoppage of automobile sales on the horse and mule markets, Dinsmore said yesterday that many groceries, bakeries, and milk companies had been making inquiries as to the availability of horses to replace their trucks.

Enough Horses for Needs.

"The effect of the auto restrictions will not be felt for at least six months, Dinsmore said, "but at the end of this time there undoubtedly will be a considerable increase in the value of horses and mules.

"Fortunately this country has enough animals to meet the nation's needs altho the horse and mule population has been declining steadily for the last 30 years. There are more than 14,000,000 head on farms and in cities now," he said.

However, only a few concerns are still manufacturing horse drawn vehicles," Dinsmore continued, "and when the various companies start to make the change to horses they will find it difficult to obtain wagons of any type."

Market Steady.

A light spring wagon with a 1,000 pound capacity will cost about $120, Dinsmore said. Heavier wagons will run $20 to $50 more. It costs about 50 cents a day to feed, bed, and shoe a horse. "These figures should appeal to some concerns that have the expense of a fleet of delivery trucks," he said.

The horse and mule market has remained steady for the last six months according to Dinsmore. A pair of good farm chunks, horses standing about 15½ hands high and weighing around 1,500 pounds each, will bring close to $300, Dinsmore said. Big, choice draft horses are worth $600 a pair. A pair of good mules will bring $350 to $400. A light delivery horse suitable for city work is worth from $85 to $100, he said.

"Justice Deferred"

INSTALMENT XLVIII.

GOOD-BYS.

On the way back to the hotel Jim Fallon said, "If anybody asks me, I'm doggoned glad this war is over.

"We'll burn the road back to Texas tomorrow morning," his employer said.

"I been lying awake nights worrying about just how and when they would get you," Jim confessed. "And I done considerable sweatin' on my own account, too. If I was a drinking man I'd sure go on a bust to celebrate."

"If you would rather stay at the A C ranch I reckon we can arrange that with the Clintons," Jack mentioned. "You wouldn't be in any danger now, altho Brad might make it a little unpleasant for you. I have a job for you on my ranch. The question is whether you want to leave the neighborhood where you have spent most of your life."

"No, sir," Fallon protested, in instant alarm. "Nothing like that. I wouldn't be under Brad's thumb if you was to give me the First National bank. I aim to travel right along with you."

When he heard the news old "Begad" Dixon threw up his hat with a quavering whoop. "I'll be dingbusted, if you didn't cut it, son. You're sure a chip off'n the old block. I would of followed Pete's dust wherever it led, and if I was 30 years younger the same with you. Course you're not sending that old wolf Ab to jail. That wasn't in the cards. But you sure made him holler 'Enough' after you showed up the warriors he sent against you."

Corbett Carey followed Waugh to the Dixon house. He found him just finishing a noonday chicken dinner Aunt Sally had hurriedly prepared in honor of the occasion. Carey had brought with him a note from Mary which Jack did not read until he was alone.

"I am leaving for the ranch in a few minutes [she had written], but I cannot go without telling you that I join father's happiness at what we have just learned. If I do not see you again this must serve for good-by. Even tho you said you did not want it that way, I am going to sign myself Your friend, Mary Lane."

Illogically Jack felt greatly disappointed at the note. Its cool friendliness chilled him. He had not seen her since the evening he had eaten dinner at the Carey house. While he had been recuperating in his room at the hotel she had called him up, her voice warm with good fellowship, to tell him how glad she was that his wound was not serious. The thought of her had been with him many times a day.

It had not occurred to him that she might so neatly cut off his chance of seeing her again. In the last sentence of the note there was an implication disturbing to him. He had told her that friendship between them was not enough, yet had made it clear he would not ask for more.

Perhaps she regarded what he had said as presumptuous. In signing herself his friend she was definitely putting up bars. Since this was a position already set up by him, he ought to have welcomed her acquiescence in it. But he did not, for he realized that when he turned his back on this country he would be leaving her to marry Abner Clinton III.

As a matter of hard realism Jack recognized that this would no doubt be better for her. The young people were used to each other's way of life. But there was no use pretending that he would not carry with him memories of the changing lights in her amber eyes, of the warm and vital beauty tempered like a fine sword blade. For years he would see swift pictures of her gallant youth, get glimpses of the eager spirit that carried life like a banner.

Jack grinned wryly. There was no point in letting himself grow lyrical about Mary. What he needed was a mental amputation, one that would keep thoughts of her from drifting into the penumbra of his mind. The obvious first step was to pack up and take the road.

Corbett Carey set up an obstacle. "You're not in such an all-fired hurry as that, Jack. No use pushing on the reins. Come and stay a few days at the ranch before you go."

"I can't do that," Waugh said. "I've been away too long from my own place. My foreman writes that I am needed."

"You know your own business best. At any rate you'll drop in as you pass to say good-by."

Jack had to let it go at that. He could not explain that he had a reason why good-bys were better left unsaid.

When Jack Waugh dropped in to the Three Prongs to say good-by he found none of his friends at home except Mrs. Carey. Carl had gone to Boonetown on business and Mary had ridden down to the south pasture with her stepfather to watch a beef cut.

"Corbett and Mary will be back in an hour or so," Mrs. Carey told him. "I'm sure they would like to see you."

He made a business of glancing at his watch. "I think I had better not wait. I'll try to see Carl as I pass thru Boonetown. Will you please tell your husband and Miss Mary that I am sorry to have missed them?"

"I'll tell them." Her eyes met his very directly. "You are in a great hurry, aren't you?"

Jack answered the challenge in her eyes rather than the words. "There are times when it is wiser to run away than to stay and fight."

"Coming from you, discretion sounds strange," she said smiling. "And perhaps not wise. I have eyes, and I have watched you, as a mother naturally would. Have I made a mistake in what I have guessed?"

"No, not if you have guessed that I am interested in your daughter very much. But it won't do. Why fool myself? I am not her kind." His smile was bitter. "You have only to look at my record of the past two weeks. Three men killed in that time."

"Maybe you are right, altho I don't suppose you are always quite as . . . turbulent." She added, after a moment: "You aren't running then because you fear your fate too much?"

"No, nor because my desert is small. I can take a 'No' as well as the next man. But—the gulf is there between us, too wide to bridge."

Mrs. Carey thought this might be true. If so, it was better Mary have a heartache now than years of unhappiness. Without further protest she watched Waugh drive away. It distressed her to see him go. But what more could she do?

Mary reached the house five minutes later. From her mother she learned of Jack's visit.

"He wasn't interested enough to wait a half hour for us," she said.

Mrs. Carey hesitated, and decided that Mary had a right to know the whole truth.

"I think he didn't want to trust himself. He is fond of you, but he thinks you ought not to marry him."

"He might let me decide that," the girl replied, her eyes bright with resentment. "But maybe it is the other way, that he thinks he ought not to marry me."

"Have you thought, Mary, that he may be right—about the differences between you?"

"Why need I think about it, since what I think isn't important?" the girl answered. "He will do all the deciding. All right. Let him go."

But two minutes later she was at the telephone calling up her stepbrother. She got him at Samson's store.

"Jack Waugh was here to say good-by, but father and I were down at the beef cut. He is on his way to Boonetown now. Will you hold him there till I come? I want to see him. This is awf'ly important, Carl. Don't let him slip thru without stopping him."

"All right, sis. When will you be here?"

"I'm starting now."

USED CAR PRICES RISE; SALESMEN HARD HIT BY BAN

Financially Weak Dealers Face Extinction.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The sudden order of the Office of Production Management prohibiting the sale of new automobiles brought new problems for Cook county's approximately 450 new car dealers yesterday. Among its immediate effects were:

1. Increases in used car prices estimated from 10 to 25 per cent.
2. Loss of jobs for approximately 2,250 salesmen working on commission and the threat of loss of jobs for hundreds of others employed by dealers.
3. Threat to the existence of numerous dealers who are not strong financially.
4. Numerous uncertainties as to interpretation.

Estimate 20,000 Used Cars.

Long a headache for automobile dealers, the used car now appeared as one possibility for helping some dealers to keep open their doors—at least temporarily. It was estimated that the dealers in new or used cars have an average of 30 used cars each and that there are approximately 20,000 used cars on hand in Cook county. A demand was noticeable yesterday for 1940, 1941, and the few 1942 used car models in dealers' hands.

Price increases on used cars were variously estimated at from 10 to 25 per cent, with different dealers naming different price levels. One prominent dealer said that his organization had lifted prices approximately $25 per car on the lower priced models and $50 per car on the more expensive makes. Some of the few 1942 model cars that have been placed on the used car market were reported as bringing close to their original prices. Late model 1941 cars also were reported as selling at near their original offering price.

Used Cars to Pay Overhead.

"We have rent to pay, taxes to meet, and numerous other expenses," one dealer said. "Where we formerly made our big profit out of the sale of new cars we must now try to get some of our operating expenses from profits from the sale of used cars. Formerly we sold most of them at some loss. In our case we shall try to set prices for our used cars that will be fair both to ourselves and the public."

Mayor Kelly instructed the police to notify all dealers thruout Chicago that they may not sell new cars. As civilian defense commissioner of the Chicago metropolitan area he also notified all more of other communities in the district of the used car ban.

The OPM order immediately froze stocks of new cars, estimated at from 10,000 to 20,000. Dealers said their stocks ranged from 30 to 90 days' supply, based on last year's sales.

Salesmen of most of the dealers thruout the Chicago area are employed on a commission basis. Virtually all these automatically lose their jobs with the ban on the sale of new cars. When priorities are imposed, there will be no salesmanship, for a girl can fill out an order blank. Many of the dealers will sell their used cars themselves or entrust the work to service employés and others on the permanent staff, it was said.

Qualified for Other Selling.

One favorable outlook for the salesmen, it was said, is the fact that most are older men with wide selling experience. They should be valuable in filling the places of younger salesmen of other products who are being called to military service.

Meantime, dealers had several problems regarding transactions for which Washington had not supplied an immediate answer. For instance, a dealer sold a car to a customer from out of town who had come to Chicago for the Christmas holidays. The cash was turned over to the dealer and the sale concluded except that the customer didn't want to take delivery of the car until after New Year's. The dealer wants to know what to do.

180,000 CIVILIAN PILOTS SOUGHT FOR AIR PATROLS

Plans to bring 90,000 civilian pilots and 90,000 student pilots into coördination with the army air corps were outlined yesterday in a conference of civil air patrol wing commanders from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, and Iowa. The conference was called by Maj. Reed Landis, aviation aid to the director of the office of civilian defense.

The chief duty of the civilian aids, according to the plans, will be ferrying planes from factories to the places where they will be put into action.

The civilian pilots also will be asked to take over the duty of patroling vital defense areas.

Landis urged all civilian flyers to call at once at the headquarters of the civilian air defense on the 26th floor of the Opera building, 20 North Wacker drive, for applications to send to Washington.

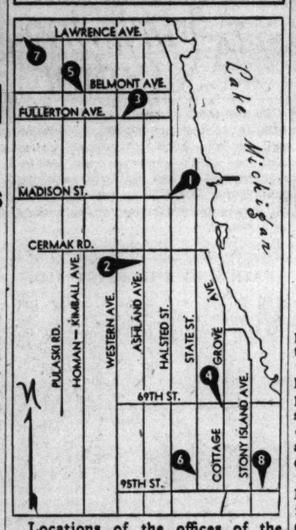

COLORADO'S TAX MEN TO GET 40 NICE NEW BIKES

Denver, Col., Jan. 2 (AP).—Bicycles will replace automobiles in the collection of Colorado's revenue in cities. Revenue department employés have been receiving 5 cents a mile for use of their own automobiles. Besides conserving rubber and gasoline, use of the 40 bicycles ordered today is expected to save the department $4,500 a month in travel expenses, Director Farrington R. Carpenter estimated.

REVIVED AFTER GAS POISONING.

Firemen were successful after 45 minutes last night in reviving Harlan Corse, 29 years old, who was found unconscious from gas in his apartment at 619 Belden avenue. Corse is a parolee from Pontiac reformatory, now a factory worker.

New Tire Boards

Locations of the offices of the eight local tire rationing boards which were set up yesterday.

TIRE RATIONING STARTS MONDAY; 8 BOARDS SWORN

Members of the eight local tire rationing boards, all city or park district employés, were sworn in yesterday by Mayor Kelly, coördinator of civilian defense in the Chicago metropolitan area, in the Civilian Defense building, 23 North Wacker drive. The board members will issue certificates for new tires and tubes. The city employés among them are on the pay rolls of safety testing lanes, the street departments, or the board of local improvements.

Michael F. Mulcahy, metropolitan area tire rationing administrator, announced that he would name within the next day or two local tire inspectors. These tire rationing officials will inspect tires and make recommendations for certificates to the rationing boards. Suburban boards also remain to be appointed.

Begin Operations Monday.

Boards, which will begin operations Monday, and members are:

Board 1—20 North Carpenter street and 19 North Aberdeen street, phone Haymarket 4164. Members: William Bull, 3048 North Linder avenue; Max Kaplan, 907 Belle Plaine avenue, and Paul Lemke, 6914 Osceola avenue.

Board 6—9038 South State street, phone Commercial 3368. Members—Charles H. Hallett, 8951 South Ada street; Edward J. Bradley, 8041 South Ada street, and James Egan, 9240 South Justine street.

Board 8 — 1745 East 95th street, phone Regent 5588. Members—Conrad Basinski, 3011 East 80th street; John Norton, 1502 East 74th street, and Thomas Feehery, 6528 Yale avenue.

Plan Rigid Enforcement.

Meanwhile many persons, innocent and otherwise, as well as the government, recognized that a breakdown in the tire rationing program would yield the most magnificent opportunity for bootlegging since prohibition days. To combat this John C. Weigel, OPA regional director, announced that federal, state, and local police powers will be called upon to insure obedience to the tire rationing edict.

He also pointed out that members of each local board will be sworn in as federal agents. This will mean that any falsification in an application will constitute falsifying a report to federal agents and will be prosecuted in the federal courts.

Names of all applicants for tires will be posted in the board offices in which these applications were made. Any one noticing a neighbor, whose name is not on the application list, driving about with a new tire is invited to report the case to authorities. Patriotism, supported by jealousy and other motives, is expected to play a big part in keeping the record clear.

Deepest gloom among the tire seekers was registered yesterday among salesmen who travel by automobile—estimated well above 100,000 in Illinois—who are denied new tires under the rationing edict. It was pointed out for their benefit that there is no restriction as yet on retreading.

Retreading Saves Rubber.

It has been estimated that there are approximately 130,000,000 tires in the United States, and that half of these are fit for retreading. This work would take about 15,000 tons of raw rubber, as compared with a normal use of 600,000 tons yearly in the United States. Only 7 per cent raw rubber, as against 93 per cent reclaimed is necessary to the process.

Even after the second hand tire has come to official attention, it is believed that some concessions will be made to retreading. Said one tire rationing official yesterday: "Any salesman who depends on an automobile and whose tires are over the 12,000 mile mark is silly if he hasn't a retread job ordered."

NEW 'TIRE CZAR' OF CHICAGO AREA QUIET, CAPABLE

Mulcahy Is Not Seeking Glory, Kelly Says.

Chicago's newly appointed tire rationing commissioner has been in public life almost ten years but he is almost unknown to the public. He is soft spoken, dark complexioned, and is 43 years old.

Michael F. Mulcahy.

He is Michael F. Mulcahy, who in addition to controling tire sales in the metropolitan area, will continue to serve as president of the board of local improvements and as assistant corporation counsel.

"Mulcahy was appointed because the job is a big one and demands a man of unquestioned honesty," Mayor Kelly said yesterday. "Mulcahy is conservative and cool, his judgment is excellent, and he is willing to do a big job for Chicago without seeking personal glory."

Rarely Uses City Auto.

As president of the board of local improvements, Mulcahy is entitled, under city hall tradition, to a 12 cylinder city owned automobile and a chauffeur, but the vehicle is rarely used. He has said in the past that he does not believe in such traditions.

As an assistant corporation counsel, he receives $9,000 a year from the city. He was named to that post in February, 1940. He is assigned to Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt as a legal counsel. Hewitt customarily works six or seven days a week and his special attorney is at his constant call.

Job Pays No Salary.

As president of the board of local improvements Mulcahy receives $1 a year. In that position he has the task of winding up the affairs of the board which was virtually eliminated a year ago by the city council on the advice of Mayor Kelly.

In the "Tire Czar" rôle he will receive no salary but will have charge of the tire division of the Chicago Metropolitan Defense area of which Mayor Kelly is coördinator.

Mulcahy lives with his wife and three daughters at 959 East 84th street. He received a degree of master of laws from Loyola university in 1926 and has since been an assistant corporation counsel, until 1933; assistant attorney general from 1933 to 1935, and alderman of the 8th ward from 1935 to 1939.

In his preliminary work of organizing the tire rationing system for this district he has been assisted by Commissioner Hewitt.

ARMY TO OPEN SCHOOL AT AKRON TO TEACH TIRE RECONDITIONING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Enlisted men will be trained in retreading and repairing tires at a new army school to be opened early this month at Akron, O., the war department announced today.

In line with general restrictions on the use of rubber, including a ban on sales of new tires to civilians, the school is part of war department plans to conserve approximately 50 per cent of the rubber used on army trucks and automobiles.

The school will be set up at the Akron plant of a tire manufacturing company, and 20 soldiers at a time will be given an eight week course in recapping, retreading, and repairing tires. It will be a development of an experimental program conducted recently at the Holabird quartermaster depot in Baltimore, which the war department said indicated thousands of army truck and passenger automobile tires could be reconditioned successfully.

NAVAL AIR BOARD CHANGES RULES TO AID RECRUITS

Two changes designed to speed enlistment in naval reserve aviation were announced in Chicago last night by the naval aviation cadet selection board, which is seeking 2,500 recruits for enrollment as aviation cadets.

One of the rulings provides that applicants for pilot training now may receive transportation at the navy's expense from any recruit substation to the nearest selection board. The other provides that college sophomores, juniors, and seniors may enlist for pilot training, but will be deferred if they wish from active duty until completion of their present college year.

Substations which will provide transportation to the Chicago board are in Aurora, Rockford, Rock Island; Indianapolis, Lafayette, South Bend, and Kokomo, Ind.; Green Bay, Milwaukee, and Oshkosh, Wis.; Escanaba and Marquette, Mich.; Cedar Rapids, Davenport, and Dubuque, Ia.

Wm. H. Fetridge Named Business Men's Chairman

William Harrison Fetridge, it was announced yesterday, has been elected chairman of the Chicago Business Men's committee as successor to Henry Pope Jr., who recently was appointed tire rationing administrator for downstate Illinois. Fetridge is an executive of the advertising firm of Roche, Williams and Cunningham.

NO MORE NEW CARS.

The automobile has been the symbol of America's high standard of living. There is an automobile for each 4½ persons—virtually one for every family. In England there are 18 persons for each car, in Germany 42, in Russia 352, and in Japan 389. No other people enjoy to the extent that we do the quick individualized transportation service provided by the private passenger automobile.

The automobile industry grew until it became the largest in America. A half million persons have been directly employed by the motor car makers, but this by no means represents the number of jobs created by the industry, for it has been the largest single consumer of steel, plate glass, rubber, nickel, lead, and some other products. In addition, it uses sizable quantities of lumber, aluminum, copper, tin, leather, and cotton. The great petroleum industry owes its development entirely to the automobile. It has been said that one person out of seven is dependent, directly or indirectly, for his job upon the automobile industry.

The stoppage of the sale and the prospective halting of the manufacture of cars, as announced over the holiday, symbolized on the one hand a reduction in the American standard of living to promote the war effort and on the other hand the conversion of the greatest American peacetime industry into exclusively a war making adjunct.

The immediate effect upon our transportation may well be slight, for the supply of new cars is being shut off after two years of extraordinarily large production and sale. For example, in 1940 and 1941 270,000 cars were sold in Cook county. Both of these years were record breaking and the combined total for the two years was greater than for the three boom years, 1927, 1928, 1929. Nearly all of the cars on our streets are in fairly good running order. The replacement of stolen or demolished cars may occasion some inconvenience, but there are considerable stocks of good used cars. The problem of getting a car—any car—won't become serious until the market is cleared of its inventory. The general public will suffer after a while if the war is prolonged, but not immediately.

It is the other way around with the employés of the automobile factories. Until the plants have been fully adapted to turn out armament a sizable number of the half million automobile employés will suffer. So will the employers and employés in the industries which make parts and materials or supply services to the motor vehicle manufacturers. Eventually the auto factories will be busy enough on airplane engines, tanks, trucks, jeeps, and other war equipment to provide jobs for all their old hands.

But what is to become of the 51,238 automobile dealers and their 389,298 employés now that there are no more new cars for them to sell? According to the last census, 56 per cent of the dealers' business was in new cars. An additional 27.8 per cent of their business was in second hand cars. The largest other item, running to 7.2 per cent, consisted of tires and other auto supplies. For a while these dealers will have some second hand cars to work on, but thereafter, if the war is prolonged, there will be less and less business. Automobile dealers and tire dealers are war casualties, and as such are entitled to some consideration.

The government itself will suffer a serious cut in its revenue. The national highway users conference has just reported that tax payments in connection with motor vehicle ownership and operation amounted to 2 billion 474 million dollars in 1941. The bulk of this consists of gasoline taxes, which are expected to drop 35 per cent as a result of inability of private cars to get tires. The federal automobile excise taxes alone amounted to 214 million dollars last year and the automobile manufacturers paid ¼ of a billion in income taxes to the government. These losses by the government will have to be made up by other revenues.

The only encouraging aspect about the automobile curtailment order is that it lays the foundation for prosperity after peace has been restored. The longer civilians are denied new cars, the greater will be the backlog of orders to be filled with the coming of peace. Thus our greatest industry, which is now to be devoted to the war exclusively, is assured of good business when the Jap and the Nazi have been put in their places.

EASTMAN AND THE ODT.

The President has issued an executive order establishing the Office of Defense Transportation in the Office for Emergency Management and has defined its functions and duties. He has appointed Joseph B. Eastman, chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission, director of the new office. Eastman will retain his membership in the commission, but will relinquish the chairmanship temporarily.

Railroad men say that "Joe Eastman will be no McAdoo." He has the confidence and esteem of shippers and traffic men generally. His judgment and administrative ability are being recognized by the air and boat lines that have more recently come under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce commission. His earlier leanings toward government ownership have been more or less disavowed by Mr. Eastman in later years. It cannot be charged that he has ever used his important office to advance socialistic theories.

The railroads showed unusual ability in handling last fall's carloading peak. They estimate that there will be an increased loading in 1942 of at least 10%. In an all-out war effort the avoidance of congestion, such as was experienced under government operation during the last war, is an absolute necessity.

The President has itemized many duties and responsibilities for Mr. Eastman, the most important of which is to "coördinate the transportation policies and activities of the several federal agencies and private transportation groups in effecting such adjustments in the domestic transportation systems of the nation as the successful prosecution of the war may require." Domestic transportation is defined as including railroad, motor, inland waterway, pipe line, air transport, and coastwise and intercoastal shipping.

Mr. Eastman's success will depend largely upon the men he selects to assist him. It is assumed that the office of defense transportation commissioner, occupied by Mr. Ralph Budd, will be superseded by the new arrangement. With the appointment of Mr. Budd to head the Division of Railroad Transport in the new setup and close coöperation with such private agencies as the various shippers' advisory boards, quiet and speedy efficiency should be assured.

MANILA.

Manila, won by Dewey in one of the most successful naval campaigns in history, has been taken by the Japanese. It will be regained. The invader will yet be driven from the city and from the islands of which it is the capital. America's pledge to the Filipinos to give them their independence in 1946 will be redeemed, and when it is redeemed the Japanese will never again be in a position to do us or the Filipinos harm.

We have lost Manila because we were both unprepared and careless. We did not provide the defenders with enough modern arms and enough well trained soldiers to resist the attack in force which our diplomacy was inviting. Our military authorities evidently underrated both the quantity and the quality of the enemy's flying equipment, and at the same time underrated the importance of aviation in war as it is fought in 1941.

On top of these mistakes came the carelessness which cost us so heavily in Hawaii. The plan to speed the navy across the Pacific from Pearl Harbor to drive off the invader of the Philippines had to be abandoned until the navy could be restored to fighting strength. Another plan must now be devised, and perhaps that is just as well, for if the original plan had been followed the fleet, as it steamed westward, would have come within range of land-based Japanese planes.

The task ahead will be difficult and it may take a long time, but sooner or later the American flag will fly again over Manila. We shall not repeat our mistakes of judgment and we shall not again be exposed to the enemy thru our own carelessness.

Manila will yet be ours.

HERE COME THE DRYS.

The prohibition lobby is again at work in Washington and, for reasons which are far from clear, has been permitted to set up its headquarters in one of the offices of the house of representatives on Capitol hill. Bills have been introduced in congress, one of which would prohibit the sale of liquor to men in military service. Another would impose prohibition in wartime as a measure to conserve foodstuffs.

The drys, of course, are trying to whip up enthusiasm for these regulations. It is doubtful if the effort will get to first base, but it may be just as well to point out that there have been few complaints of excessive drinking on the part of the men in uniform, that the officers and men will properly resent a discrimination against them, and that every man in service is subject to military law under which he can be punished severely for getting drunk. The soldiers and sailors have sacrificed freedom and ease to serve their country. Only a prohibition fanatic would knowingly deprive them of any of the comforts and pleasures which remain to them. Accordingly, the sooner Mr. Edward Page Gaston, the head of the dry propaganda organization, is kicked out of the house office building, the better.

The proposal to impose prohibition as a measure of food conservation is as silly as the other bill is inconsiderate. Beer and whisky are made from grain, but there is a huge surplus of corn and wheat in this country and Canada, sufficient to meet all our domestic needs and to supply friendly powers overseas for a year or more if not a bushel is harvested in 1942. The government's problem is not to conserve grain but to find places to store the quantity already on hand. We have more grain than we know what to do with. That was not true in 1917.

In time of war two contradictory types of conduct are frequently observed, neither of them admirable. Some people lose all moral sense and go in for all the forms of self-indulgence. Others, like the drys, insist that the nation must suffer needless deprivations as if to appease an angry pagan deity.

Experience shows that it is futile to appeal to the reason of the dry fanatics, but perhaps they will be impressed by the fact that the American people are already on the way to being deprived of one of their greatest sources of pleasure, the automobile. We should think that would satisfy the most blue nosed of pleasure haters for quite a long time to come.

HONORS LONG OVERDUE.

Secretary Stimson's agreement to restore Gen. Mitchell's rank and honors to the rolls of the army, coming as it does when the news from the Philippines indicates that we are paying the same penalty there we paid at Hawaii, gives hope that the war and navy departments have finally been aroused to the significance of aviation. Staggering as the price of this conversion is, it will not be too great if the lesson is really learned.

Power in the air is the supreme power today, and particularly so in naval and insular warfare. America has the capacity to build the world's greatest air armadas. Our strength must not be diverted from this to less essential tasks, and the war must be placed in the hands of men who know how to use this new power.

Editorial of the Day

FREE SPEECH WINS.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

By a vote of 7 to 0 the Supreme court has upheld an employer's right to free speech against a finding of the National Labor Relations board that in publishing his views on labor policies he violated the Wagner act. The opinion, read by Justice Murphy, insists that what an employer has to say about a union or unions may not be considered an "unfair labor practice" unless accompanied by actual coercion.

Here is a very welcome clarification of the issue which in more than one decision of the labor board has brought the administration of the Wagner act into conflict with the Bill of Rights. The employer henceforth may speak his mind. It is only in conjunction with his "total activities" that the board may sit in judgment on his words.

Yet also clarified and thrown into high relief is the one-sidedness of the Wagner act which permits a labor spokesman to broadcast what he thinks of an employer or employers and to do so whether or not he backs up his sentiments with interference, coercion, and intimidation, while the employer's right of free speech is qualified by its background of behavior. The court's ruling, tho a great improvement over the labor board's interpretation of the law, serves simply to emphasize this fundamental, un-American, and dangerously vicious discrimination.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS STARTS IT RIGHT.

3d Jan.—Spent New Year's eve, as usual, in complete retirement to escape from the revelers, and so awakened bright and fresh on the first day of the year and ate a large duck for dinner with great enjoyment. There was a time when I tried to be a young blade about town on the Eve, and then I would groan thru the next day, wishing I were dead, which is no way to start another chapter in one's life.

In my profession the holidays are a period of extra work in one way or another, and now that they have gone I will relax, and maybe find time to read my new volume of detective stories, which is called "101 Years' Entertainment," and is full of fine tidbits of mystery. Among my gifts is a picture called "The Bookworm," showing an old scholar on the top of a tall library ladder, with a book in either hand, another under his arm, and still another gripped between his knees, and on this dangerous perch he is reading. I have hung it over my desk and whenever I look at it I smile, for I would be like that old codger if I only had a ladder and time to climb it.

Cast up my accounts for the old year, and found I have been doing well, altho taxes are taking more and more. Then in the Chinese manner paid all my debts, which I do once a month anyway, but this time it pleased me to think I was following an ancient and honorable Chinese custom, altho the date is not the same.

Read the New Year's edition of the English funny paper called Punch, which seems to be delivered more punctually than a year ago, and I take this for a good sign regarding the war. Noted that the English sense of humor has not been shaken or soured by the grim events of the last two years, and hoped we can follow their example.

And so to begin collecting items for the Line Book of 1942.

AFTER MANILA.

In such a time what is there we can say
While those beneath our flag know bomb and sword?
Yet tho each bitter tiding of the fray
Tells further conquest by the ruthless horde
Our bulwark stands secure thruout the years
As freedom's heritage, forevermore.
The vengeance born in blood, and sweat, and tears
Shall soon have strength to answer war with war.
At plow and forge we build an iron might
Till God of Hosts shall grant the battle's end.
Our words are comfortless, but truth and right
Must yet prevail; and, as our prayers ascend,
Toil brings its solace while our hearts augment

The Winter of the Big Snows.

This almost snowless winter reminds me, by contrast, of the winter before the World's Columbian Exposition opened, 1892-'93. A time of blizzards, bottomless drifts, and bitter winds, with every one working frantically to be ready on time; borrowed time, for the opening had been planned originally for October, 1892.

The sculptors of figure groups and large animals worked in Horticultural Hall where oil stoves kept the clay from freezing, plodding daily thru waist-deep drifts to reach the building. The huge glass roof bore up until one terrific snow fall proved to be the last straw; and when Lorado Taft and the others arrived in the morning the whole place was a mass of snow, broken glass, and crushed clay figures.

Nothing could be salvaged; the only thing to do was to clear it out and begin again. The courage that put it thru deserves recording in some Hall of Fame.

Among the sculptors were Lorado Taft, whose two large groups, "The Sleep of the Flowers" and "The Awakening of the Flowers," were at either side of the main entrance of Horticultural Hall; Edward Kemyss, A. Phimister Proctor, J. J. Boyle, and others whose groups adorned the Court of Honor and the lagoons.

Carolyn D. Tyler.

ALL THIS WILL COME AGAIN.

These things will come again . . .
The welcome voices of old friends;
The last waltz 'ere the party ends;
The first pert daisies in the lane;
The soft familiar tap of rain;
The pines at twilight whispering;
The all-out ecstasy of spring.
All these will come again.

This too, will come again . . .
The city's streets will gleam with light,
The peaceful thunder fill the night.
Again we'll gaze aloft on skies
As glistening bright and blue as eyes.
Sweethearts will greet and dream awhile;
Faint hearts have hope, and mothers smile.

A Blessed Event in Indiana.

Dear Sir: I am dropping you a card to have you correct the mistake about Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bowman having a baby girl. It isn't so, for we are not even expecting any. I don't thank the one that sent it in. Yours truly,

Mrs. Ivan Bowman.

MY GAME AND ME.

I play a game of "let's pretend"
When family duties irk
Or obligation to a friend
Is one I'd like to shirk. . .
I make believe I want to do
The tasks I am not partial to!

I make believe that I am glad;
I sternly say to me,
"This service will not be so bad
If tackled cheerfully."
And joy or task I often find
Is nothing but my state of mind!

FAINTING AND FIRST AID.

WHEN one finds a friend unconscious, naturally the symptom is alarming. Confronted with such a condition the first rule, of course, is to obtain the services of a skilled physician, as life may be in danger. It is well, however, to have in mind some of the common causes, as first aid may be vital.

Most of us are able to recognize a fainting attack. This implies a sudden fall in blood pressure, with too little circulation to the brain. The patient looks "white," because the skin is blanched and bloodless. Seizures of this sort are prone to take place in crowded, overheated rooms, or they may follow extreme fatigue brought on by lack of nourishment.

What should we do when fainting is imminent? Get the patient into the open air, apply cold cloths to the forehead, or assist the victim to a chair and ask him to bend forward, squeezing the abdominal muscles against the thighs. A whiff of ammonia is equally successful.

Now and then one may feel "queer" on changing from a horizontal to an upright position. The reason is that the circulation, which is expected to adjust itself to the new posture, fails to respond as quickly as circumstances demand. Even in healthy individuals such a movement may be attended with slight giddiness. But the effects are only momentary as the heart picks up the load quickly. If one is weak, however, because of a recent illness, everything may "go black" for a few seconds. Rising slowly will avoid these incidents.

Sometimes the odor of the breath supplies the explanation. If it has a sweetish smell we may suspect diabetic coma. Alcohol offers its own diagnosis, unless it has been administered mistakenly by a well meaning bystander. Uremic poisoning [due to failure of the kidneys to function properly] may be thought of when the exhaled air offers a suggestion of ammonia. Unless a physician is immediately at hand, the wisest thing to do is to dispatch the sufferer to the nearest hospital.

In all probability the most common origin of unconsciousness in those past middle life is apoplexy. We look upon the rupture of a blood vessel within the brain as an accident, and the one who has suffered a "stroke" may be deeply comatose. The breathing is noisy and paralysis may be observed, as the mouth may be drawn to one side. No effort should be made to move the afflicted person until the doctor arrives.

Regardless of the cause, it is important to cover the victim to conserve body warmth. The clothing about the throat should be loosened and false teeth removed to facilitate breathing. No liquids of any sort should be given by mouth. Swallowing may be impossible and some of the fluid may enter the lungs.

Occasionally one who has been in a coma will waken suddenly and exhibit wild delirium. He may shout, order every one out of the way, and—if he is powerful physically—may attempt to injure those who oppose him. If this occurs before the ambulance arrives it may be necessary to apply restraints.

Disconcerting as are these episodes, we must recall that the victim needs help. We should be willing to give the patient a chance for life by refusing to demand a ringside seat at what may be a tragedy.

LUNG COLLAPSE.

S. P. writes: A friend was told she had a spontaneous pneumothorax. What does this mean?

REPLY.

Air has entered the pleural cavity, with ensuing partial collapse of the lung. Such accidents may follow violent exertion or accompany some disease, for example, tuberculosis.

NOT ACCEPTABLE.

F. G. writes: Does the draft board turn down asthmatics?

REPLY.

Test Your Horse Sense By Dr. George W. Crane.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 26.

1. The disease known as warbles should make you think of Parrots Horses Chickens Children.
2. A Molotov breadbasket refers to which of the following?
   Ukraine Food rationing system Airplane bomb Shopping bag.
3. Reginald de Koven is most widely known for composing
   "O, Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Holy City," "Goin' Home."
4. The Broadway Limited travels on which railroad line?
   Union Pacific Rock Island Pennsylvania New York Central.
5. If a man said he had done a forward one and one-half would he refer to Golf Football Hockey Diving.
6. Here is another arithmetic puzzler for you folks with a mathematical bent.

   A certain man went into a grocery store and told the clerk that if the latter would match the money which the customer had in his pocket, then the clerk would receive $10 of the total amount. The clerk did so and was paid. Then the customer went into a drug store and made the same statement. When the drug clerk matched the customer's money, the clerk also received $10. Finally the customer entered a restaurant and made the same offer. The waiter matched his money, and likewise got $10, but the customer was now broke. How much money had he started with?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, The Tribune.

LINDBERGH VOLUNTEERS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Col. Lindbergh has again set us a fine example by offering his services to the air corps. We need men of his character and experience as leaders in aviation. Let us hope that since America's major offensive is eventually to be in the air, steps may be taken to boost the flying age limit from 28 to 35, with the elimination also of the two year college requirement.

ROY E. HAWKINSON.

AIR WEAKNESS.

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 29.—Arthur Sears Henning states, "The plight of the American forces in the Philippines is due chiefly to the inferiority of American and British air strength in the far east. Our air forces in the islands were considerably strengthened in the last two years but not sufficiently to meet the Japanese on even terms. One reason for the insufficient reinforcement was that most of the American made bombers were sent to the British and Russian armies. Another was the underestimate of the air strength of the Japanese." Why can't we "sufficiently" protect our own armed forces? Didn't our intelligence corps know Japanese air strength?

WM. W. SEAMAN.

BRITISH PLAYBOYS.

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 29.—A few days ago one of your correspondents made an exposé of the conduct of the British in the night clubs and other places of amusement during these days of stress and hardships. I cannot unravel the message he meant to convey. This is no time to criticize. We should strengthen the bond that should exist between the democracies. We could write volumes on the misbehavior of our own people if we felt the inclination, but why not forget inconsequential things?

J. J. TOREN.

SIN IN THE NIGHT.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—We have many taverns near Madison street and Cicero avenue, but if we have police around this neighborhood after 8 p. m., they all must be in cahoots with the hoodlums. It's high time to clean up these joints. A good citizen can't even rest at night with all the hooting, dice box knocking, drunken singing, and piano and juke boxes howling until 3:30 a. m.

CITIZEN.

SOMETHING FOR THE SOCK.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—One of Chicago's largest defense plants gave 1,700 employés a pretty red basket for Christmas containing a turkey and a ham. How much more appropriate and appreciated would have been a $5 defense stamp! These employés are well paid and all undoubtedly would have had a Christmas dinner. OVERSTOCKED EMPLOYEE.

STORY OF A PINCH.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Just thought I would let the citizens know how alert our police force is. A friend of mine, who owns a hardware store, called me up and asked me to look at the tail light of his truck, as it wouldn't burn. I have a small repair shop across the street from him, so I skipped across the street to pick up his truck. It was parked at the rear of his store, so I drove it south in the alley on the east side of Stony Island avenue to 70th street, where my alert captor spotted me driving without a tail light. I stopped for Stony Island and drove north to 69th place, where I turned west again and into my garage. The officer followed me and presented me with an arrest slip for operating a vehicle without a tail light. I attempted to explain that I knew the light was out and had committed the horrible crime in an attempt to get to a warm light spot to locate the trouble, as the man needed his truck for further deliveries. Nevertheless, I received a ticket. Perhaps some one might start a movement to create a more understandable police force. WARREN C. THIEL.

NEUTRAL IRELAND.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Regarding your editorial, "Ireland on the Fence," I am one American who objects to your proposal that Ireland turn over her ports, and I believe I'm a better American than you are. Mr. De Valera has apparently demonstrated that what he has done with his unarmed and undefended little country is better for Irish self-interest, England's interest, and America's interest. Ireland is still above water; she is not a smoking ruin using up our Red Cross funds. Ireland is still harboring 95,000 British women and children; Ireland is still sending meat and vegetables to England.

Contrast that with what might be the case had De Valera lost his head and embarked on some heroic move resulting in another Greece or Crete. I would be in favor of selling Ireland the arms she wants so she can defend her own shores and fortify her own bases.

"YOUR OBEDIENT SERVANT."

Wilmette, Ill., Dec. 28.—In the column adjoining today's editorials you have made a good start in the effort to eliminate "mister" and "esquire." TIRE REGISTRATION.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—In view of the fact that the police say that thefts of tires are inevitable now, may I suggest a compulsory registration of tire serial numbers along with the present titles of car. This I believe would remove the inevitable from tire thefts. S. DECKER.

COMMON STOCK INVESTORS.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 28.—Common stock holders are in danger of being wiped out as inflation and taxation increase, just as the middle class was wiped out in Germany by the same process, and with the same suffering. Common stock holders must organize, and insist on legislation that will insure us a raise in dividends every time there is a raise in the taxes paid to government by the corporations.

As long as Washington takes goodly slices of corporation earnings, and companies pay directors enormous salaries out of profits, common stock holders should refuse to accept decreased dividends. We must refuse to allow higher taxes to be paid at our expense. Unless we organize, dividends will continue to decrease as taxes rise, and we alone will be carrying the burden of taxation for the company and its preferred stockholders. E. F. BRADLEY.

BOOKS FOR THE AIR CORPS.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Would it be too much to ask for some books for the boys in the air corps in Texas? I have a brother stationed there and he writes that it's a new place and as yet they have an inadequate library. During this emergency they are not allowed to go too far from camp. The address is: 65th Air Base Sqd., 852d Ordnance Co., Victoria Field, Victoria, Tex. NANCE TRANDEL.

NOTRE DAME AND U. OF I. PREPARE TO TRAIN NAVY MEN

Check on Facilities to Set Up Schools.

Surveys of facilities and equipment were under way yesterday at the University of Illinois and at Notre Dame to determine how much expansion will be necessary to meet the navy's proposal that year round, intensive training schools be established at the two institutions.

The project—if it is found feasible—will place ground school cadets at Illinois for three months' training, in groups of 2,500 each, and several hundred enlisted reservists at Notre Dame for mechanical and kindred courses.

Action Likely Next Week.

James M. Cleary, president of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, said in Chicago yesterday that action will be taken early next week when Dr. Arthur C. Willard, president, returns from the Baltimore conference of the Association of American Colleges. There, beginning today, the government will outline its plans for the nation's colleges during the wartime emergency.

Cleary stated that as soon as he and Dr. Willard can obtain an appointment with Gov. Green they will go to Springfield to discuss means of full coöperation with the navy.

Also at the Baltimore meeting is the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame. It was considered possible that he might stop in Washington on his return to talk directly with naval chiefs. Both Illinois and Notre Dame trained men in large groups for the last war.

Facilities at U. of Illinois.

At Illinois a ground school was maintained and the hundreds of men sent there were housed by installing a second floor in the school's vast 200x400 foot armory and by utilizing a number of women's residential halls.

Yesterday's inventory showed that three structures could be converted readily for use as dormitories. The west great hall beneath the stands of the university stadium at Champaign could house 350 to 400. The gymnasium annex [the school's first armory] could take 400 more and the skating rink would house about 250.

What Notre Dame Can Do.

During the first World war, Notre Dame, handled army trainees in groups of about 900, which practically doubled the normal enrollment at the university. At that time single rooms were made to serve two men, double rooms accommodated four or five, and dining halls were constructed by the government.

Notre Dame's enrollments now run about 3,200 and campus buildings can house about 2,700. The Naval ROTC unit established there last year now occupies space in Rockne Memorial hall. Notre Dame offered its facilities to the government the day after the Pearl Harbor bombing and is prepared to coöperate with the navy in full.

U.S. EDUCATORS MEET TODAY TO HEAR WAR PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 2.—Between 800 and 1,000 college and university presidents will convene for a two day conference here tomorrow to hear wartime demands upon their institutions, to learn what is expected of the 1,450,000 college students in this emergency, and to report what services the schools can perform.

The opening sessions are to be addressed by top men in the defense service. Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson is on the program, as are Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, and Joseph W. Barker, chief of the navy department's division of training.

Preconvention discussions have favored a policy of discouraging voluntary enlistments by students at the expense of sacrificing further training. Specialized training at colleges for army and navy personnel also is to be discussed.

SENIORS SUBJECT TO DRAFT GIVEN EXAMS AT YALE

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 2 [Special].—Yale university is permitting seniors subject to army service under the draft to take special examinations qualifying them for degrees. For other seniors voluntarily joining the armed forces, however, the university is granting such examinations only at the discretion of its deans, it was revealed today.

Questioned about this varying practice, a spokesman for the university said it was felt some check was needed "in order to keep the whole senior class from getting up and volunteering." Also it was explained, "there is a disinclination to lower the standards more than is necessary" because of the war.

President Charles Seymour of Yale said young men should remain at their studies until drafted or impelled to volunteer.

Threaten Woman in Auto, Take Rings Valued at $1,100

Mrs. Irma Jenkins of 7831 Saginaw avenue, wife of Charles A. Jenkins, credit manager of a jewelry firm, was robbed of $11 in cash and three rings valued at $1,100 yesterday by three bandits who entered her automobile as she parked in front of her home. The bandits, one of whom displayed a knife, drove to Saginaw avenue and 82d street and forced her out of the car, which was found later by police at 84th street and Marquette avenue.

PARENTS LEARN SAILOR REPORTED MISSING IS SAFE

La Salle, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith of Arlington have been notified by the navy department that their son, Thomas, 17 years old, previously reported missing in action in Hawaii, is alive and safe. Memorial services for the youth had been held here Dec. 20.

Rockford Sailor Safe.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tresemer of 1037 Elm street, received word today from the navy that their son, Coxwain Gerald Leroy Tresemer, 22 years old, is alive and uninjured despite a previous message reporting him lost in action.

Hoosier Alive and Well.

Plymouth, Ind., Jan. 2 [Special].—David Emmons, 20 years old, of Lapaz, a sailor in the United States navy, who was reported missing after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, is alive and well, according to a message which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Emmons, received today from officials in Washington, D. C.

Two Sons Found Alive.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 2 [Special].—Two telegrams from Washington, D. C., today informed Mr. and Mrs. Max Mueller of Omaha that their sons, Henry and Erwin, previously reported killed at Pearl Harbor, are alive.

Mixup Causes Death Report.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The navy bureau of navigation advised today that a report John Michael Nehl, first class machinist mate of Atauga, S. D., had been lost in action were erroneous. Rear Adm. Chester W. Nimitz notified Nehl's parents Dec. 15 of the death. The next day Nehl's family received a post card mentioning his assignment to another ship. It was discovered a mixup in ship assignments for Nehl had caused the first announcement to be sent.

SEIZE 4 ALLEGED POLICY AGENTS ON RAIDS ON OFFICES

Policemen of the Warren avenue and Wabash avenue districts made raids yesterday on alleged branch offices of the policy gambling syndicate and arrested four agents, all colored. They were booked as keepers of a gambling game. The total number of policy arrests rose to six when the Stanton avenue police seized two alleged operators on the street.

Policy, or the numbers game, is estimated to be a $7,000,000 business in Chicago. The players purchase tickets bearing what they think will be lucky numbers and the winners are determined by drawings.

Three of those arrested were at 2739 Lake street. They are Sarah Henderson, 51 years old, Snowramay De Shields, 26, and Evert Johnson, 53. At 4302 Michigan avenue, Louise Bibbs, 40, was arrested. The men seized on the street, near 33d street and Wabash avenue, are Carl Sidner, 47, of 3534 Rhodes avenue, and David Perry, 36, of 3352 Calumet avenue.

Job Racket Bared

An alleged swindler who identified himself as Walter Zielinski, 43 years old, and gave police a fictitious address, was identified by two victims last night, each of whom lost $20. Mrs. Frances Kobac, 58, of 1507 Walton street, who borrowed $20 last month in the hope of getting her husband, Frank, 68, a job as a watchman, struck Zielinski when she saw him in the Racine avenue police lockup.

Michael Sonicki, 59, of 2453 Walton street, said Zielinski was the "Dr. Smulski" who swindled him out of $20 on New Year's eve.

Detectives Joseph Ponecki and Frank Catanese said Zielinski offered men jobs as hospital watchmen, taking $20 or so for a uniform, and left his victims in hospital lobbies while he went on a supposed errand.

Yesterday Zielinski entered the drug store at 1363 North Ashland avenue and asked the clerk whether he knew any men who needed jobs as watchmen. The clerk, remembering a recent Tribune story about the racket, told Zielinski to return later. Zielinski did—and met the police.

ALLMAN URGES POLICE TO BUY WAR SECURITIES

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday gave impetus to the defense bonds and stamps selling campaign in Chicago by directing his captains to urge the 6,900 men on the force to buy the securities. Meanwhile brisk sales continued at The Tribune Public Service offices where $2,286.50 in bonds and $182.85 in stamps were bought over the counter during the day.

The Tribune Public Service office at Madison and Dearborn streets sold $1,742.75 worth of bonds yesterday and the Public Service office in Tribune Tower sold $543.75 worth.

Stamp sales were started during the day in the office of the board of election commissioners on the third floor in the city hall.

State Rep. Vito Marzullo, president of the St. Anthony and St. Michael Fraternal society, announced that society members, including Italian-American workmen and storekeepers of the 25th ward, have purchased $11,500 in defense bonds and more subscriptions are expected.

Dorothy Lamour, film star, will arrive at 12:30 p. m. today on the City of Los Angeles and during her brief stopover will sell defense bonds and stamps in the North Western station.

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen reported that total sales of defense securities in the Chicago area in 1941 were $18,015,243.50 in bonds and $3,587,639.45 in stamps. On Dec. 31, the sales reached a high for any day in the year, $375,768.75 in bonds and $94,450.60 in stamps.

MEN IN SERVICE KEEP INTEREST IN RADIO PROGRAMS

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Men who enter the armed forces of the United States do not lose their interest in radio. Whenever they can they continue to follow their favorites—Jack Benny, Fred Allen, the Hit Parade, Spotlight Bands, or whatever they may be.

Broadcasters recognized this fact long ago and with our entry into the war they have become increasingly impressed with it. And they are taking further steps to make radio more accessible to soldiers, sailors, and marines both when at their stations or when on leave. W-G-N has been admitting men in uniform to its public broadcasts for almost a year. No tickets are required. NBC and CBS send quantities of tickets to the Service Men's center for soldiers and sailors.

In Hollywood Bobe Hope has just formed a committee to supply service men with tickets to major broadcasts when on leave. Others on the committee are Jack Benny, Bing Crosby, Fibber McGee and Molly, and Kay Kyser.

Kyser, Hope, and Benny have presented many broadcasts from camps and military stations. Such shows as Vox Pop and Service with a Smile originate regularly at camps. Service with a Smile was broadcast New Year's eve from Fort Sheridan. The Quiz Kids' Christmas eve show was from Great Lakes.

More than 300 soldiers and sailors turned out to hear the special Christmas evening show given for them by W-G-N in its main studio. They heard a concert featuring Marion Claire as soloist and later joined in the regular Shoot the Works quiz. On New Year's eve more were guests of the Shoot the Works show.

Every barracks has several radios and during the leisure hours they are usually in operation. The government provides no receivers for the men. They bring portable sets with them from civilian life or acquired them later. Battery powered sets or the plug in type [or both in combination] are the most popular. Portable radios were reported just about the most popular of all Christmas gifts.

In barracks sets may be turned on until taps, 9 p. m., local time, at most posts. Thus, in the middle west, men have an opportunity to hear most of the big nightime shows; in the west, all of them, but in the east they must go to bed before some are broadcast.

Larger radios, donated by civilians or service organizations, are usually available in the day rooms and post recreation centers. Many sets have been donated by radio manufacturers. Many more would be welcome.

MRS. ELAINE KARI.

Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday granted Mrs. Elaine Kari, 20 years old, 9334 University avenue, $6 a week support for her daughter, Sheron, 1, while her husband's divorce suit is pending. The husband, William, 24, a steel worker, charges cruelty in the bill. Judge Sabath also granted Mrs. Kari permission to file a cross bill charging cruelty. The couple married June 10, 1939, and separated last Sept. 25.

SONGS OF FIRST WORLD WAR ARE IN DEMAND AGAIN

Songs of World war I. and other patriotic music are in demand at Chicago music and record stores, it was reported yesterday. George M. Cohan's "Over There" is a particular favorite.

"We are selling about 25 to 35 per cent more of 'Keep the Home Fires Burning,' and 'It's a Long Way to Tipperary,'" said one loop department store music salesman. "'The Star Spangled Banner' and 'God Bless America' are going big, too. 'He's My Uncle' and the allegiance song also are in demand."

Other stores reported that "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" have revived in popularity.

W-G-N PRESENTS 'EILEEN' TONIGHT ON AIR THEATER

Victor Herbert's "Eileen" will be presented tonight on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9. Marion Claire, Jan Peerce, Bruce Foote, and Edna Thompson will sing the leading rôles in this musical story of the Irish rebellion of 1789.

Jan Peerce.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

A double cast, as usual, will be employed to portray the operetta. Luise Barclay will take the part of Eileen, sung by Miss Claire. Bob Bailey portrays Barry O'Day, sung by Peerce; Marvin Mueller is Shaun, sung by Foote, and Marilou Neumayer, Rosie Flynn, sung by Miss Thompson. Others in the dramatic cast are Bret Morrison, Bess McCammon, Ray Suber, Bob Jellison, and Willard Waterman.

All the familiar melodies of the operetta, including the popular "Thine Alone," will be included in this broadcast version. Henry Weber will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and ensemble. Robert Trendler is the ensemble coach; Lewis James, the vocal coach, and William A. Bacher, the producer. John Weigel will be the narrator.

Tons of Plaster Fall on Empty Church Pews

Several tons of plaster fell in St. Mary's Croatian church, Joliet, yesterday when the ceiling over the pews collapsed. The church was empty at the time. Just before Christmas the church had been completely redecorated at a cost of $3,000. The section that fell was 70 by 80 feet.

Cupid Gets Off to Flying Start: 5 Engagements

BY JUDITH CASS.

ROMANCE comes to the fore on this first week-end of 1942 and five engagement announcements head today's social news. In Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., this afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Guy Robinson are giving a tea and cocktail party to announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Lee, to Weymouth Stone Kirkland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland of North State street.

The Hamilton Daughadays of Winnetka had planned to announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Colton, to John Quincy Adams Jr. at a tea on Sunday, Jan. 11, but because so many of their friends already have guessed the news, Mr. and Mrs. Daughaday are making the formal announcement this morning. At a small party at home on New Year's eve Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Korrady of Winnetka made known that their daughter, Priscilla George, is engaged to Robert Edward Blackburn.

In Waterbury, Conn., at a tea on Dec. 28 announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Patricia Genevieve Hawkes to a former Winnetkan, Philip Stepney Townsend. And yesterday in Oshkosh, Wis., announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Susan Elizabeth Hardy of that city to Samuel Willis Heaney of Chicago and Glen Ellyn.

Kirkland Family in East for Announcement Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland left yesterday to be in Irvington for the announcement party. Their only daughter, Mrs. James Scott Kemper Jr., and Mr. Kemper, who live in Pelham Manor, N. Y., also will be there. Miss Robinson visited the Kirklands last summer, so some of their friends here have met her. She was graduated from the Misses Masters' school at Dobbs Ferry in 1938. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Robinson of Yonkers and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Melchior S. Beltzhoover of Pittsburgh and Natchez, Miss. The Beltzhoover home is one of the famous old ones of Natchez and is opened every spring during the pilgrimage to the interesting old town.

Young Mr. Kirkland attended the Hotchkiss school and Princeton university, where he was graduated in 1940. He has been attending the Harvard law school, but he joins the new class of midshipmen to be trained at Abbott hall in Chicago on Jan. 22. No plans for the wedding have been made.

Miss Daughaday Debut Made at a Tea in 1939.

Miss Daughaday, whose mother was Miss Harriett Lyon before her marriage, made her debut at a tea in 1939. She attended the North Shore Country Day school and Mount Holyoke college. After being graduated there she spent last winter studying at the Art institute. Mr. Adams, whose parents also live in Winnetka, studied at Hotchkiss and the Wassookeag school in Dexter, Me., before going to Williams college. After his graduation there he entered business in Chicago. No date for the wedding has been set.

Neither have Miss Korrady and Mr. Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Adam Blackburn of Evanston, decided when they will be married. Miss Korrady attended the North Shore Country Day school and the Northampton School for Girls in Massachusetts, and now is a junior at Smith college. Mr. Blackburn, who is a junior at Princeton university, attended the North Shore Country Day and the Lawrenceville school in New Jersey.

Townsend-Hawkes Troth Announced at Tea Party.

The Townsend-Hawkes engagement was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William V. Hawkes, at a tea at their home in Waterbury. Miss Hawkes attended Dana Hall in Wellesley, Mass., and was graduated from St. Margaret's school. She later attended the University of Missouri. She is the great-granddaughter of the late Sarah Jennings Budd Hendrie of New York and the granddaughter of Ralph Thomas Tyner of New York and the late Henry Hawkes of London, England.

Mr. Townsend, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Louis Townsend of Winnetka, was graduated from St. John's Military academy in Wisconsin and then went to the University of Missouri. He is in business in Waterbury.

Miss Hardy is the daughter of Oscar J. Hardy and her fiancé is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Noble Sproat Heaney of Glen Ellyn and Chicago. Miss Hardy attended Stevens college and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Heaney prepared for college at the Francis W. Parker school and in Switzerland and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin.

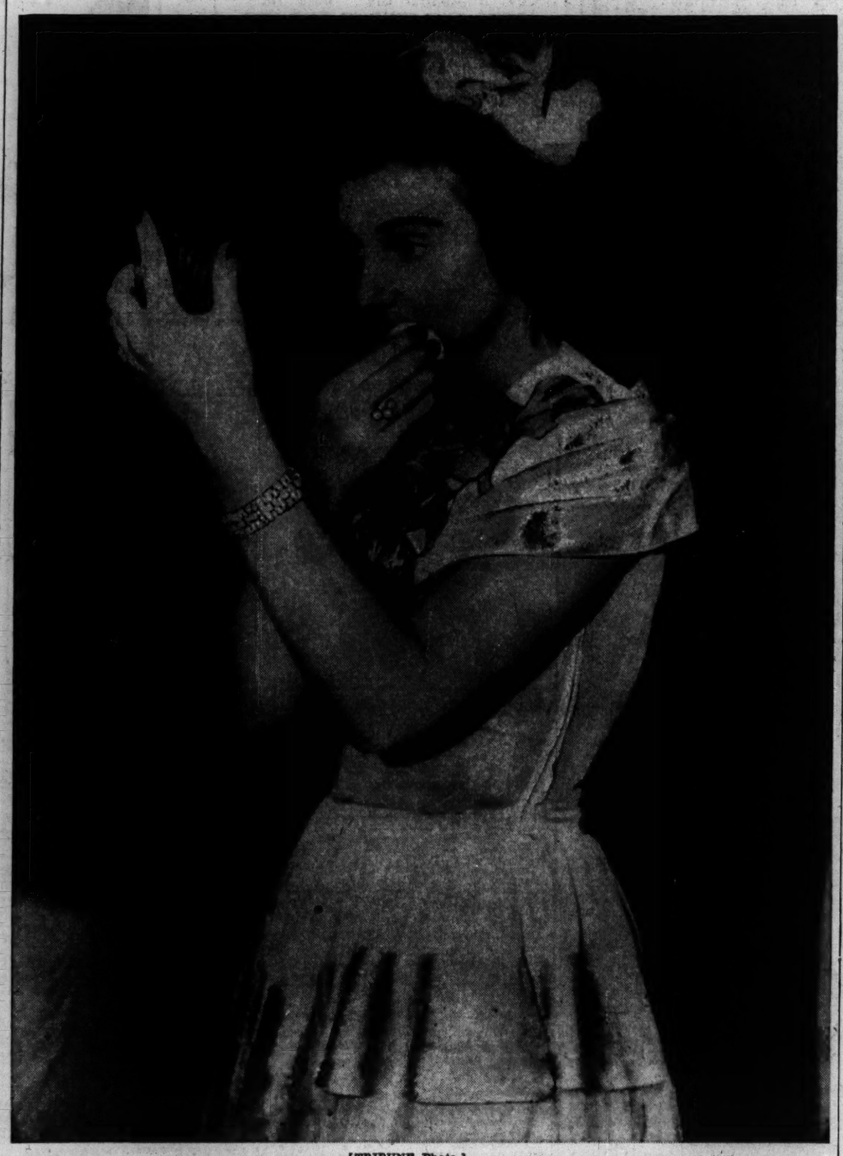

Junior Henry A. Gardners' New Daughter Is Home.

The most exciting event of New Year's eve for Henry A. Gardner Jr. was the arrival from the Presbyterian hospital of his wife and new daughter, Fredericka. The baby, the young Gardners' first child, was born on Dec. 20. On hand to welcome her were two sets of grandparents, the Louis Siebers of Evanston and Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Sr. of Winnetka. Young Mrs. Gardner is the former Gertrude Sieber.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Norcross Jr. are receiving congratulations on the birth of their second son on Dec. 18 in their home in Libertyville. The baby has been named Michael. Mrs. Norcross is the former Harriette Weisbach, daughter of Harry Weisbach and the late Madeline Whitehead Rockwell. The baby's paternal

Furniture Marts Open Monday; War Alters Style and Material

Program Is Announced

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Chicago will be the center for furniture and home furnishings men and for the members of the American Designers' institute, as well as for the group composing the American Institute of Decorators during the next two weeks.

The midwinter markets at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart start on Monday and continue thru Jan. 17. At the Press club luncheon at the American Furniture Mart on Monday Paul Hake of the Burton Dixie corporation will talk on manufacturers' problems in a nation faced with total war; Ben Nash of the New York chapter of the American Designers' institute will discuss the future of design and the designer; Clarence Haverty of the Haverty Furniture companies will give the retail viewpoint and outlook and Dr. James F. Bogardus of the Office of Price Administration in Washington will talk on coöperation between industry and government during the future.

On Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the American Designers' institute clinic Robert Bingman, Creston Doner, Robert Sherwood, and Gordon Obrig will be the speakers. And at 7:30 p. m. at the semiannual dinner for members and their guests the speakers will be Gladys Miller, Morris Sanders, Houlder Hudgins, and Donald Dohner.

Also on Tuesday the Chicago chapter of the Fashion group will turn over its luncheon meeting at the Drake hotel at 12:30 p. m. to the subject of the midwinter furniture market, Alfred Auerbach, editor of Retailing and consultant for OPA, being the speaker.

The convention of the American Institute of Decorators will be held during the second week of the shows, Jan. 15, 16, and 17. The decorators are invited to view 40 newly furnished rooms, many of them designed by members of their group, 660 North Wabash avenue.

These interiors will be opened tomorrow and for two weeks following the public is invited to inspect them. Hours are from 1 to 6 p. m. on Sundays and 1 to 9 p. m. on weekdays. The theme of the rooms is based on the changing trends in America's home surroundings. For the most part traditional periods dominate, but there are among the Regency, Victorian, 18th century English and French settings a scattering of frankly modern interiors.

One is a dining room carried out in tones of beige with a large photo mural in color set into a panel in one wall and lighted from behind. Another is a bedroom in which the window curtains have the same design as the wall paper which is used only on one wall, the others being painted white.

It is planned to change these room furnishings periodically, as art galleries change their exhibitions. They represent a cross-section of the work of contemporary decorators in this country.

Utility Replaces Variety

BY MARCIA WINN.

The long finger of war is making many changes in the furnishings of the American home. Variety is being replaced by utility in the two great home furnishings markets which will be opened Monday in the Merchandise mart and the American Furniture mart

In furniture proper the changes are slight other than that all manufacturers are curtailing lines and styles. Manufacturers who in former years introduced 500 new pieces at these annual shows now are introducing four or five. In these they stress durability.

Manufacturers of items made from vital defense metals are quickly turning to other and ingenious fields. A firm which formerly handled electric toasters, irons, and mangles is switching to plastic rope, cloth, and furniture edges. An aluminum house is switching to pottery and cast iron. An electrical appliance firm is switching to cold cream.

The lamp industry, as hard hit as any group, is displaying great ingenuity. Pottery, glass, and wood bases quickly are replacing metal bases for table lamps. Plastics are replacing metal sockets, copper being used only for the electrical contact. In standing lamps plastics have been used to beautiful effect to simulate metal, wood, and even marble bases.

All lamp cords, however, are being shortened, the nine foot length being reduced to six feet, the six foot to five. The OPM has ordered all rubber-covered cord withdrawn after March 31, and no one knows what will happen then.

With a 42 per cent curtailment on stove production already in effect and a complete curtailment expected soon, few new stoves are being made. One firm is reissuing the familiar black iron model of 25 and 50 years ago.

The new uses for plastics are endless. Wherever possible, it is being used to replace metal on furniture, but it also is replacing metals in the kitchen. Two new items shown in the Merchandise Mart are a plastic juice extractor, in which a tubular device is inserted into an orange and the juice drained out, and a plastic grater for cheese, vegetables, or bread.

Common woods are coming into their own. One firm is busily manufacturing dowels, small wooden pegs, to replace nails. It also is turning out wooden bicycle pedals, to replace metal and rubber, wooden handles and knobs and a wooden Tom and Jerry set.

Many firms have turned to South America for their importations. Furniture houses specializing in rattan, now extremely popular and emanating from China and the Philippines, are getting their supplies from Guatemala. Glass firms, cut off from fine Swedish and Czecho-Slovakian houses, not only are relying on American glassmakers, but are getting fine cased glass from Brazil. The markets will continue thru Jan. 17.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

One minor blessing that developed in 1941 was the invention of those preparations that help nail polish to dry more quickly, endow it with a higher gloss and give a greater protection against chipping. For these, at least, we can be thankful.

We have gathered wonderful reports of the latest of these. One of our pals who has never been able to make her polish last any reasonable length of time now goes about flashing her scarlet finger tips in every one's face. She does her own nails, uses the polish that is the companion piece of the chip-preventive and then applies the almost colorless liquid. It speeds up the drying process but what she likes best about it is the way it makes her polish almost impervious to all the assaults that used to batter it. She can scrub or type now without sacrificing her manicure within a day after she has it.

Of course, where the lasting quality of any nail polish is concerned—or even in the matter of products designed to make the coat more enduring—you must always remember that circumstances alter cases. You can't expect miracles and you can expect unforeseen accidents. One flick of even the most carefully coated nail may throw all the claims for polish protection to the winds if you just have the bad luck to hit it at a devastating angle. Or you might, if you're a housewife, meet up with a scouring job that not even the best protected polish could withstand.

This liquid gives what we'd call better than reasonable protection. It's a good beauty aid for the woman who wants her nails to look well under all circumstances.

Red Cross Day Tomorrow in City Churches

Churches of all denominations in the Chicago district will observe Red Cross Sunday tomorrow, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago Red Cross chapter, has announced. Church members will be urged to contribute toward the $3,750,000 goal which is Chicago's quota in the $50,000,000 war relief fund campaign.

An announcement explaining the additional demands placed upon Red Cross services as a result of the war will be read in most churches, Mr. Forgan said. The campaign is entirely separate from the annual Red Cross roll call recently completed for local needs. Officials further indicated that the job of providing services for both the armed forces and the civilian population in combat areas may make greater demands in the future, necessitating more funds. The nation will be observing Red Cross week, month, and year until the war has been won.

The executive council for the Chicago drive was completed yesterday with the appointment of Frederick W. Spiegel, vice president of Spiegel, Inc., as a vice chairman. Present at the strategy meeting in the Borland building headquarters were Mr. Forgan, Mr. Spiegel, Martin H. Kennelly, vice chairman, and Mitchell McKeown, campaign director. Joseph H. King and Joseph M. Cudahy also are vice chairmen and Miss Harriet McLaughlin is chairman of the women's division.

The Navy Mothers' club, slowly taking form under the organizing hand of Mrs. Helen Joyce of Evanston, will open its headquarters at 333 North Michigan avenue Monday. Any mother who has a son or foster son in the navy, marines, or coast guard is eligible for membership. The group will be affiliated with the national Navy Mothers organization.

"Every navy mother is needed to help us carry on our work of upholding our boys' morale," said Mrs. Joyce. "We want them all to drop in at headquarters to see what they can do."

As soon as a staff of hostesses is organized, the clubrooms will be opened to sailors who want to read newspapers and magazines or write letters, she added. The club also will plan social activities for boys in the naval district.

Across the hall from the clubrooms, mothers and other women will be busily knitting for the sailors in the Bundles for Bluejackets office. More than 1,000 volunteers already are knitting, reported Mrs. John P. Cohane, chairman, but other volunteers are needed to do office work during the day.

An appeal for more homemade cakes was issued at the Service Men's center, 174 Washington street, yesterday by Miss B. J. Norcott, promotion director. A single cake from the individual housewife is as acceptable as a donation of several from club groups, she added. They should be delivered to the reception desk on the first floor.

Thousands of service men are expected to attend the entertainment revue this afternoon, the dance tonight and another revue tomorrow which will wind up the program for the boys on a 72 hour New Year's leave. The Hi-Hat revue headed by Billy Carr will be presented today. The Empire room revue from the Palmer House, featuring the Abbott dancers, the Hartmans, and Griff Williams orchestra, will be offered tomorrow afternoon.

Club for Crippled Children to Induct Officers Monday

Mrs. Herbert H. Kant will be inducted as president of the Chicago Club for Crippled Children at an installation tea at 1:30 o'clock Monday in the Palmer House. Planned as a festive occasion, the meeting will be open to guests. Dr. Jacob Singer, rabbi of Temple Mizpah, will speak and will conduct the installation ceremonies.

Among others taking office will be Mrs. J. S. Grove, Mrs. Jack Silver, Mrs. Irving Kulwin, Mrs. Harold Levin, Mrs. Alvin Block, Mrs. Alex Baum, and Miss Rita Lewin.

Organized to alleviate the suffering of crippled and maimed children, the club maintains an orthopedic brace shop in the Meyer house of Michael Reese hospital. Thousands of braces are given to needy children each year.

MISS BEVERLY BALLANTYNE.

Miss Ballantyne was graduated from Brownell hall and attended the Universities of Omaha and Nebraska. Mr. Hoff, a third generation Chicagoan, is the grandson of the late Joseph F. Max Beckmann Paintings Show Massive Power

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

All those who enjoy art on a big scale will relish the exhibition of paintings by Max Beckmann, which opened yesterday at the Arts club. Mr. Beckmann wields a powerful brush; his colors are crude and bitter. He paints things in what appears to be more than life size, and his canvases are like so many cudgels clamoring for a hearing. They beat upon the innocent bystander and force him to stand and deliver. What one delivers is not important; the paintings simply demand some response to their abrupt challenge.

Many of the paintings suggest the era of the Roman gladiators; a few of them bring Chirico and his enormous classical incidents to mind, and others are frankly of today, but done in such Gargantuan proportion that they look like creatures from some future robot age. The composition of each canvas is strikingly simple, and where you have any breath left to murmur a few words of admiration [chiefly you are robbed of breath by the size and crashing colors of the canvases] at those few points you will find an admirable still life of flowers or an engaging portrait such as the charming one of Mrs. Beckmann, complete with Peke.

Much less alarming and much less strident is the Business Men's Art club exhibit at the Clubwoman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. Here are found the holiday efforts of amateur painters, and among them are several which are most likeable. "Mary's Lake, Estes Park," by William Helmcke, is such a one, and so, too, are "Moonlight," by G. N. Gunsteens; "A Bright Day," by Oscar Lumby; "Afterglow," by A. W. Sullivan, and "Dahlias," by F. M. Wheeler.

New Gabardine Suits Perfect for Career Girl

BY REA SEEGER.

A finished smooth performance is assured for any occasion thruout a busy day of the career girl [executive class] with one of the smart new tailored gabardine suits. These smoothies [meaning the suits] are the last word in streamlined swank. The skirts are short and snappy with inverted pleats where they'll do the most good, seams are straight and pressed flat as a dime to match the sharp edges of pressed pleats. The jackets are tailored with the same precision as the masculine jackets from which they have been copied.

Pockets are stitched and patched in position and there are plenty of pockets on most of the jackets, two high on the chest and two deep large ones on the hipline. The shoulders and collar are so flawlessly tailored as to give the masculine critics complete but startled satisfaction . . . all this plus the smooth swank of gabardine . . . what else could you want to make a proper new year's impression on the office crowd?

There's a grand color range from which to choose, the two stand-bys navy and black, after that, soft accent pastels for dark fur coats, beige, aqua-blue, rose and gray, then the effective coppers and cinnamon browns to wear with black accessories. All of them are tailored with telling simplicity, classic outfits for the most fastidious and particular suit enthusiast.

Two models are featured, one smart jacket with the usual notched collar and lapels, the smooth mannish shoulderlines and a fitted feminine silhouette thru the rib and waistline. Hand picked seams and facing details on lapels and round collar edges emphasize these notched collar models. The other choice is a more casual type jacket, cut with a soft turnover collar and a more bloused effect round the waistline. Skirts feature either the simple straight affairs with a front kick pleat only, or the inverted pleats for action.

Heart Association Opens Its Eighteenth Annual Stamp Sale

Opening its 18th annual stamp sale, the Chicago Heart association put 30,000 letters in the mail yesterday to Chicagoans who have supported its work in past years. Each letter carried a book containing 100 of the little heart stamps which sell for a penny each and which produce more than three fourths of the association's annual expenditure of approxivately $15,000.

The association's aim is the reduction of the mortality from heart disease. It carries on a campaign of educational information for heart sufferers, and also coördinates the work of about 30 clinics and other agencies in Chicago which pay special attention to heart disease, especially among needy sufferers.

Statistics compiled by the association and similar organizations in other cities indicates that about 3,000,000 Americans suffer from some form of heart disease, but that many of them could continue with their regular occupations if they would place themselves under medical care and confine their activities within the limits prescribed by their physicians.

Mrs. Ruth Pearce McEldowney is executive director of the association, which has offices at 203 North Wabash avenue.

Sports Note.

Did you know, of all things, that tropical fish play water polo? A food ring, oddly enough, is glass tubing in the shape of a triangle into which you put the fish food so that it doesn't scatter. Well, we have a sporty fish that pushes the ring around with all the determination of a center forward, long after the food is gone. Just goes to show that games are essential even to fish.

Happy Birthday.

We arrived on the stage of the Erlanger theater Thursday night at midnight to wish happy birthday to the girl with the world's most beautiful forehead. Only in ancient Greek sculpture is there such classic serenity. Now that you're curious, she is Zorina. It was a gold mine of an evening. . . . Tables of eight set up on the cleared stage for a buffet supper of spaghetti, beans, French bread, beer, and coffee. . . . Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, surrounded by her departing friends of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, among them Danilova, her husband, Casimir Kokitch, and James Starbuck. . . . Mrs. Billy Gaxton, with a shining light auburn pompadour, molded black dinner dress, long cerise gloves. . . . Patty Palmer [of "Native Son"] in a black hat about five inches in diameter and her husband, Charles Annslee [American aviator in the recently disbanded "There Shall Be No Night" company] . . . Five diehards like us who had been to Peg and Bob Harvey's annual New Year's relaxation party and then to hear Chilean Pianist Claudio Arrau at Orchestra hall. . . . Irene Bordoni, in black crêpe with vestee and apron of black and white print, and the dearly loved bangs, singing "Valentina" in the style of her good friend, Maurice Chevalier, saying, "Jetais nerveux comme un chat." [Maybe so, but let's be nervous like a cat if we can sing like that.] . . . Ernie Byfield in his old bow tie, applauding Zorina's lithe hopping from orchestra seat to box to stage. . . . Bobby Johnson, colored tap dancer, giving us a 1929 break [what you do between the 8 bars allotted one step in tap dancing] that brought down the house. . . . William D. Darrow, connoisseur, shocked and happy. . . . Happy birthday, Zorina.

Blithe Spirit.

Some people we know received a Christmas card from some one they thought had died. Mrs. M. said she thought he had, and Commander A. said he thought so, too. Mr. M. offered: "The sender is apparently of another opinion."

Somewhere When.

Margaret Anne Burrows Weds This Afternoon

Old family lace trims the bridal gown which Miss Margaret Anne Burrows is wearing this afternoon for her marriage to Lieut. Robert Mason Whittemore of Brookline, Mass. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William F. Burrows of Lake Forest. Officiating will be the Rev. Thomas Kelly Rogers. Only a small family group will see the wedding, and a few more friends have been invited to drop in later for the reception.

Miss Ruth Burrows will be her sister's maid of honor. Robert Sides, who is here from Andover, Mass., with Mrs. Sides, will attend his cousin as best man. The bride's cousins, George B. and Arthur A. Burrows Jr., will usher. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mason B. Whittemore, has come from her home in Brookline, Mass., for the wedding. Other out of town guests are Mr. and Mrs. Parker Whittemore and Mrs. John C. Spring of Boston, Mass. Lieut. Whittemore and his bride will live in Boston.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's church Miss Joan Wert, daughter of Dean and Mrs. James Wert of Iowa State college at Ames, Ia., will become the bride of Don Kenneth Jones Jr. Lieut. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones of East Delaware place. A reception will be held at the Drake hotel after the ceremony. Because of Lieut. Jones' military duties he and his bride will not be able to take a wedding trip.

The wedding will be a military one, with six of Lieut. Jones' fellow officers forming a saber arch. Brig. Gen. Chester R. Davis will be among the guests.

Miss Wert is a student at the University of Arizona. Lieut. Jones attended St. John's Military academy, Mercersburg academy, the University of Michigan, and the University of Arizona.

Remembrances of other days will be brought back by the gown and veil which Miss Mary Walsh will wear today for her marriage to Silas Burnham Yates. For the 4:30 o'clock ceremony in the chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church, Miss Walsh will wear the handsome white satin bridal gown and Brussels net veil of her mother, Mrs. Arthur W. Walsh. The dress is trimmed with heirloom rosepointe and duchess lace which belonged to the bride's grandmother, the late Mrs. John W. Wells. The veil, which has a duchess lace border, also was worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Hunt, who will be her matron of honor today.

Mr. Yates' best man will be his father, Willard Yates, who is here from Lincoln, Neb., with Mrs. Yates. Other out-of-town guests at the wedding and reception to follow in the Winnetka home of Mr. and Mrs. Walsh are Mr. and Mrs. George Holms and their daughter, Joan, of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wells of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wells, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wells II., and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wells, all of Menominee, Mich. After two weeks in Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Yates will be at home in Chicago.

Miss Dorothy Ann Duval and Robert Stevenson III. will repeat their wedding vows at 4:15 o'clock today before their immediate families, gathered in the parish house of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church. The bride's mother, Mrs. William H. Duval of Aldine avenue, will give a small reception at the Saddle and Cycle club.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Duval will be her sister's maid of honor. Malcolm Stevenson, here from Youngstown, O., with Mrs. Stevenson, will attend his brother as best man. Their sister, Mrs. Bruce Thorne, and Mr. Thorne will be at the wedding, but another brother, Lieut. George S. Stevenson, was unable to bring his wife from his army post. After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson will live here.

The marriage of Miss Marilyn Gist to Lieut. James B. Stewart will take place at 4 o'clock today in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buford Gist of Beverly Hills. Miss Gist will have her sister, Cherie, as maid of honor, and the bridegroom's brother, Robert, a cadet at Culver Military academy, will be best man. A home reception will follow the wedding. Lieut. Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Stewart of South Jeffery avenue, was graduated from Culver and from Washington and Lee university.

Miss Rosemary Schiff will wear her mother's wedding gown for her marriage tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Lake Shore Country club to Robert A. Barnard. Miss Schiff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Schiff of Highland Park. Mr. Barnard's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Casril N. Barnard of Winnetka. After a reception at the club Mr. Barnard and his bride will leave for a motor trip to Florida. They will live in Ravinia.

Miss Schiff will be attended by Miss Elizabeth Felsenthal as maid of honor and Mrs. M. A. Lightman of Memphis, Tenn., as matron of honor. Richard Barnard will be his brother's best man, and another brother, James, and Allen Englander of Cleveland, O., will be ushers. Miss Schiff studied at Stephens college. Mr. Barnard was graduated from the University of Michigan.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Dunham, daughter of Lloyd C. Dunham of West 102d street, to Herbert Joseph Budrik will take place today at the home of the bride's father, and will be followed by a wedding dinner at the Windermere East hotel. Mr. Budrik is the son of Joseph F. Budrik of Chicago. After their return from a wedding trip Mr. Budrik and his bride will live at 11259 South Edgebrook avenue.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 2.—When the little yellow men from the land of Nip-up visited Hawaii they played more hob with Hollywood than with Pearl Harbor. Pearl Harbor, according to dispatches, is already fixed up, but the sound of bombs continues to reverberate in the conference rooms and writers' penthouses of Studioland. Newest development is that Hollywood is suddenly faced with an acute shortage of Japs.

Nobody wants to play a Jap. Not even the half dozen Japs registered with the screen actors' guild.

Twentieth Century-Fox is shooting a number called "Secret Agent" and its history is interesting. The yarn was spun by John Francis Larkin, the studio's expert in snakelike skulduggery, who has fabricated many a Charlie Chan.

Larkin has a leaning toward oriental villainy, and some time before the new disturbance he dreamed up "Secret Agent," which involved a number of Japanese spies. The picture was scheduled and cast and the leading lady was to be Lynn Bari, who can act better than most of Mr. Zanuck's beauties but who has never been given the big star push.

At conferences the studio decided that the Japs must go out. We were at peace with the little squirts from the island empire, and it's one of Hollywood's rules that you mustn't offend anybody. It was suggested that Larkin find some other villains—and, mind you, the suggestion was sound. Our state department would have said the same thing.

Larkin said: "How about Germans?"

This substitution finally got an okay. Revisions got under way and the shooting schedule was set for Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Pearl Harbor got bombed on a Sunday. On Monday all studio walls were quivering like Eugene Pallette's lower profile. On Monday Larkin got a summons to headquarters. "Put those Japs back in," he was ordered.

This was simple to do—but then the studio encountered a new crisis. Nobody wanted to play the head "baddie." The job was offered to Peter Lorre, who has played more slinking orientals than almost anybody else. The Creep, as we loving friends call him, turned the job down. It would injure his prestige to play a Jap.

A number of Chinese were sought for minor Jap parts. Nobody would bite. Filipinos were approached and they all said the hell with it. At the current writing, the studio is figuring on filling the minor rôles with actors of the Italian gangster type, who can be made to look pretty good by pulling their eyes back. The head Hashimura has not yet been chosen, but among those being tested are Steve Geray of Hungary and Noel Madison of New York City and the University of Lausanne, Switzerland.

I suspect that the present unwillingness of some good Hollywood Americans to play our enemies will abate. An Austrian army officer, Erich von Stroheim, made a fine career being a perefect louse during the old World war and has been a successful actor ever since. He played more cruel Prussians than anybody else, and was the military expert on D. W. Griffith's great propaganda picture, "Hearts of the World."

RKO would like to borrow Susan Hayward from Paramount for "Little Pinks." . . . Bing goes the resolution of another actress to divide her time between stage and screen. Instead of returning to Broadway, Katharine Hepburn will make another movie to follow "Woman of the Year." Something called "American Cavalcade," no less. . . . A motel next door to Ciro's advertises a free bottle of champagne with every room. . . . Well, Hollywood's night club business has fallen off to such an extent that some joints could offer a free room with every bottle of champagne. . . . Because of their "Chattanooga Choo Choo" song in "Sun Valley Serenade," Mack Gordon and Harry Warren have received Keys to the City from the president of Chattanooga, Inc. . . . Ty Power and Joan Fontaine have been playing a marathon gin rummy game on the set of "This Above All"—and are paying each other off in defense stamps.

A timid screenwriter who had volunteered as an air raid warden drew his first assignment recently—an all night patrol on a sparsely settled hillside above a swank movie village. Carefully bundled and armed with a flashlight, he pounded his pathless beat for some hours.

Then he looked over his shoulder and saw a squad of soldiers, silent and menacing, watching him. They had a big cannon and the thing seemed aimed right at him. The scenarist clattered down the hillside to the nearest police station, asked the cops if they'd had any word of the enemy landing. No, soothed the cops. What he saw was one of our own outfits.

Next night the plot-cooker, on his beat again, found the soldiers and introduced himself. Said he felt silly about running away. "Yeah," said an army man. "We were watching you an hour. We were going to take a shot at you because we thought you were signaling with that flashlight."

Whereupon the air raid warden fainted.

French Author Will Speak Before Alliance Francaise

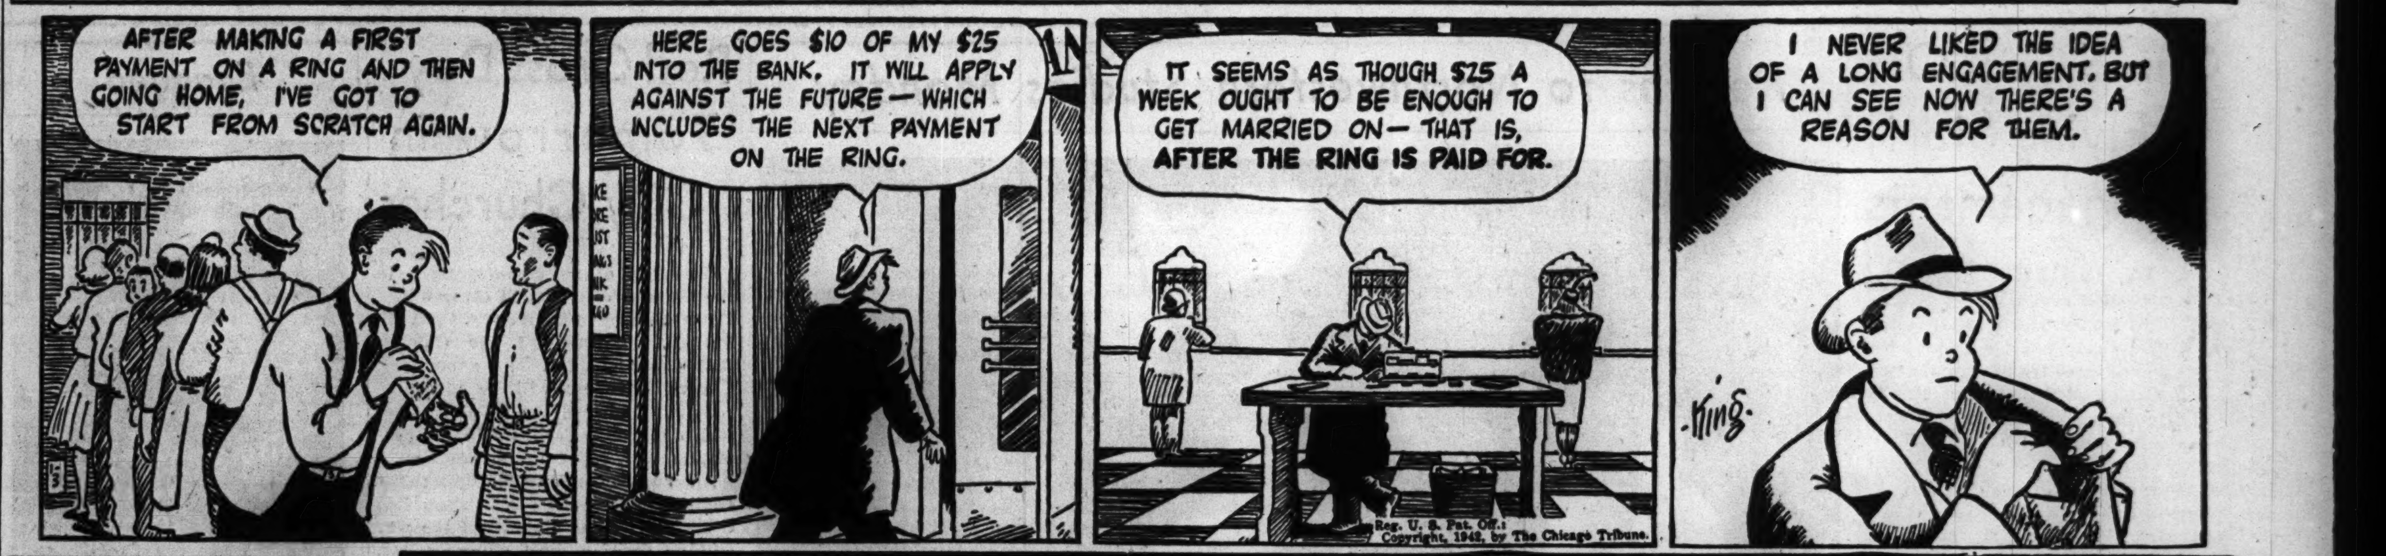

Georges Clemenceau will be discussed by Robert de St. Jean at a meeting of the Alliance Française this morning at 11:30 o'clock. Mr. de St. Jean is the former director of the London office of the Paris-Soir newspaper and chief of staff of the French ministry of information before the fall of France. He is the author of "France Speaking."

Are you harboring an old family recipe which you've used for a long time and treasure highly? Do you have a "specialty" which your friends want you to make when they come to your house to eat? Do you have an original, economical dish which you prepare for the family, and which they demand time after time?

The world is full of recipes, but the really good ones aren't to be found in every kitchen. If you have one which you like very much, why not see if there's any money in it for you? My department is conducting a recipe contest, with a daily prize of $5 for some good cook—man, woman or child.

You'll notice that our prize winners aren't often the expensive, hard-to-make kind of recipe. Sometimes they are extremely simple, easy ones.

Any good recipe is eligible for the contest. While we can't return any of them, every one we print will give full credit to the sender.

The rules of the contest are simple. Write your recipe plainly, giving full instructions and directions, including number of servings, in most cases, and baking temperatures. we test the best recipes which we get and award prizes to those which we think deserve them. Please send in only one recipe at a time.

We hope that "honorable mention" winners will try again some time for a prize. We'd like to have an unlimited supply of prizes to award, but alas, there can be only one a day!

Several times we've been about to make up a recipe which sounded very good, and which occasionally had an interesting story back of it, only to find that the sender had omitted an ingredient, or left some of her directions so vague as to be confusing. We beg you to check your recipe thoroly before sending it in to us.

Mrs. Mary Newman, 165 15th avenue, Columbus, O., wins an honorable mention with her recipe for Brussels Sprouts Piquant, which she says appeal to those who don't ordinarily care for the vegetable.

Brussels Sprouts Piquant.
[Serves 6].
1 quart Brussels sprouts
2 tablespoons melted fat
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup hot tomato juice
1 cup milk
¾ cup grated cheese

Soak cleaned sprouts in cold water several minutes. Cook 15 minutes, or until tender, in boiling salted water. Drain. Combine flour, fat and salt. Add tomato juice and pour slowly into cold milk. Cook in double boiler until thickened and smooth. Add sauce to sprouts in individual baking dishes. Sprinkle with cheese. Brown at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

Another good vegetable dish, baked beets, wins a mention for Mrs. E. G. Larson, 12039 South La Salle street, Chicago.

Baked Beets.
12 small beets
1½ tablespoons grated orange rind
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup hot water
⅔ cup orange juice

Peel and slice beets thinly into buttered baking dish. Add remaining ingredients. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until tender, about 1 hour.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Today's recipe contest prize of $5 goes to Mrs. Paul Boughton, 674 West Stephenson street, Freeport, Ill. Her black walnut cookies are crisp and full of flavor.

Send your own favorite recipe to Recipe Contest, Chicago Tribune. It may win a prize, too. There'll be an award every day for some good recipe, and your entry may be anything from a sauce to a pudding. Write the recipe plainly and give full directions. And be sure to clip the prize winners for your recipe booklet. There'll be jewels among them!

Black Walnut Cookies.
½ cup margarine
½ cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
2 well beaten eggs
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
3 cups sifted flour
1 cup chopped black walnuts

Cream shortening and brown sugar. Beat in eggs. Sift dry ingredients together and add. Mix in nuts. Pack in greased loaf tin and chill. Slice and bake cookies at 400 degrees until golden brown.

Pretty Apron Fashions

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

Entertaining during these hectic times must necessarily be most informal, if for no other reasons than patriotic ones. For these casual get-togethers you'll need dainty aprons to cover your nice frocks. We suggest today's two patterns as candidates for your favor.

Style No. 2710 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Any size requires 1 yard of 39 inch material with 1⅛ yards of each color of binding.

Style No. 3172 is designed for one size, suitable for sizes 10 to 20. It requires 1 yard of 39 inch material, with 2½ yards of rickrack.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with pattern.

One Atomizer Won't Do for All Products

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

In the use of atomizers for spraying perfume, cologne, toilet water, brilliantine and the like, manufacturers would like us to understand that no one type of atomizer is constructed to be applicable to all the named products.

A perfume atomizer, we are told, is designed to deliver a relatively light spray. This is because perfumes are heavy-scented and only a limited quantity is required. Spilling and evaporization of costly perfumes may be prevented by using an atomizer equipped with a leak-proof closing.

A cologne atomizer is differently constructed, since colognes may be used generously. Hence the atomizers from which colognes are sprayed are planned to deliver a quantity of liquid at each bulb compression.

The facts pertaining to cologne atomizers hold true with the application of toilet water. Toilet water is merely a diluted form of perfume, therefore should be applied generously.

Brilliantine calls for an atomizer that differs radically from those designed for perfumes, colognes, and toilet waters. The brilliantine atomizer is designed to handle the heavier hair oils with the spraying opening situated to permit convenient application to the hair.

We are advised, when out shopping for an atomizer, to tell the clerk the exact use to which we expect to put it.

A note we would add ourselves: Be sure to wash thoroly the atomizer or perfume bottle you intend to refill with another scent, otherwise you may not recognize the odor you'd counted on as something very special.

Also, believe the manufacturers that you can make your costly perfumes last doubly long by the use of the leakproof, evaporation-proof type of atomizer.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

To discard a loser is a joy and delight to the average player, but to discard a winner seems to go directly against his grain. Yet, in many situations it is just as vital to get rid of an ace as it is to discard a deuce at another time. Note today's hand:

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds
Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade nine. Declarer, evidently a frugal soul, let this ride to his own ace, then with a pitiful attempt at deception led out the trump jack. The attempt was wasted, because East had to win with the singleton ace. East then laid down the club ace to see what signal card West would play. When West denied the king by playing low, East properly reasoned that a spade return was the best possible; hence led the spade queen. West ruffed with a deep sigh of relief.

I wonder whether the declarer ever awoke to the fact that he had thrown away his contract by overlooking an absurdly simple safety play. Surely he should have been alive to the possibility that the spade nine lead was a singleton, and to recognize the danger would have been tantamount to avoiding it. The correct play [which I am sure all of my readers have already discovered] was to put up dummy's spade king on the first trick, then to cash the heart ace so that South's spade ace could be promptly discarded. Now, with the danger of a spade ruff obviated, declarer, of course, should start to take out trumps. East would win the first lead and return a spade, but now declarer would be prepared; he would ruff in with a high trump, draw West's trump seven, and then concede the club ace.

A safety play as simple as this never should be overlooked.

John Husband to Review Book for P. E. N. Class

Punishment Is Poor Means of Management

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Severity, harshness, and physical punishment are vain measures to use to help a child to walk in the way he should go, and to make him feel loved, happy and secure. Such measures bear poor fruit. Parents who use them not only fail in all these directions, but they should know that they are potentially dangerous to a child, mentally and emotionally. Several dangers lurk in the offing when these stern attitudes are the constant ones of a father and mother toward their children.

And deceit is a third. Parents who won't permit this or that, and punish for broken rules are in danger of forcing their children to do, undercover, the things they forbid. All sorts of deception, untruthfulness and other forms of dishonesty are likely to result from strictness and fear unless a child is one who is easily crushed and so obeys to the letter, or is conscientious to an extreme degree. Occasionally a child of strong will openly revolts, which is more wholesome than subjection. However, neither being subdued, nor driven to rebellion is good for a young being in the tender formative stages of his life. The gentle, easily subdued child should have her spirit and self-confidence built up, rather than destroyed. The sensitive, frank, overly-conscientious child should not be taken advantage of. And the spirited child should be handled with a light rein.

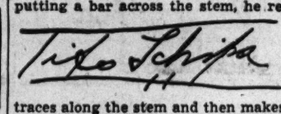

How may a child be taught obedience? Should children be permitted freedom of the house? You will find answers to these and other problems in "You and Your Young Child." Mrs. Gladys Bevans' latest booklet, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents; postpaid, 18 cents.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

There is one letter formation which the singer, Tito Schipa, uses which you can look for in your own handwriting and in the handwriting of your friends. Look at the second "t" in his first name. Instead of putting a bar across the stem, he re-traces along the stem and then makes a looped knot. That type of stroke reveals persistence.

If you find it, don't underestimate the will power of the writer. They have a great deal of endurance in a quiet way and you will find them still going strong long after the more obviously aggressive ones have given up.

Mr. Schipa has plenty of driving force, as his whole signature shows with its forward slant, heavy pressure, and long sweeping upper and lower stroke which frame the signature. That underscore and upper stroke indicate poise and confidence and are used by those who have had long experience appearing before the public.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Hospitality Plus.

Hotel poesy, accompanied by one beautiful, deep yellow rose, brought to the room by a bell boy:

Managers, clerks, maids and waiters
Extend a welcome that's sincere,
Bell boys, bus boys, chefs and stewards
All are proud you're staying here!

Calendar Thoughts.

Thoughts While Looking at a 1942 Calendar: The word calendar, like so many words in daily use, has a business connotation. It comes from the Latin "calendarium," meaning an account or interest book. [Interest came due on the kalends, the first day of the Roman month]. . . . The boss suggests that business people would prefer a 13 month year of 4 weeks each month. So long as Thanksgiving day was changed [says he], why not change the calendar? . . . In one calendar I have seen the 13th month could fit in right smartly after December and would be called Triember.

Candy Eaters.

The girls behind candy counters eat an astonishing amount of candy. You might think the smell and sight of the sweetness would pall, but not so. In one shop they place bets to try to keep each other from sampling each new dainty as it comes out of the kitchen. None of them has forgotten the new girl who, her first day at work, ate so many marshmallow candies she didn't appear the next day . . . said she'd had a bad night's rest what with that big marshmallow hat someone kept slapping on her head . . . in her dreams. In the candy business, the most meticulous neatness and cleanliness are essential. [A well-known candy-maker does not permit her salespeople to stuff handerchiefs in the pocket of a smock.]

Like waitresses, the girls at candy counters grow so accustomed to regular orders of certain customers that often a tap on the window [from a business man hustling past] is sufficient to place an order. One finger held up indicates the gentleman wishes one pound; two fingers, two pounds.

In the midst of the holiday hubbub two salesgirls were reminded of this column—one of the paragraph ending "The Js had it." For—a woman, ordering candy to be sent to her husband's customers gave the names: Smith, Swanson, Schulz, Schwass and S. Suran. "So," adds the letter bearing the tale, "you see the S's had it."

The other salesgirl noted an inclosure card with a box of candy to be mailed to a soldier. There were several signatures: Jane . . . Helen . . . Betty . . . and White-Collar-Girl-Alice.

Conversation Pieces.

They're Still Talking About: the girl in the real estate loan department who wrapped her nieces' and nephews' gifts in newspaper, all decorated with stickers and the usual fancy ribbons . . . the beautiful blonde who came to work with Christmas snow, like stardust, in her hair . . . the Christmas card of Marion Claire—two recordings sent by special messenger [did you know she is doubling up on careers by writing a book?] . . . the executive who drank a toast to his secretary "so efficient," he said, "she even knows when I'm ready to smoke a cigar."

Racine Catholics Revive Old Prayer for Troops

Racine, Wis., Jan. 2 [Special].—A prayer service, orginally used in 1571 under direction of Pope Pius V., and known as "Help of Christians" prayers, will be revived each Sunday night in St. Mary's Catholic church for the duration of the war. The Rev. John J. Stehling, pastor, said that prayers will be asked to defeat "the forces of evil which threaten our country and Christendom." The services, open to the public, will be offered for the men who are in the armed services of the United States.

Right Man Is Worth a Three Year Betrothal

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

The young man is 29, the girl 24.

"My problem is this," she writes: "He is the main support in his family because their father is dead. He does not make much salary at the present time, altho he says there is chance for advancement where he now is employed. But he tells me that it would be three years, at least, before he could think of marriage.

"He's a fine fellow and has everybody's respect. He has been frank and honest with me. He tells me he loves me, but he will not stand in the way of my making a more advantageous marriage, if that is what I want. I don't want that. I want him. But it seems such a long, long wait, with neither of us young now. I have tried meeting other young men, but 'no dice,' as far as I'm concerned. Is it wise, in your judgment, to wait three years more, or abandon this hope entirely. MARTHA."

All things considered, and three years being far from a lifetime, we think planning for marriage with the man you admire, respect, and love is worth optimistic consideration. Twenty-four and 29 are not ripe old ages. Three years hence there's youth still in hand, with love leading.

However, the thing to do is to make a decision quickly, removing all doubts, all hesitancies, all worries. If you make up your mind this is the man for you, Martha, then plan your life with him in mind. In those three intervening years you alone, and you two together, can do a good deal toward making that dream-home come true. You can cut corners financially, as probably can he, and with a home in mind the economies practiced are not hard to bear.

DORIS BLAKE'S LETTER BOX

Have you a perplexing problem on which you need friendly counsel? Write to Doris Blake in care of the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. If you wish a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Belated Regrets.

"Dear Miss Blake: We had an argument eight months ago. At first I didn't miss him, but now I find I really love him. Please tell me what to do to make him come back. "BLUE EYES."

You can't make him come back, but you can encourage him by including him with others at a small gathering in your home.

He Goes "High-Hat."

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a boy I thought very nice until just lately, when he got a new car. Now he does not speak to me. My friends tell me he is not worth liking. Do you think the car made this change in him? ALONE."

Your friends seem to be right. Apparently he's gone "high-hat" on you. For shame!

She's in the Right.

"Dear Miss Blake: She says she loves me, and I love her. When I ask her why she goes out with other fellows, she says we're not engaged. Do you think she is right? "MORTY."

She's a smart girl to keep other suitors available until you get up the courage to propose to her. Of course she's right, Marty, and you know it.

Refuse His Dates.

"Dear Miss Blake: He is engaged to another girl, but becomes angry when I go out with other boys. I love him. Do you think he cares for me? "ALL ALONE."

His being engaged should be reason enough for you to refuse dates with him. If he cares about your going out with others, he will have to break his engagement, or give up seeing you!

FIRE LA GUARDIA FROM OCD, PLEA OF CONGRESSMAN

Kennedy Denounces Mayor for Neglect of Duty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—Charging that the municipal functions of New York City are being demoralized by the continued absence of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia from the city, Rep. Martin J. Kennedy [D., N. Y.] today appealed to President Roosevelt from the house floor to remove him as director of the Office of Civilian Defense.

"I stand here and plead with the President to replace Mayor La Guardia in the civilian defense organization and I propose as often as necessary to stand on this floor and beg the President to make a change," said Kennedy, whose home is in New York City. "No one man has the power or the facilities to carry on both offices."

Kennedy also denounced La Guardia's "manners, condition of office, and neglect of office," charging that the New York mayor has repeatedly "insulted" newspapers which were critical of his ability to administer both offices. He told his colleagues that a recent test air raid alarm in New York had found the city "unprepared and disorganized with our mayor nowhere to be found."

Engages in Name Calling.

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—While demands were renewed in Washington today for his removal as director of the Office of Civilian Defense, Fiorello La Guardia, New York's blustering mayor, engaged in several cross-country and home front battles of personalities and name calling.

Refusing to comment on reports he had resigned as OCD chief, La Guardia sought to dismiss criticism by calling his censors "two by four editors," "liars," and "Japs."

In a survey of the defense setup in New York City, these critics had uncovered a mountainous pile of data on inefficiency in the agency La Guardia boasted was "magnificently organized."

Admit Truth of Charges.

Several of the mayor's lieutenants and others in Washington admitted the truth of the charge and La Guardia himself finally admitted that the OCD had no official connection with the army, whose job it is to protect the city in event of possible enemy attacks.

In reply to criticism of his numerous OCD trips about the country, La Guardia said of his tour of the west coast after the Pearl Harbor attack: "O, I suppose some Jap or some friend of a Jap will say, 'We want you to be here.'"

La Guardia did not mention criticism of the production loss in California arms factories resulting from blackouts, assemblies of workers, and other confusion during his western visit. Neither did he refer to his message home when New York and its civilian defense organization was in panic over false air raid alarms during his absence. He curtly ordered: "Follow instructions I have given."

Shrugs Off Criticism.

The mayor merely shrugged off mention of conflicting orders here on New Year's eve horn tooting. Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine had just told New Yorkers they could make as much noise as they pleased when La Guardia, in Washington in his OCD capacity, requested a ban on horns and sirens in large cities.

In criticism of the horn tooting mixup the mayor saw a sort of fifth column motive which he termed "the new technique—to seek to create confusion, to continue fear and terror in the minds of our people."

While deploring criticisms of OCD as false or as attempts to arouse confusion, lack of confidence and terror, La Guardia sounded his own note of fear.

Predicts Attack on Cities.

"The war will come right to our cities and residential districts," he prophesied. "At the present time, under the present relative position of the enemy, we may not expect long continued, sustained attacks such as the cities of Great Britain have suffered, but we will be attacked."

In the next breath he waxed indignant again over "fifth columnists" who frighten the populace.

TWO YOUTHS DIE AS RECREATION HALL COLLAPSES

Mount Braddock, Pa., Jan. 2 (AP).—Two youths were killed and three persons injured today by the collapse of the community recreation center, caused by the cave-in of an abandoned coal mine tunnel underneath it. The others in the building, five boys ranging from 14 to 18 years, escaped injury.

The dead were Alfonso Lamb, 20, and George Beatty, 15. Lamb was crushed under the débris while playing table tennis with Albert Christ. Rescue workers said George Beatty died apparently attempting to shield Miss Evelyn Bradley, 19, junior instructor. A falling beam broke his back and a coal stove upset, the live coals setting fire to his clothing.

The recreation center, a one story brick building 90 feet long and 70 feet wide, collapsed without warning as its foundation dropped about six feet. The crash drowned out the strains of "This Love of Mine" from a juke box about which some of the boys were gathered.

Attempts Suicide with Gas; Revived and Locked Up

Members of squad 10 of the fire department revived Harlan Corse, 29 years old, last night after he had attempted suicide with gas in his room at 619 Belden avenue. Corse, who admitted he had served a term in Pontiac reformatory for robbery and became a parolee in March, 1939, told the police he was despondent over a quarrel with his girl. He was locked up for the night at the Hudson avenue station and charged with disorderly conduct.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What would you like to have happen to you in 1942?

WHERE ASKED.

Lobby of the Chicago theater.

THE ANSWERS.

J. W. Black, Giddings, Tex., naval aviation metalsmith studying at Navy pier—I'd just like a chance to fight the Japs. I have about 20 more weeks at the school here. I don't know where I'll be sent then but I sure hope it is to the Pacific.

Betty Gilbert, Freeport, Ill. — I would like to get married. I'm engaged now, and we're pretty certain we will be married if the draft doesn't get my future husband. It's a big problem trying to decide whether to marry now or wait until the war is over. That's my wish for this year.

Robert Lawrence, 1119 Monroe street, Evanston, clerk—I'd like to have a dance band of my own as soon as possible. Right now I play saxophone and clarinet in a band on week-ends. Most of the fellows in it attend Northwestern. Aside from that, if I have as much luck in my school and office work as I did last year, I'll be happy.

Miss Jenya Sweet, 2907 Division street, milliner—I should like the war to end with a victory for the U. S. I am Russian, and if the war would end a lot of things would happen to me. I might hear from my family again. They are somewhere in Russia. I haven't heard from them in three years.

Louis Bryck, 2121 23d place, welder.—That question covers a lot of territory. If things happen to me as they did in 1941, I guess I'll be well satisfied. That shouldn't be asking too much. I'm satisfied now.

Miss Frances Reed, Macomb, Ill. secretary—Naturally I'd like to have the war won. Personally, I'd like to become a Red Cross ambulance driver. I drive a car, but I can't change tires. But I guess they would teach me. That's what I would really like to do in 1942.

PRESIDENT URGES SANE ATTITUDE TOWARD ALIENS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—President Roosevelt urged all private employers today to adopt a "sane policy" regarding employment of aliens and foreign-born citizens.

He said in a formal statement he was "deeply concerned" over reports, in increasing number, of employers discharging workers who happened to be aliens and in some instances foreign-born citizens.

"This is a very serious matter," he declared. "It is one thing to safeguard American industry, and particularly defense industry, against sabotage, but it is very much another to throw out of work honest and loyal people who, except for the accident of birth, are sincerely patriotic."

He said such a policy was "as stupid as it is unjust" because it plays into the hands of foes of American democracy.

Employers are engendering distrust and disunity, on which our enemies are counting to defeat us, the President said, by discharging loyal, efficient workers merely because they were born abroad or have foreign-sounding names, or by refusing to employ such persons.

GUN FIRE MARKS RAILWAY STRIKE FIGHT AT PEORIA

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP).—Violence broke out again today in the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad strike, now five days old.

Harold Dilley, 43, East Peoria, a striking trainman, was shot and wounded slightly in the stomach in a clash between pickets and armed guards near Hollis, several miles south of Peoria. In the fight Carl James, 41, Peoria, a special agent for the freight line, suffered a fractured hand and other injuries.

James claimed that he and other agents were trying to protect the engineer of a westbound freight train from an attack by from 30 to 40 men.

A different version was given by Vice President W. C. Coyle of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who said the shooting was unprovoked. Coyle alleged that from 20 to 30 guards, armed with sawed off shotguns, were riding the train and opened fire on a smaller group of pickets standing on a highway.

Soldier, Former Chicagoan, Leaps to Death in Hotel

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Private Charles W. Norris, 26 years old, formerly of Chicago, killed himself yesterday by jumping from the window of his fourth floor room in a St. Louis, Mo., hotel after slashing his wrists with razor blades, army authorities said today. Private Norris was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Norris of 7005 Parnell avenue, Chicago. Norris, a tailor, could give no explanation for his son's action. Private Norris was graduated Dec. 30 from the radio communications school at Scott field.

3 Women in Gang; One Is Given 10 Years.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Thirty men and three women were imprisoned today by Uncle Sam to serve a total of 279 years for participating in a fantastic spy ring centered in the German reich.

Sentences pronounced by Judge Mortimer W. Byers in the Eastern District court at Brooklyn ranged from one year and a day to 18 years. In addition, $18,000 in fines were assessed.

The most severe sentences were given to the 14 defendants who stood trial, putting the government to additional expense. The trial, with a battery of legal aids from Washington advising United States Attorney Harold M. Kennedy, lasted from Sept. 8 until Dec. 12, three days after Germany declared war on this country.

During those 14 weeks a jury of nine men and three women listened as Kennedy unfolded intrigue, cafeteria style spying, and the fact that a government owned and operated radio station carried coded messages to the Gestapo in Hamburg.

Identified by Radio.

It was thru the radio station that the Federal Bureau of Investigation learned the identities of those sentenced today.

The government contended that the ring, operating in all parts of the world and covering all metropolitan centers and hundreds of whistle stops thruout the United States, attempted to deliver military, commercial, and industrial intelligence to Germany.

As the stolid spies, most of them foreign born, appeared before Judge Byers today, they had none of the jauntiness they displayed during the trial.

Even the soldier of fortune, writer, and professional spy, Frederick Joubert Duquesne, who for a week sat in the witness chair heaping abuse upon the court, the government legal battery, and the FBI, was dejected. He quivered as Judge Byers sentenced him to 18 years, practically a life sentence because Duquesne is 64 years old.

Bank Account Is His Fine.

Duquesne also was fined $2,000, the amount which Judge Byers said he had in a bank as a result of his spying.

Edmund Carl Heine, 50 years old, a former $30,000 a year Ford Motor company representative in Germany, was treated most severely of all. Guilty on two counts of the indictment—failure to register as an agent for a foreign government and obtaining and dispensing information to a foreign power—Heine was fined $5,000 and sentenced to 2 years on the first count and 18 years on the second.

The prison sentences given Lang and Duquesne were on similar basis, and in all cases, run concurrently.

Of the three women, all of whom pleaded guilty, Evelyn Clayton Lewis, 38, who told the court her family had been Americans for 200 years, got a year and a day.

Lilly Barbara Carola Stein, 38, received 10 years. Else Weustenfeld, 42, was sentenced to 5 years.

There was no pattern to the sentences, Judge Byers dealing with each case individually.

Stands Trial; Gets 10 Years.

Conradin Dold, who stood trial, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to 10 years.

Paul Bante, a naturalized citizen and a tool and die maker, who pleaded guilty to the first count, was sentenced to 18 months.

Max Blank, a former employé of the German Library of Information, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to 18 months.

Alfred E. Brokhoff pleaded guilty to both counts and was sentenced to five years.

Henrich Clausing, who pleaded guilty to both counts but refused to answer when the court asked him who in Germany gave him his orders, was sentenced to eight years.

Sentences Run Concurrently.

Others convicted and their sentences:

Heinrich Carl Eilers, $1,000 fine and five years; Leo Waalen, 12 years; Carl Reuper, 16 years; Rudolph Ebeling, $1,000, and five years; Adolph Henry August Wallschewski, five years; Paul Scholz, 16 years; Erick Strunck, Milwaukee, Wis., 10 years; Franz Stigler, 16 years, and Joseph Klein, 5 years.

Others pleading guilty were sentenced as follows:

Paul Fehse, 15 years on second count; Gustave Kaercher, $2,000 and 22 months on first count; George Gottlob Schuh, $1,000 and 22 months on first count; Oscar Stabler, five years; Erwin W. Siegler, 10 years; Rene Mezenen, Transatlantic Clipper steward, eight years; Hartwig Richard Kleiss, eight years on second count; Heinrich Stade, $1,000 and 15 months on first count; Felix Jahnke, $1,000 and 20 months on first count; Bertram Wolfgang Zenzinger, eight years on second count; Richard Eichenlaub, $1,000 and 18 months on first count.

JUDGE DADY ASKS BAR INQUIRY INTO ACTS OF LAWYER

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of Lake county yesterday requested the Lake County Bar association to investigate the conduct of Attorney J. A. Miller of 721 Sheridan road, Waukegan, who was found unconscious from exhaust fumes Thursday night in his automobile in a garage behind his home. Miller, who is 48 years old, is recovering in the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan.

Judge Dady's complaint was based on the handling of a case in his court last Tuesday. The judge reported that a defendant in a damage suit told him after the trial that Miller advised him to testify falsely in the hearing.

Judge Dady said he reprimanded Miller in court the following day. Bernard Juron, president of the association, ordered a meeting of the grievance committee to make an inquiry and a recommendation. Miller has practiced in Lake county for more than 20 years.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 2.—New Orleans, which yesterday was host to 73,000 Sugar bowl fans, was preparing tonight to entertain another vast throng at the transplanted East-West Shrine game in Tulane university's stadium tomorrow afternoon.

No other community ever has attempted to present two football games of the caliber of the Fordham-Missouri and East-West contests within 48 hours and this venture is added evidence that New Orleans is different from any other city in the United States.

It requires courage and daring to undertake the task New Orleans has accepted this week-end, but the city's business and sports leaders showed eight years ago they have what it takes when they decided to set up New Year's day competition with the well established Rose bowl.

They Expect 50,000.

Nobody anticipates a capacity crowd for the 17th annual East-West contest, but Bill Coffman of San Francisco, general manager of the enterprise, predicts a gathering of 50,000. A turnout of 40,000 will be necessary to break even financially on account of the extra expense involved in the shifting of the site. Dedicated to a sacred cause, the aiding of crippled children, regardless of color or creed, the Shrine game has taken its place as one of America's outstanding sports spectacles.

Forty-six of intercollegiate football's most widely known players today wound up training for the contest. The West team, coached by Babe Hollingbery of Washington State, who represented the Pacific coast on the Chicago All-Star staff last summer, and Maj. Biff Jones of Nebraska, has been working out in Baton Rouge, where Jones coached at Louisiana State until he and the late Huey Long agreed to disagree.

East Trains at Tulane.

The East squad, under the direction of Colgate's Andy Kerr and Minnesota's Bernie Bierman, has been using Tulane's field as a training base. The Mississippi river is the dividing line for talent.

The entire personnel of the East group was in uniform this afternoon, including Bill De Correvont of Northwestern, who was idle a day or two because of a cold, and Bruce Smith of Minnesota, the back of the year, whose knee misery, incurred in the game against Michigan, finally has left him.

The East team hasn't won from the Westerners since Jones joined the West's coaching staff three years ago, but, with De Correvont, Smith, Bob Westfall of Michigan, and Blil Dudley of Virginia as offensive threats, prospects of victory are brighter this time.

The West has won 10 of the 16 games, the East 5 and there was one tie.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 2.—Since the ban on horse racing went into effect in California, officials of the local Fair Grounds track are being inundated with requests for stable accommodations. . . . Valdina farm is building a barn to take care of its own horses. . . . "Football becomes drudgery when the season starts too early and lasts too long," says Dr. Rufus C. Some of Mississippi's fans returned their Sugar bowl tickets when Ole Miss was not chosen as one of the teams. . . . There was a long waiting list, however, and all the rejected pasteboards were gobbled up long before game time. . . . When tomorrow's East-West game was shifted from the Pacific coast, no one was sorrier than Ernie Blandin, Tulane tackle, who had been looking forward to his first trip to California. . . . Mel Ott, the new Giant manager, has had little to say since returning to New Orleans. He explained that those deals the club made at the winter meetings were arranged before he was named to succeed Bill Terry.

Two of England's greatest cricket players, both of whom have played with touring teams in Chicago in the last few years, have been reported killed in action with the royal air force. . . . The former, who played on the All-England team which battled Australia in 1936 and 1937, was considered one of the greatest stars in England's history. . . . The effect of the announcement on British sports fans probably is comparable to the effect similar news would have in America if the athletes were, say, Hank Greenberg and Bob Feller. . . . Wayne Stille, University of Michigan tennis co-captain, has the distinction of holding more campus championships at one time than any Wolverine since Benny Friedman. . . . Last year, in addition to helping the net squad win the Western conference title, he took individual university championships in three cushion billiards, table tennis, and bowling. . . . EVEN IF YOU LOSE YOUR AUTO, YOU STILL CAN GOLF

Chicago Leaders Recall Pre-Gasoline Days.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

O, you're a golfer and they're going to take away your car. And you're wondering where those golf balls are coming from. Well, just don't fret too much, because last night the three leading officials of the game in this country indicated that the 1942 fairway picture isn't half as bad as pictured by such motions as Mr. Leon Henderson's threat of commandeering private automobiles, and by the already existent rubber priority.

George W. Blossom Jr. of Lake Forest and the Onwentsia club of that town, who is president-elect of the United States Golf association, appeared rather unperturbed by the possibility of requisitioning personal vehicles. Even the business of golf balls, which is expected to be the major factor of the USGA's annual meeting next Saturday, when Mr. Blossom will be inducted, did not seem to upset George.

It Isn't So Bad After All.

"I think that the transportation situation could be solved, even tho the government might requisition the private cars with which most of our golfers reach their clubs. And as far as golf balls go, depending upon the consumption of them, I am of a mind to state that, as the situation sizes up now, there should be enough sufficiency to last the country thru the greater part of the summer. To return to the car proposition, I am positive that if the government did ask for automobiles every golfer would be glad to contribute his car."

The other two local golfing leaders who were interviewed last evening were Theodore C. Butz of Exmoor, recently reëlected president of the Western Golf association, and Thomas G. McMahon, the able little man from Skokie who recently took office as president of the Chicago District Golf association. Butz is one of the founders of the WGA plan for concentrating all of its activities on national caddy welfare, while McMahon, who designed the handicapping plan which since has been taken up by practically every golf association in the land, also has been instrumental in making Chicago the golf capital of the United States.

Cars Are Comparatively New.

"If you recall the good old days," said Mr. Butz, "a lot of the golfers in our part of the country didn't have cars. Did that stop them? Certainly not! If they were members of the clubs that existed at that time, they took a train to the station nearest their club, and, by pre-arrangement were met by a bus. Why couldn't we do that now, if our own cars were requisitioned? Certainly, a majority of Chicago clubs are located just off of such main avenues of rail traffic as the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee, the Illinois Central electric, the Burlington, and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin. It is almost certain that the manufacturers have enough rubber to process it to a point whereby balls should be available past the month of June."

"The biggest problem," McMahon said, "in the event of a national private car requisition, would be the accessibility of clubs. If you belonged to certain clubs, such as Olympia Fields, Glen Oak, Bob o' Link, Exmoor, Ravisloe, or Flossmoor, you would be a sissy if you couldn't walk to any of those. Other clubs would be a different proposition, but why not revive the custom of meeting golfers with a bus at the nearest point of transportation?

What's a Mile Walk?

"Any dyed-in-the-wool golfer who takes a genuine interest in the game will hoof it more than a mile to reach his favorite club. They did in the old days. They thought enough of the game, and the exercise and the aid to their sense of humor to do it. Why shouldn't all the rest of us do the same today? As far as the ball goes, the manufacturers should be able to perfect a substitute for the present ball, rubber or not."

It's Time to Forget Football for Awhile

DePaul, Loyola Face Western Foes Tonight

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Loyola and De Paul will engage powerful opponents from the west tonight in the second of a series of basketball double headers. The program will be run off in the Coliseum because the usual site of these engagements—the Stadium—is occupied by Sonja Henie's ice revue.

Loyola, returning from a successful Pacific coast trip, will play the University of Colorado quintet, which is on its way home after a swing thru the east. De Paul will oppose Southern California. Both of the visiting teams arrived yesterday.

"We're particularly concerned about how we're going to get our shots past Mike Dougherty," Frosty Cox, the Colorado coach, said in discussing prospects for the game. He referred to Loyola's 6 foot 7 inch center, who is capable of leaping above the level of the basket to block scoring attempts.

Mike Just Keeps Going.

"I saw Loyola play one of its earlier games this season," Cox went on, "so I know what we're going to be up against. On defense, they'll have Dougherty right in front of the basket with the other four players spotted around according to a zone system. If we shoot at a normal range, Dougherty has enough height to get up there and deflect the ball to one of his teammates. So, it will be up to us to try to break thru for short shots from right under the basket.

"Some big centers are good at making those leaping stops for about 10 minutes. Then they get tired. But Dougherty can keep on doing it right thru the game."

Sam Barry, Southern California's coach, said the Trojans will start a seasoned team which should work well as a unit, despite the fact that neither he nor his assistant, Jules Bescoe, could get away from football as early as they wished.

Trojans Lose Three.

"The boys were practically orphans for the first part of their training, but they went right ahead with their work," Barry said. "We have all juniors and seniors in our starting lineup and I think they'll go along smoothly."

Colorado has won all three of its games to date, while Southern California has been winning two and losing three by close margins. De Paul has taken seven games out of eight and Loyola, by defeating the University of Omaha, 42 to 36, last night ran its season record to 10 victories in 11 starts.

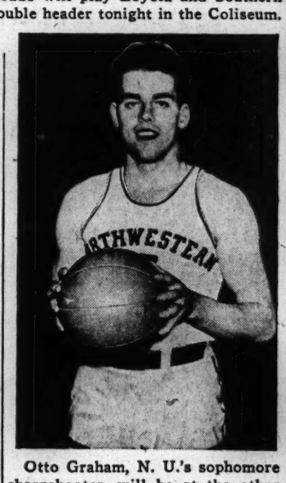

The De Paul-Southern California game will open the program at 8:15 p. m. Lineups follow:

Shirley Really Intends to Win Silver Skates

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

There's a pretty 17 year old girl on Chicago's north side who has great admiration for strapping service men, fur coats, good rug cutters, Clark Gable and—Silver Skates.

Shirley Jane Burnett, a senior at Sullivan High school, also likes books, music, swimming, trapshooting, fishing and skiing, but she has made a habit of collecting trophies and medals for her exploits on the ice rink. There is room for another award in her trophy case, and that space is being reserved for a pair of Silver Skates she hopes to win in the 25th annual Derbies under the sponsorship of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in Garfield park Jan. 17 and 18.

Miss Burnett's dazzling speed has been seen before in Silver Skates competition. She won the junior division title in 1938. The following year she returned to win the intermediate girls' title. Last season she failed to achieve the goal she sought—victory in the senior women's class. However, Shirley is confident that with a small portion of racing luck, particularly on the turns, she will outdistance the field this winter.

"I finished fifth in the senior class

Big 10 basketball teams, each facing 15 conference games for the first time in history, will start their 1942 championship race tonight in a program of five contests, and with only four of the teams unbeaten thus far in intercollegiate competition. Of this quartet, three tackle the difficult assignment of beginning the campaign on foreign floors. They are Minnesota, Indiana, and Illinois, which rank one-two-four on the basis of offensive averages in their five tests to date.

Purdue, also undefeated in five engagements, starts on its home court against Chicago's perennial last place Maroons, already beaten four times.

Minnesota opposes Ohio State, thrice a loser, in Columbus; Indiana plays Northwestern in the Evanston High school gymnasium, and Illinois challenges Wisconsin's defending champions in Madison. Two of these battles would have involved unbeaten rivals had Northwestern and Wisconsin avoided setbacks in their final nonconference engagements.

Oft Beaten Five Meet.

The other opener tonight takes Iowa to Michigan for a meeting of oft-beaten quintets, Iowa having lost two games and Michigan three.

Western conference teams came thru 46 pre-race tests against collegiate foes with 32 victories. Of the 14 defeats, 10 were inflicted by opponents which, combined, also suffered 14 losses against the Big Ten. Only college teams able to boast an advantage are Loyola, Stanford, California, and Dartmouth, each of which was involved in but a single game.

[Including tests with noncollegiate foes, three other defeats have been charged against the Big 10, all by former college stars. The Chanute Field Flyers beat Illinois, 40 to 38; while the Great Lakes Naval Training Station whipped Purdue, 54 to 39, and Indiana, 41 to 36. Oddly enough, Ohio State is the only Big 10 member to gain triumph over Great Lakes, winning, 38 to 32, in the Buckeyes' opener on Dec. 10. Since then, tho, Ohio dropped three of its four intercollegiate engagements as its defense collapsed. The Buckeyes have yielded an average of 52.75 points per game, poorest record in the conference.]

Dartmouth Whips Badgers.

Dartmouth snapped Wisconsin's 19 game winning streak in Milwaukee on Wednesday night, 57 to 49, as George Munroe of Joliet, Ill., scored 23 of Dartmouth's total. Loyola accounted for one of Chicago's four losses, 48 to 31. California whipped Ohio State, 50 to 38, and Stanford did likewise to the Buckeyes, 60 to 45.

Of those encountered by more than one Big Ten team no opponent was able to get better than an even break. Here is how they fared:

SHIRLEY REALLY WANTS A PAIR OF SILVER SKATES

of the Silver Skates Derbies last year," said Miss Burnett, "but I hope to do better this season. I have practiced at every opportunity we have had during this mild winter. I also have entered several other meets to be held before the Silver Skates."

The story of Miss Burnett's speed skating career goes back to 1931, when she was 7 years old. Under the tutelage of a family friend, Jim Bishop, former skater and now connected with a loop bank, Shirley began to develop the speed she flashed later in scoring city, state and Silver Skates victories. Bishop and Miss Burnett frequently journeyed to a rink on Morse avenue, where the potential champion was clocked in short distance races.

Runner-up in National Meet.

Miss Burnett has won Chicago and Illinois state championships. She also was runner-up in the national meet last year, losing to Audrey Maas of Minneapolis. Shirley, however, accomplished one victory over Miss Maas, defeating the Minnesotan in the 440 yard event. Miss Burnett lost the title on points, the final total being 50 to 40. The United States championship will be next on her list after victory in the Silver Skates, she says.

PARKS MEET TODAY

The annual Chicago Park District ice Derby today at Waveland park rink will afford the opportunity for the 800 speed skaters to get into condition for the state championship meet tomorrow afternoon in Glen Ellyn.

Winners of the city and state titles last year will be among the stars competing in both Derbies. Among the nationally known skaters who promise to provide speedy performances will be Vic Ronchetti, former national champion, who wears the colors of the CYO; Bob Heckenbach of the Northwest S. C., George Spalten, Marshall Klemundt and Joe Janet. Ann Vitaska, green and white clad CYO women's ace, expects to retain her state championship, but will find opposition from Bessie Laga of the Barrett A. C. and Elaine Gordon of Northwest.

The parks meet today begins at 2 p. m., and is open to all skaters in midget, juvenile, junior, and senior classes. Post entries will be accepted. Playground and park directors thruout the city have been signing skaters to represent them for the past few weeks. No entry fees are required. The same applies to the state championship events tomorrow on Lake Ellyn, since all events held in the state are under the supervision of the Illinois Skating association.

WOMEN OWNERS SWEEP TROPICAL PARK FEATURE

Miami, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP).—Horses owned by women took the first four places in the Lake Wales purse at Tropical Park today. Mrs. A. Torriente's Aerial Bomb proved the fleetest with a time of 1:11 in the six furlong dash.

M. N. Gonzales was up on the winner, which paid $11.40 and triumphed by a length and a half over Mrs. R. M. Buccola's Bright Trace. Two lengths further back was Mrs. H. G. Good's Equistone with Mrs. W. R. Reed's Remote Control fourth.

The University of Georgia football team, winner in the Orange bowl Thursday, saw the races and placed hunch bets on A. Sinkevich's War Declared because the owner's name so closely resembled that of Frank Sinkwich, their star. War Declared was in contention most of the way but finished third.

Navy Bound

STEVE JUZWIK.

Steve Juzwik, Notre Dame's chunky little right half back who figured prominently in the last three Irish triumphs over Navy, yesterday took the first step in a process which by summer may put him in a navy uniform. Juzwik yesterday applied at the naval recruiting office for admission to training as an ensign in the naval reserve.

"I want to serve my country," Juzwik told Lieut. David N. Goldenson, recruiting officer, "and I think the navy is the best branch of the service to serve in."

Maxin Arrives for 10 Rounder with Beckwith

Joe Maxin, Cleveland light heavyweight who was not expected until today for a 10 round bout with Booker Beckwith in the Coliseum next Friday, surprised Promoter Ross Miller by reporting at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday, 24 hours in advance of his scheduled arrival.

Beckwith, 1938 International Golden Gloves middleweight champion, also initiated workouts in the loop gymnasium yesterday. The rivals will open boxing drills in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon, Beckwith at 1:30 o'clock and Maxin an hour later.

Maxin, 1940 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight title holder, yesterday was given recognition as seventh foremost 175 pound contender in the quarterly ratings released by the National Boxing association. He earned the honor by conquering Red Burman in Cleveland on Dec. 1. It was the 19 year old Ohio boxer's eighth consecutive victory.

Despite Beckwith's defeat by Bob Pastor on Nov. 7, a setback which snapped the Gary fighter's string of 17 straight triumphs, the NBA has named him No. 3 light heavyweight challenger.

Sammy Secreet, fast welterweight from Cannonsburg, Pa., will reach the city today for a 10 round headliner with George Nyberg of Port Arthur, Ont., in Marigold Gardens Monday.

OKLAHOMA STAR BARRED BY BIG 6 TRANSFER RULE

Manhattan, Kas., Jan. 2 (AP).—Dr. H. H. King of Kansas State college, chairman of the Big Six eligibility committee, said tonight the committee had declared Gerald Tucker, basketball center at the University of Oklahoma, ineligible to play in conference games.

The ruling, Dr. King explained, was based on the conference rule governing migration of athletes. Specifically, the committee concluded that Oklahoma had failed to request from Kansas State approval of Tucker's transfer from Kansas State to Oklahoma in the fall of 1940.

At Norman, Okla., Walter Kraft, the University of Oklahoma's Big Six faculty committee representative, termed the ruling both unfair and un-American, adding: "We have been accused, tried and convicted without being heard."

He said none of the Oklahoma sports heads had been notified that Tucker's case even was being discussed.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 2 (AP).—Calumet farm reported today the arrival of what may be the nation's first thorobred foal of 1942—a bay filly by Blenheim II. out of Lady Erne.

The filly was reported in excellent condition.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Madison Athletic club boxers last night beat West Suburban club representatives by default in a Chicagoland Amateur Boxing league show in Madison arena. When only two of his fighters appeared for the match, Fred Caseiro, director of the West Suburban club, told Edwin Parkes, Central A. A. U. inspector, he preferred forfeiting all eight contests to the west siders. He also advised Parkes, who is secretary of the league, that he was withdrawing from the organization.

Thus, eight clubs will continue to fight for the league championship in addition to the Madison A. C. These are Catholic Youth organization, Camp Grant, Ashland A. C., Savoy A. C., Milwaukee, Illinois A. C., and Fort Sheridan.

Wants Postponed Bouts Fought.

Alexander Baim, manager of the Madison team, today will contact Maj. William Alleson, morale officer at Fort Sheridan, about having the soldier fighters go thru with a recently postponed league show in the Madison arena next Friday.

Last night's victory enabled the Madison club to move from fifth place to a tie for fourth in the league standings.

OUR HAWKS CAN FIGHT, BUT THEY JUST CAN'T WIN

Fifth Straight Loss Has a Disquieting Effect.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, elated over the fine thrashing Earl Seibert administered to Giacomo Orlando, erstwhile tough guy of the Detroit Red Wings, in Chicago Stadium Thursday night, were none the less concerned about their current status as hockey players as they took inventory yesterday.

Seibert put on a magnificent performance fistically, but the Hawks were exceedingly drab as they took a 3 to 0 whipping from the Red Wings. It was their fifth straight loss and their second successive shutout on their home ice, the rink on which they lost only one of their first nine encounters.

The Latest Communique.

Here is a bulletin issued by the Hawks yesterday:

"Gloom and lots of it pervaded the Blackhawks' office this morning as the Hawks' owner, prexy, manager, and coach, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, Bill Tobin, Paul Thompson, and Helge Bostrum huddled near the heat coils in an effort to warm to the subject at hand, namely ways and means to pull the club out of its unlooked for slump, the worst suffered in the National league this season.

"The most discomfiting and inexplainable circumstance was that their flop followed one of the best early records ever compiled by a Hawk team.

They Were So Good.

"Immediately prior to their going east recently they were within a game and a half of the league lead. Only one team, the Rangers, had an edge on them in season play, they had split even in four games with the sparkling Toronto Leafs, and had not been defeated in three meetings with the world champion Boston Bruins. They also had the distinction of scoring nine goals in one game, the season high to date.

"To make the three losses on the last eastern trip more aggravating, the team was ahead in each contest before ultimately winding up behind the eight ball."

And there you have a human document—the evidence of hockey officials with bleeding hearts, none knowing just what to do about it.

Boston Is Next Foe.

The Hawks do not have to play again until Tuesday night, when they will go to Boston for their fourth meeting with the champs, a not too pleasing prospect in view of the present state of perplexity.

No announcement came from President Frank Calder anent the punishment, if any, he intends to deal Orlando for his latest hoodlum outbreak in Chicago. New Year's night a year ago Orlando slugged a boxholder into unconsciousness and got no public reprimand from Calder. It was not thought probable the Red Wing management would claim that Orlando got so much punishment from Seibert that he should be given another Calder whitewash on the theory he had suffered enough.

Army Needs Fighters.

There were those that held that sports to thrive in these times must be conducted on the basis of sportsmanship rather than frenzied incitations to riot such as Orlando again showed here. His slugging of an official, Donnie MacFadyen, after Orlando had been knocked down four times by Seibert, was expected to further complicate the situation. A native of Italy, a citizen of Canada, and employed in the United States, Giacomo has plenty of chances to fight, if Seibert hasn't cooled him too much, it was pointed out.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Hank Greenberg, former Detroit baseball player who celebrated his 31st birthday Thursday, enlisted in the United States army two weeks ago he told friends today. "I am definitely thru with baseball—for the duration," he added.

He spent most of his time at Fort Custer, Mich., where he rose to the rank of sergeant in an anti-tank outfit. His home is in New York.

The Sculptor.

Each of us is a sculptor in his way
Who chisels out the form of character,
Making small indentations every day
That in the end will beautify or blur
The marble of his soul. Some carve too deep
And leave an ineradicable scar,
And some are loathe to cut, and so they keep Those jagged surfaces that blot and mar.

Each of us has the perfect model—Christ,
Which he must follow to insure success,
But some thru carelessness have sacrificed
Those master strokes that make for perfectness;
They miss the likeness of the lips, the eyes,
Which must be formed by patient sacrifice.

Lem Franklin Is Ranked as 2d Contender

Paterson, N. J., Jan. 2 (AP).—Lem Franklin, hard punching Ohio heavyweight, steps up as the No. 2 contender—behind Billy Conn—for Joe Louis' title, in the new quarterly ring ratings announced today by the National Boxing association. Buddy Baer, who meets Louis Jan. 9, is the third heavyweight considered worthy of the rank of logical contender.

The rating committee, headed by Fred Saddy of Milwaukee, takes pride in the fact its system, based on actual ring competition, has demonstrated its accuracy, and it supports this argument by calling attention to victories of three of its champions—Gus Lesnevich, Tony Zale, and Sammy Angott—over New York commission champions.

The ratings in each division are divided into champion, logical contenders, outstanding boxers, and honorable mention. Gus Lesnevich is recognized as light heavyweight champion; Tony Zale, middleweight; Freddie [Red] Cochrane, welterweight; Sammy Angott, lightweight; Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson, featherweight; Lou Salica, bantamweight, and Little Dado, flyweight.

DUKE ADHERENTS, SADDENED, WISER, BACK TO NORMAL

Defeat by Oregon State in Rose Bowl Rankles.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Durham, N. C., Jan. 2—The tobacco country returned to normal today with the disbanding of the defeated Duke university football team and the departure of Oregon State, victor yesterday in the 27th Rose bowl game. The contest that was shifted 3,000 miles because of the war was a financial and artistic success beyond the expectations of the sponsors, altho Duke's 20 to 16 licking was a bitter disappointment to the 56,000 loyal southerners who had anticipated an easy triumph for the champions of the Southern conference.

Beavers May Net $20,000.

The capacity throng that jammed Duke's piney woods stadium paid $4.40 a ticket, and net receipts, after taxes, approximated $200,000. Altho less than the sum the more capacious Rose bowl in Pasadena would have netted, it gave Duke about as much money as it would have had otherwise.

The Rose bowl contract providing for a three way division of the net profits among the competing teams and the Rose bowl organization, was voided by the shift to Durham. However, expenses totaling $50,000 at Pasadena and here were paid. Duke received $75,000 from which additional local expenses will be deducted. Oregan State will pay $25,000 to the Pacific Coast conference executive office and from the remaining $50,000 defray its transcontinental trip. Unofficially it is estimated the Beavers will have a net profit of between $18,000 and $20,000.

Durdan Wins High Praise.

In recapitulation of the nation's oldest New Year's game, all observers admit that Duke might easily have been returned the winner but it wasn't as Coach Wallace Wade of Duke said today possibly because "My Rose bowl luck has run out." Southern California defeated Duke three years ago, 7 to 3. Prior to that Wade's Alabama teams never had lost a Rose bowl contest altho Stanford tied the Crimson Tide, 7 to 7, on New Year's day, 1927.

Don Durdan, the Beavers' left handed passer stationed at the attacking right half back spot, drew Wade's highest praises. Wade said that while Durdan may not have been an all-Pacific coast selection [the California squads in the conference monopolized the honor teams] he was an all-American yesterday. This encomium was seconded by all newspaper men, altho additional praises were reserved for Bob Dethman, left half back who threw two touchdown passes, and for Joe Day, a smashing plunger.

RED SOX SELL FRANK DASSO TO SAN DIEGO CLUB

Boston, Mass., Jan. 2 (AP).—Frank Dasso, a 24 year old right handed pitcher who has had three tryouts with the Boston Red Sox, tonight was sold outright to the San Diego club in the Pacific Coast league. Dasso pitched for Hollywood in that circuit last season, winning 15 and losing 15 games.

A product of the American Legion junior ranks in Chicago, Dasso was sought by several other major league clubs when the Red Sox purchased him from the Hazelton Eastern League team in 1938.

Which Is Better? They'll Decide Today

When Marshall High school meets the Du Sable quintet in the championship game of the University of Chicago tournament this afternoon, Israel Acker (left), high scoring forward, is expected to lead the attack for the west siders. Du Sable, defending champion in the meet, which whipped Austin, 78 to 27, in the semi-finals last night, will rely on its giant center, Nathaniel Clifton (right). Nate scored 45 points against Austin while Acker collected 21 in Marshall's 39 to 34 semi-final triumph over Von Steuben.

Du Sable, 78; Austin, 27.
TODAY'S GAMES.
2:30—Von Steuben vs. Austin [3d place].
4:00—Du Sable vs. Marshall [final].

Du Sable High, defending champion in the University of Chicago's 24th annual interscholastic basketball tournament, brushed aside Austin in the semi-finals last night in the Midway fieldhouse, 78 to 27, to move into the final with Marshall High, which disposed of Von Steuben, 39 to 34.

The final will be played today at 4 o'clock. Austin and Von Steuben will meet for third place at 2 o'clock.

Du Sable's margin of victory was 46 points more than the margin by which it defeated Austin in the semi-finals last year and 21 more than scored by any other team in the present tournament.

Clifton Scores 45 Points.

A major rôle in Du Sable's crushing triumph was performed by Nathaniel Clifton, 6 foot 6 inch center, who registered 21 field goals and three free throws for 45 points, breaking the record set in 1936 by Joe Stampf, then with Calumet High, who registered 24.

Marshall gained the final on a third quarter drive sparked by Israel Acker, which netted the west section team 15 points in the last six minutes of the period. Acker paced his team with 21 points on nine baskets and three free throws, but missed repeatedly on numerous shots in the final five minutes of the game.

Clifton has piled up 106 points in the five games Du Sable has played in the tournament. In his last four games he has made 87. Acker of Marshall, which drew a first round bye, has tallied 76 points in four games, and is second in individual scoring.

Von Steuben Leads at Half.

CENTRAL IS EASY FOR GREAT LAKES QUINTET, 48 TO 32

Danville, Ind., Jan. 2 (AP).—The Great Lakes Naval Training station's basketball team registered its fifth victory of the season over an Indiana college quintet tonight, drubbing Central Normal, 48 to 32. The Sailors also have beaten Notre Dame, Indiana, Purdue, and St. Joseph's, and tomorrow night they will meet Butler in Indianapolis.

Dick Klein, former Northwestern star, tipped in a field goal a few seconds after the start and the Sailors never were headed. They rolled up a 22 to 7 score in the first 12 minutes and were out in front, 30 to 13, at the half.

CHANUTE FIELD WINS

Rantoul, Ill., Jan. 2 [Special].—Stalling in the final few minutes, plus a basket by Chuck Orsborn, enabled Chanute Field to score its seventh victory of the season tonight when the Planesmen turned back Charleston Teachers, 45 to 42. The soldiers held an early 36 to 16 lead, but Charleston closed the gap against Chanute substitutes to 41 to 35, when the first team returned. Lineup:

Notre Dame Plays Harvard Five Tonight

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 2 [Special].—Notre Dame will try to continue its tradition of winning its first basketball game in the new year, when the Irish face the Harvard quintet here tomorrow night.

Seven times in the last 10 years the Irish have had only fair success in December but have made strong records, getting most of their gains in January. Last year's team had won 4 and lost 3 in December, but it beat Kentucky, 48 to 47, Jan. 4 and won 10 more games before losing.

There is little doubt, however, that Harvard will be well set for the engagement. Earl Brown, in his first year as coach at Cambridge, brings the teacher-pupil angle into tomorrow's picture. He played three years under George Keogan, captaining the 1938-'39 Notre Dame team.

It will be the last game of five on the Christmas vacation tour of the Harvard players. Several midwestern boys, including two starters, are on the Crimson roster. Bob Lutz, forward, is a sophomore from Gary, Ind.; Ed Buckley Jr., senior guard, is from Ely, Minn. Probable lineups:

N. U. VS. INDIANA

Northwestern opens its conference campaign in the Evanston High gym tonight against an Indiana university team of three lettermen and two sophomores averaging 6 feet 3 inches in height. Tallest member of the Crimson five is Capt. Andy Heimmer, 6 foot 5 inch center, who starred on last year's team which placed second in the conference with 10 victories against two defeats.

Other veterans in the Hoosier lineup are John Logan, 6 foot forward, and Ed Denton, 6 foot 2 inch guard. The sophomores who have beaten out lettermen for regular positions are Dick Whittenbraker, 6 foot 3 inch, 193 pound guard from New Castle, Ind., and Ralph Hamilton, 6 foot 1 inch forward from Fort Wayne.

Northwestern will be without Bud Hasse, veteran center, who underwent a tonsillectomy Wednesday. He has been ill since the close of the football season. Don Clawson and Ted Esser, the latter a junior who did not win a letter last year, will alternate at the pivot assignment.

Tickets for the game are still available.

MAROONS TO USE SOPHS

Thirteen members of the University of Chicago basketball team will leave this morning for Lafayette, Ind., where they will open the conference season against Purdue tonight.

Coach Nels Norgren expects to use two sophomores, Bernard Heinen and Bob Oakley, in the starting lineup against the Boilermakers because of their showing in the preconference schedule. Jack Fons and Ed Nelson will start at forwards, Heinen at center, and Oakley and Chuck Wagenberg, who became eligible two weeks ago, at guard.

PURDUE BANKS ON SPEED

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 2 [Special].—Coach Ward Lambert, whose Purdue quintets have won or shared the Big Ten title 11 times in the past 21 years, launches his silver jubilee year in conference competition here tomorrow night as the Boilermakers meet Chicago's Maroons.

Lambert is banking on the all-around speed and deft passing of the Purdue squad in the initial Big Ten start. It is expected that the veteran senior trio, Capt. Don Blanken, guard, and Forrest [Frosty] Sprowl and John [Mickey] Tierney, forwards, who have been leading the scoring, will work with Al Menke, sophomore center, and Bob Riley, junior guard.

BEARS WORK OUT ON A N. Y. STREET; GIRDERS PERILED

Halas Restores Half Dozen Old Formations

New York, Jan. 2 [Special].—George Halas, owner-coach of the champion Chicago Bears, grinned sheepishly today as he watched his boys practice in rubber sneakers on the asphalt of 8th avenue for Sunday's game with the National Football league All-Stars.

Seven years ago George writhed in misery as his Bears bowed in defeat to the New York Giants in a game for the league championship when, after slipping all around the icy gridiron in the first half, the Giants emerged in the second half in tennis shoes which gave them a firm footing and a clear field outside the grasp of the slipping Chicagoans.

To Muddy for Drill.

Today the Bears arrived at the Polo Grounds, where the charity game will be played, to find the field so muddy beneath the tarpaulin that practice there was out of the question. The elevated pillars interfered slightly with the drill, but Halas refused to accept the suggestion of George Musso and other stalwarts of his troupe that the steel columns be pushed into a nearby vacant lot.

The drill was fairly satisfactory and the Bears were relatively undisturbed except for a few startled taxi drivers who watched open mouthed. The Bears ran thru their plays and around the posts, polishing the one and ducking the other.

Temptation for Bulldog?

Halas restored to his repertoire a half dozen formations that had been used against the Green Bay Packers and discarded some that had been employed against the Giants. He still expects to be running against Steve Owen's five man line, a defense that he termed "the best we've had against us all season."

The street drill of the Bears lasted almost two hours and the Chicagoans will have their last workout at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

While the monsters of the midwest were dancing on the streets the all-stars were busy at Garden City. They spent two hours at drill and also will have their final session tomorrow.

Hutson Turns Out.

Ronald Gibbs of Springfield, Ill., will referee the game. Gibbs, well known as a high school, college, and pro official in central Illinois, officiated in the All-Star game on the west coast last year, and handled numerous pro league assignments this season, including the Chicago Bear-Green Bay and Bear-Chicago Cardinal games in December.

Michigan State Beaten, 45-42, by Washington

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 2 [Special].—The University of Washington's undefeated basketball team tonight edged out Michigan State, 45 to 42. The Huskies, fresh from high score eastern triumphs, were played to a standstill until the final five minutes.

The Huskies held an early lead, but the Spartans finally tied at 23 to 23 and Joe Gerard increased their lead to 27 to 23 at half time. The Spartans retained their lead until Bill Morris tied for Washington at 39 to 39 with five minutes left to play. Bob Lindh scored 16 of 23 Washington points in the first half. Lineup:

JUDGE SQUELCHES NEW GRAND JURY GAMING REPORT

7 Indictments Returned; Probe to Go On.

Altho the December grand jury returned seven indictments yesterday against alleged members of the Cook county gambling syndicate, its members were forbidden by Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court to make a public report on their extensive investigations of gambling evils.

Clement L. Conway.

The report as prepared is reported to have been on five or six closely typewritten pages. Clement L. Conway, foreman of the jury, and a sales executive of the United States Standard Products company, headed a committee that conferred with Judge Dunne in an effort to get the document into the public records.

Report Must Be Destroyed.

Informed by the judge that he would not receive the report, which is understood to have been similar to one that was accepted from the November grand jury, Conway said that it would have to be destroyed.

Judge Dunne said he did not believe that the grand jurors had any right to make such a report. Reminded of the precedent of last month, he said he was not a stickler for precedent and "might have changed his mind."

In discharging the grand jurors, he said reprovingly that the secrecy required of grand juries was not being observed and that he would instruct the January grand jury along this line. He objected, he said, to any leaking out of reports of true bills voted; and that there should be no publicity until the indictments are presented in court.

Crowley to Carry On.

The November grand jury's report requested that the chief justice instruct the December body to continue the gambling syndicate investigation. He made no mention of this in his charge to them, and the matter was brought to the jury's attention by Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney.

Crowley said he intended to lay all the information gathered in the last two months before the new grand jury and ask it to carry on against the syndicate.

The indictments returned named Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, an old Capone henchman, and seven of his associates: Charles Jacobs, Julius Jacobs, Henry Phillips, Thomas Stapleton, Albert Gold, Leo Cooper, and Leo H. Brett. All were charged with conspiracy to tap telephone wires on which race information was disseminated.

FORECASTS COLD BLASTS TO STAY 24 MORE HOURS

The cold blasts which came roaring into Chicago yesterday will remain for at least 24 hours longer. Forecaster A. J. Knarr predicted temperatures between 15 and 18 degrees for today, only a shade warmer than yesterday's readings.

Chilled citizens might derive some comfort from the fact that practically all of the territory from Niagara Falls to the Rocky Mountains has been blanketed by cold and snow. Most of the states from the Mississippi river westward were in the zero class. The average reading for Idaho was 5 below zero; it was 14 below in Sioux City, Ia., and 7 below in Des Moines.

Roads in northwestern Illinois, central and northern Iowa, and central and western Wisconsin, according to the Chicago Motor club, were far below normal standards because of drifting snow and ice. Charles Hayes, president of the club, advised all motorists to drive with great care.

The storm failed to tie up local transportation systems. The Chicago Surface lines reported all switches and tracks in good condition and 50 men were put to work keeping these clear. The Rapid Transit lines put on several additional trains.

SUPERIOR COURT SETS UP SYSTEM TO SPEED TRIALS

The executive committee of the Superior court yesterday voted to establish the pretrial conference system of handling lawsuits in the court, effective Monday, and Judge James F. Fardy, head of the law division, was named temporary pretrial judge.

Chief Justice William J. Lindsay, who with Judge Fardy voted for adoption of the system, said a permanent system will be set up next June at the annual meeting of all 28 Superior judges. Judge Peter H. Schwaba, head of the chancery division and third member of the executive committee, did not attend yesterday's meeting.

The Superior court was required to adopt the pretrial conference system, sometimes called conciliation, by Jan. 1 under a recent ruling of the Illinois Supreme court. Since no law cases will be heard before Monday, the system will not take effect until then. A similar system has been used by the Circuit court for five years.

In the Superior court the new system will not be permitted to interfere with the 12 law calendars—one to each law judge—made out when the court year began last September.

INDIANA HARBOR VICE DRIVE TO GO ON, SAYS JUDGE

Volunteers in the campaign to clean up vice conditions in Indiana Harbor were asked yesterday by Circuit Judge T. Joseph Sullivan of Lake county, Ind. At the same time he pledged that his campaign to this end would continue.

Judge Sullivan's statement was, in large measure, a review of his year long efforts to end vice conditions and gambling in the huge industrial district of which the town is a part.

Judge Sullivan criticized Capt. Martin Zarkovich, chief of East Chicago's detectives, for failure to support on oath the charge that a place known as the "Big House" was operated as a gambling palace. Zarkovich was the man whose efforts led to the death of the outlaw, John Dillinger. The judge also blamed public unawareness of vice and bad housing conditions for lack of progress in remedying them.

CAR KILLS BOY, 7, AS HE RUNS FROM CURB TO STREET

In Mrs. Martin's car when the accident occurred were her three children, Sue, 9; Dale, 4, and Lee, 9 months old.

Edward F. Bearman, 45 years old, 740 Pine avenue, died in Vandalia, Fayette county, yesterday of injuries received on New Year's day, when he was struck by an automobile near St. Elmo. He had been employed in the construction of a new high school at St. Elmo.

Carlo Puchio, 50, of 2126 Ohio street, died in County hospital of injuries received Wednesday at Grand avenue and State street when he was struck by the car of a hit and run driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday four persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, two were killed in Chicago, where 90 persons were injured in the same period.

EVANSTON FLAT BUILDING BURNS; 2 FIREMEN HURT

Fire destroyed a two story flat building at 1205 Hull terrace, Evanston, yesterday, routing two families from their beds and causing slight injuries to two firemen. Fire Marshal A. N. Hofstetter said damage to building and contents was about $25,000.

The fire was discovered by George S. Robinson, who fled with his wife and two children after a futile attempt to rouse Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Edmonds, occupants of the second floor. Firemen carried Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds to safety down a ladder. Their daughters, Jane, 20 years old, and Nancy, 10, escaped.

One fireman was injured slightly and traffic was delayed for an hour after fire broke out in a two story building at 8721 Commercial avenue. Extra apparatus was sent to fight the blaze, which caused damage estimated at $5,000.

Fire caused $5,000 damage to the home of John W. Newey, 260 Prospect avenue, Highland Park, yesterday. Newey is assistant to the president of United Air Lines. Fire Chief Edward C. Hoskin said an upset ash tray started a small fire on which water was thrown. The fire blazed anew after the family had left.

LIQUOR STORE BURNS.

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP).—Damage of approximately $10,000 was caused yesterday by a fire in the building and stock of Albert Livingston & Co., wholesale liquor store.

$1,350,000 ADDED TO CITY BUDGET; WATER BILLS HIT

$1,036,400 Is Marked for Defense.

Increases of approximately $1,350,000 in the 1942 city corporate, or operating fund, and the water fund were recommended yesterday by the council finance committee. Of that amount $1,036,400 was earmarked as being for defense purposes.

The recommendations will be made to the council Monday when it meets to consider passage of the budget.

On the recommendation of Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], committee chairman, the aldermen approved a proposal to decrease the cash discount now allowed for prompt payment of water bills from 15 per cent to 10 per cent. Bowler said the change will produce $750,000 more for the 1942 water fund, which previously was estimated at $14,350,000.

Emergency Defense Fund.

This $750,000 is in addition to the $500,000 emergency defense fund appropriation which was already provided in the proposed 1942 corporate fund.

The $750,000, the alderman said, will be set aside as an "emergency fund for defense purposes." Bowler explained the city has the right to use any of its funds for emergency purposes.

In the corporate fund the committee approved $286,400 "defense" appropriations as follows: 50 police motorcycles, $20,500; one new fireboat, $250,000; increased services in the map bureau, $500; defense headquarters and Service Men's center, $13,500, and sewer department supplies, $1,900.

The aldermen delegated Bowler to ask Mayor Kelly about the possibility of getting government money for the fireboat, which is to be used in the Calumet industrial area.

Other Budget Increases.

Budget increases which were not for defense were: additional deputy Municipal court bailiffs, $33,000; new lighting in the civil service office, $4,000, and $225,000 for small parks. The last item was included when Bowler told the aldermen the park district has turned down a previous recommendation that the small city parks be placed under park district jurisdiction. The committee also added $19,000 for concerts in neighborhood districts.

The committee tentatively approved a proposal to increase the health department appropriation by approximately $200,000 in order to return 80 field nurses and doctors to the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium force. They were laid off Jan. 1 because of a deficit in sanitarium funds.

To offset partially the recommended increases the committee approved reductions totaling $172,000. They were: Law department, $50,000; Municipal court clerk's office, $17,000; funds for signal light improvements on State and Dearborn streets, $40,000, and a fund for remodeling the present city airport building when the proposed new building is completed, $65,000.

DRIVER PLACED ON PROBATION IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Donald Higgins, 27 years old, 1008 East 62d street, a truck driver, yesterday was placed on probation for a year for leaving the scene of an accident by Judge John V. McCormick in Felony court.

On Oct. 15, Higgins' truck struck and killed Mrs. Anne C. Jensen, 78, who was a resident of the Chicago Home for Incurables, 5535 Ellis avenue, as she stepped into the street from between two parked cars.

Higgins testified he did not see the woman until it was too late and that he became panicky and drove away. Judge McCormick granted probation because Higgins is the sole support of his invalid wife, Dorothy, 24, and their daughter, Beth, 7.

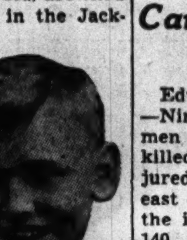

Edward Warren, 20 years old, 3249 Broadway, a private watchman, was sentenced to 40 days in jail yesterday by Judge Erwin Hasten in Automobile court on a charge of drunken driving. He was arrested Thursday after his car crashed into four parked automobiles at Belmont avenue and Broadway and narrowly missed a group of pedestrians. The customary 60 day sentence was reduced on Warren's plea that he is supporting his mother.

LE ROY R. KREIN NAMED AID TO U. S. ATTORNEY

United States Attorney J. Albert Woll announced yesterday the appointment of Le Roy R. Krein as an assistant on his staff. Krein, who is 29 years old and lives at 2327 Farwell avenue, is a graduate of the University of Chicago and was admitted to the bar in 1935. He has been in private practice of law in Chicago. Woll said Krein would be assigned to the criminal division. He was appointed to fill a vacancy. Five of the younger members of Woll's staff may be called for military service soon.

BOY, 10, FALLS THRU THIN ICE, DROWNS IN SHALLOW LAGOON

Kit Dahlgren, 10 years old, drowned in shoulder deep water in the Jackson park lagoon yesterday. He lived at 1433 East 66th place. The youngster had fallen thru thin ice and stood screaming in the water until the cold and shock overcame him.

Kit Dahlgren.

The child had gone to the lagoon to skate with a companion, Leo Torres, 9, of the same address. He glided gleefully 40 feet from the shore when the ice cracked and he went under.

Leo saw the water wasn't deep enough to drown his chum and ran for help. Policeman Lewis Steinberg ran back with him, but was able to get only two feet from shore when the ice broke with him. The policeman sought to wade to the boy's aid, but the ice that wouldn't bear him hampered him enough so that he didn't reach the spot in time.

7 REPUBLICANS NAMED TO DRAFT COUNTY SLATE

Committeemen Act at Informal Session.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The first step toward slate making by the Cook county Republican organization was taken yesterday at an unusual meeting in the La Salle hotel.

Nearly all of the members of the county central committee—and no others—were present, but it was not a meeting of the committee. John T. Dempsey presided, not as chairman of the county committee, but as the committeeman from the 33d ward.

By unanimous consent of the ward and township committeemen present a committee of seven was created to "formulate plans and policies and consider candidates" in preparation for the party primary next April.

Complete Slate Expected.

No restraints were placed on the septet and it is probable that it will produce a complete slate of candidates for county, sanitary district, and Municipal court offices.

The seven include Dempsey, whom the other six later elected chairman; George M. Fisher [18th], who was chosen secretary; John Leonard East [5th], Edward F. Moore [30th], Charles J. Fleck [45th], Henry A. Gardner of New Trier township, and William H. Weber of Worth township.

The committee will meet next Thursday at 3 p. m. in the offices of the county central committee and plans to meet every week day until it is ready to report. At that time another unofficial gathering will be called to consider adoption of the report—not by the county committee but by the individual members of the committee acting in their separate capacities.

Reasons for Procedure.

There were said to be several reasons for this unprecedented procedure. The formal one given by Secretary Fisher was that the party leaders recognized the soundness of a contention that party committees have no business taking part in primaries.

Privately there were statements that the present leaders of the party were unwilling to accept the full responsibility for making up a ticket and that if the same influences prevail there will be no indorsements of state candidates by the state central committee in its official character—but its members may act individually.

Evanston Youth Who Shot Self Reported Improved

Ray Craig, an Evanston Township High school junior, was reported improving yesterday in the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, where he was taken New Year's eve after shooting himself because a girl refused his request for a date. Craig, 17 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Craig, 2300 Colfax street, Evanston.

Clear Vision at Crossing.

The cars met squarely in the intersection of two wide highways where vision was clear from all directions. The bodies of four men, four women and the baby were found in and near the wreckage. Some had been hurled for yards from the scene of the crash.

Mrs. Paddock was taken to a hospital at Highland, but hospital attendants said she was so badly injured she could give no details of the crash.

U. S., PHILIPPINE TRADE CLOSELY LINKED IN PAST

Americans Invest 156 Millions.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special].—The Japanese entry into Manila brought discussion today of trade relations between the United States and the Philippines—relations so close that 94 per cent of the total island exports last October came to this country. In the first nine months of 1941, about 80 per cent of imports into the Philippines originated in the United States.

Chief export products of the Philippines are sugar, gold, cocoanut products, and abaca [hemp]. Other resources include tobacco, base metals, and forest products. Of $155,925,000 in exports from the islands in 1940, about 82.8 per cent went to the United States, 5.6 to Japan, and 1.2 per cent to China. On the other hand, of $134,730,000 of material and goods imported into the Philippines in the same year, 78.1 per cent came from the United States, 4.5 per cent from Japan, and 3 per cent from the Netherlands Indies.

U. S. Investments 156 Millions.

United States investments in the Philippines in 1940 reached $156,800,000, and investments of the islands in the United States were $67,800,000.

The commerce department from which these figures were obtained announced in other statistics that in the first nine months of 1941, the United States exported $81,490,000 worth of goods to the Philippines, contrasted with $73,692,000 for the same period of 1940. Imports to this country from the Philippines in 1941 nine months reached $72,925,000 compared with $68,442,000 for the same months of 1940.

For many years, sugar has been the most important export and money crop of the Philippines, and, said the commerce department, the crop is marketed entirely in the United States. Shipments in 1940 were valued at $47,150,000, or 30 per cent of the total export trade.

Depends More on United States.

During the first 10 months of 1941, the last period for which information is available, the Philippines showed a growing dependence upon the United States as a market as well as a source of supply. The loss of important European markets was compensated by expanding outlets here. Even the restricted trade in sugar, due to shipping storage, was balanced by steadily growing wartime demand for other leading Philippine products.

In a study of 1940 trade, commerce department experts asserted that exports to the Philippines of a number of commodities—canned milk, cigarets, rayon, textiles, paper, pulp mill machinery, textile machinery, and sulphate of ammonia—increased substantially compared with 1939.

Cloth Exports Decrease.

The quantity of cotton cloth shipments dropped from the relatively large total of 125 million square yards in 1938 and 108 million in 1939 to 74 million in 1940. The value of cloth exports declined approximately $3,300,000 from 1939 to $7,500,000 in 1940.

Decreases from 1939 in other leading exports, and the values in 1940 were: Iron and steel mill products, 14 per cent to $9,600,000; automobiles, parts and accessories, 2.8 per cent to $4,200,000; petroleum and products, 14 per cent to $6,400,000; mining and quarrying machinery, 30 per cent to $949,000; dynamite and blasting caps, 48 per cent to $897,000; automobile tires, 26 per cent to $1,700,000.

Sugar Import Value Dips.

A decline in imports of cane sugar from the Philippines from $49,600,000 in 1939 to $43,500,000 in 1940 was ascribed to comparatively low prices, because the quantity remained practically constant at the amount admitted duty free into the United States under terms of the independence act. However, the decrease in sugar value was partly compensated by increased imports of other commodities, such as Manila fiber, canned pineapples, copra, and cocoanut oil.

The drop in merchandise imports by the United States from the Philippines in 1940 was more than counterbalanced by an increase in imports of gold and silver. The value of imported gold increased from $35,637,000 in 1939 to $38,630,000 in 1940. Silver imports increased from $837,000 to $1,026,000.

SHIRTS, SHORTS ARE ADVANCED BY CLUETT PEABODY

Cluett Peabody & Co., Troy, N. Y., maker of men's shirts and ties, announced yesterday it had advanced the basic wholesale price on shirts to $16 a dozen from $14.50 effective immediately. The price of broadcloth shorts was raised to $5.50 a dozen from $4.75.

The company said the boost indicated a 25 cent raise in the retail price for the staple company product, and an increase of the same amount for underwear. The advance was caused by higher prices for raw materials and increased manufacturing costs, the company said.

OPM Calls Men's Clothing Makers to a Conference

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The Office of Production Management today asked representatives of the men's and boy's clothing industry to assemble in Washington next Thursday to discuss problems of the industry arising from a reduced supply of new wool available for civilian purposes.

OPA Puts Rugs at Wholesale Under Ceiling

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today announced several moves to prevent new price advances.

He submitted to producers for their approval maximum prices covering more than 95 per cent of all brass and bronze alloy ingots. At the same time he ordered a 60 day emergency ceiling over prices that wholesalers, jobbers, agents, brokers, or importers may charge for rugs and carpets.

He described this as further action to forestall development of inflationary prices within the industry in view of the fact that the Office of Production Management's new wool limitation order would substantially curtail production of rugs and carpets.

Permits Producers' Boost.

Henderson also announced an immediate upward revision of 5 per cent in the maximum price established last Dec. 16 for wool floor coverings at the manufacturer's level.

The new schedule will become effective next Monday and will cover not only wool rugs and carpets made in the country but imported floor coverings of all kinds, excluding only hand knotted rugs. Henderson said that if prices for other types of floor coverings show signs of getting out of hand, ceilings would be placed over them and both the manufacturing and wholesale levels.

October Level Is Basis.

According to the new schedule no domestic wool rugs may be resold at prices above the highest prices charged during the period for Oct. 1 thru Oct. 13, 1941. For imported products the maximum price would be the highest net price received during December for an identical unit.

Henderson said that the net effect of the new brass and bronze schedule was to leave the general ingot price level substantially unchanged. The list contained revisions downward in some cases and few upward revisions.

Henderson also announced that the five United States producers of titanium pigments had agreed to maintain prices at the Oct. 1, 1941, level for the first quarter of 1942. Titanium pigments are used extensively in the manufacture of paints and printing inks.

SAN FRANCISCO EXCHANGE LIFTS TRADE CHARGES

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP).—The San Francisco Stock exchange put a new schedule of commission rates into effect today. The rates were increased over those prevailing since a slash made Aug. 11 and went somewhat higher than commissions charged prior to the cut.

When the new commissions run higher than those charged by other exchanges, the broker members were permitted to charge the same as the competing exchange provided the stock is traded on that exchange.

Typical changes were: A stock selling at $5 a share would take a commission rate of $13 per 100 shares, compared with $9 since Aug. 11 and $12 before Aug. 11. A $10 stock would be charged $20 per 100 shares, compared with $14 and $13, respectively; a $50 stock $31, against $18 and $23; and a $100 stock $36 against $23 and $28.

SEC to Study Increase.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special].—Action of the San Francisco Stock exchange in raising commission rates will be studied by the Securities and Exchange commission to determine whether it requires the exercise of its powers under the securities and exchange act, it was said today. The commission has reached an agreement with the New York Stock exchange that it would be inequitable to fix rates until 1941 income figures were available.

BENDIX IS PAID SALARY OF $59,999 AND $22,500 BONUS

Vincent Bendix, president and chairman of the executive committee of the Bendix Aviation corporation, received $59,999 salary, $22,500 bonus, and $535 director's fees in the fiscal year ended last Sept. 30, but held no stock in the company, a proxy statement revealed yesterday. The statement was issued in connection with the annual meeting which will be held Jan. 14 in South Bend.

Vincent Bendix.

Bendix had been granted an option on Nov. 4, 1940, to buy 2,000 shares of the company's stock at $30 a share. The market price of the stock at the time was $33.87½ a share, but Bendix had not exercised his privilege as of last Nov. 7. The option expires Dec. 31, 1942.

The proxy statement announced the present board of directors had been nominated for reëlection. Stockholders also will be asked to approve more definite wording of the company bonus plan.

The statement showed that General Motors corporation on Nov. 7 owned 399,990 shares of Bendix stock.

Doubt Public Will Lose Use of Pullmans

With the railroads handling easily all military and public demands for passenger transportation to date, little credence was given in Chicago railroad circles last night to reports that Pullman cars, including sleepers, may be withdrawn from civilian use to lighten the burden on the roads.

Hugh W. Siddall.

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington, whose position as director of transportation in the National Defense Advisory council came to an end at midnight Thursday, said that the banning of Pullman transportation had not even been considered during his term of office. Joseph B. Eastman of the Interstate Commerce commission officially started his new duties yesterday morning as director of the new Office of Defense Transportation.

Rails Meet All Requests.

Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the Western and Transcontinental Passenger associations, said that the railroads have been able to meet all war department requests for passenger cars, including Pullmans.

"The war department tells us how many cars it wants and it is up to us to get them," Siddall explained. "So far we have been able to fill all needs. I have heard no suggestion that Pullmans were to be withdrawn from civilian use."

In Washington Leon Henderson, price administrator, was asked if he could "clear up rumors that Pullman service is going to be abandoned for civilian use." One of a group of specialists sitting behind him whispered in his ear.

"Don't tell me the answer," said Henderson. "I don't want to answer the question now."

I. C. C. Says It Is Uninformed.

Earlier, inquiries at the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington brought replies that it had not been informed of any proposal to withdraw Pullmans from civilian use.

Meantime the Pullman company disclosed it had reconditioned several hundred idle cars, largely for military use.

The Christmas season travel was reported to have been less than expected. Winter season vacation travel also is reported below expectations. The curb on the sale of automobile tires, however, may cause diversion of civilian travel from the highways to the railroads. Traveling salesmen are expected to feel the ban on tire sales severely.

OPM TO START SALVAGING IN MANY CENTERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The Office of Production Management announced today that it would start conservation and salvaging programs for war industry materials in more than 30 industrial centers. Experience of manufacturers in Erie, Pa., in conserving raw materials and salvaging scrap would be used as the basis for the general program.

Industries and trade associations at Erie set up an executive committee which directed a general drive in plants where metal scrap, waste paper, scrap rubber, and other war materials were available.

Charge Paper Stock Firm Refuses Records to OPA

The Thomas Paper Stock company of Chicago, wastepaper dealer cited by Price Administrator Leon Henderson as a "flagrant and repeated" violator of wastepaper price ceilings, has refused to open its books to field investigators, John C. Weigel, Office of Price Administration regional director, said yesterday. He indicated that investigation of companies which dealt with Thomas Paper Stock is being made.

CHICAGO FLAT SURVEY TO FIND HOMES FOR FEDERAL EMPLOYES

The Chicago Real Estate board has begun a survey of the Chicago area to find out how many vacant homes and flats are available for government employés who may be moved from Washington to Chicago if federal bureaus are transferred here. The survey, Thomas J. Fleming, president of the board, announced yesterday, also will cover vacant offices and industrial buildings.

Fleming said that his recent estimate that there are about 6,000 residential vacancies available in Chicago is being confirmed by the survey. There are approximately 1,500 reasonably priced and easily financed homes for sale in Chicago and suburbs, he asserted. About 2,000 furnished apartment hotel units are available, and a large number of hotel rooms for either temporary or permanent quarters.

SURFACE LINES, 'EL' HAVE GAINS FOR DECEMBER

Increased employment and improved retail trade contributed to heavier passenger traffic on the Chicago street car and elevated lines in December and for 1941, final reports for last year showed yesterday.

The Chicago Surface lines in December carried 63,769,065 passengers compared with 61,346,502 in December, 1940, and 708,650,918 in all of 1941 against 689,321,687 in 1940. Street car travel was the heaviest since 1937.

Passengers moved by the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] increased to 14,402,709 in December against 14,016,188 in December, 1940. Total 1941 traffic was 153,895,490 against 149,205,137 in 1940, the best since 1931.

Altho the Chicago Motor Coach company discontinued reporting traffic statistics in August while its fare rates are being studied by the Illinois Commerce commission, its 1941 traffic was estimated at 63,134,000 against 60,129,000 in 1940.

WOMEN'S WORK LAW IN ILLINOIS MAY BE RELAXED

Because 700,000 new workers are needed in war industries, the Illinois women's eight hour and the six day week laws may have to be relaxed in some instances, State Director of Labor Francis B. Murphy announced yesterday.

The labor laws will be modified only where employers prove their plants are engaged exclusively in war production and that there is an actual shortage of workers with no discrimination, Murphy asserted. Changes will apply only to individual cases, he said.

Chicago Keeps Rank as No. 1 Meeting Place

Chicago again will lead the nation's cities in 1942 in conventions and convention attendance as it has done since 1926, William J. Hennessy, manager of the convention bureau of the Chicago Association of Commerce, estimated yesterday on a basis of conventions already booked.

W. J. Hennessy.

"About one million persons are expected during the year, and they will spend on an average of $100 a person, bringing about 100 million dollars to the city," Hennessy said.

About 250,000 persons are expected this month, which ordinarily is the peak month for the year.

1941 Figures Incomplete.

Hennessy estimated that total attendance during 1941 was the second largest for the city, but he said final figures were not complete. An all-time high mark in attendance and number of conventions was set in 1933, the first year of A Century of Progress exposition, when 1,596,000 persons attended 1,526 conventions.

The next highest totals were recorded in 1929, when 1,335,435 persons attended 838 conventions. The dollar volume spent in 1929 reached 133 million dollars, an all-time high, compared with 75 million dollars in 1933, Hennessy said. Total attendance in 1940 was 1,000,800.

Canners, Shoe Men Coming.

The large conventions scheduled here for January include the National Canners, for which 40,000 persons are expected, compared with 30,000 last year; the National Shoe Manufacturers and Retailers, with probable attendance of 30,000, and the furniture shows with some 25,000 buyers. The high mark in October, the second best month in the year for conventions, will be the National Restaurant association, with a 15,000 attendance, Hennessy said.

Temporary concellation of several large organization meetings scheduled for Chicago will hold down the yearly total, Hennessy asserted.

Scrap Shortage Forces Another Furnace to Close

Youngstown, O., Jan. 2 (AP).—Shortage of scrap will force suspension of one more Republic Steel corporation open hearth furnace next week, leaving the Youngstown district steel output at 91 per cent of capacity. This is the seventh open hearth in the district to close for lack of scrap. One unit may be able to resume late next week.

BANKS, GEARED TO WAR NEEDS, LEND ACTIVELY

Loan Flow Biggest Since End of 1931.

Chicago banks, gearing their activities to the needs of the time, are feeding funds into business channels in the biggest volume since the close of 1931, they disclosed yesterday in answering national and state calls for statements of condition as of Dec. 31.

As funds were put to work in arms making industries and elsewhere, cash resources shrank more than 127 million dollars in the last three months of 1941 a little less than the figure that was reported at the end of 1940. But meantime deposits continued to climb, reaching at the end of 1941 the highest mark on record.

Comparative Figures.

Following are the totals of cash resources, loans and deposits of all Chicago banks at the end of 1941, compared with totals for Sept. 24, 1941, and Dec. 31, 1940:

Cash resources	1,796,207	1,923,622	1,797,187
Total deposits	$4,584,504	$4,527,066	$4,177,846

The expansion in loans and discounts was about $32,237,000 in the period of approximately three months after the Sept. 24 bank call, and the gain compared with a year ago was $284,539,000. Such loans reflect the rate of activity in industry and commerce.

Profits Mostly Higher.

Much of the information concerning the changes in condition of individual banks was disclosed on the preceding day when the customary year-end statements were issued. These showed generally higher profits than in 1940, altho there were exceptions, with Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company earning a little less.

The banks' combined holdings of United States government bonds at the 1941 year-end were $1,546,078,000, up $136,956,000 from the $1,409,122,000 reported three months earlier and about 145½ million dollars more than such holdings a year earlier.

FINAL PAYMENTS TO BE MADE BY 2 CLOSED BANKS

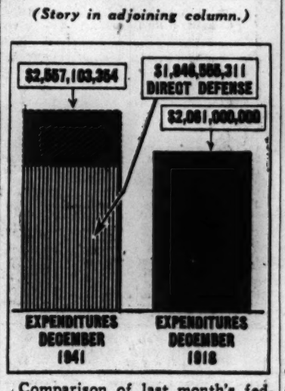

Repayment of $110,483 to approximately 12,500 depositors of two closed banks in Chicago was announced yesterday by State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder.

A final payment of 6¼ per cent aggregating $87,783 will be made to 8,000 depositors of the Fullerton State bank. This will be the eighth payment and will bring the total retrieved by depositors to 45¼ per cent. Preferred creditors also received $26,424 and $194,434 was disbursed on bills due.

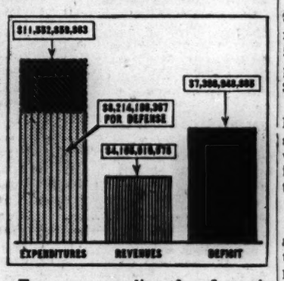

A ninth and final payment of 3½ per cent amounting to $22,700 and bringing total returned to 53¼ per cent will be made to 4,500 depositors of the Italian Trust and Savings bank. In additon, $40,936 has been paid to preferred creditors and $297,681 on bills.

SPEED UP LEGAL APPROVALS FOR ARMS JOB POOLS

Decentralization of machinery for obtaining legal approval from the department of justice anti-trust division to expedite the formation of arms making pools was announced yesterday by Thomas S. McEwan, district manager of the Office of Production Management contract distribution division.

Two industrial pools in this area are ready for clearance by the anti-trust division and others are in the formative stage, he said. Clearance is necessary to protect the pool from possible charges of collusion in restraint of trade.

McEwan said he had received notification from Floyd B. Odlum, director of contract distribution, that Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division, had arranged to have the pools approved by field offices of the division. Preliminary reference to the Washington office of the division will be unnecessary.

Manufacturers desiring to combine their facilities into an integrated arms manufacturing organization should submit their plans to the Chicago OPM office, McEwan said.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Bank clearings in 23 major cities declined in the holiday week ended Dec. 31, but were substantially higher than a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The total for the five day week was $6,966,169,000, up 20.9 per cent from $5,761,046,000 in the comparable short week of 1940, but down $895,493,000, or 11.4 per cent, from the preceding full week. Chicago clearings totaled $421,294,000, up 24.1 per cent, from a year ago.

DECEMBER SETS SPENDING MARK OF 2½ BILLIONS

President Works on Record Budget.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 (AP).—The treasury chalked up today the most expensive month in its history at the same time that President Roosevelt was putting the finishing touches on the largest war budget of all time.

The treasury revealed that it spent $2,557,103,354 in December, the first month of the war. This was about 500 million dollars more than the peak spending of the World war—$2,061,000,000 in December, 1918.

The President and Budget Director Harold D. Smith sent to the printer some of the last portions of the first war budget, which the President has indicated may exceed 50 billions for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Budget May Be 55 Billions.

Exact contents of the budget were a virtual military secret, pending their presentation to congress, expected about Wednesday or Thursday of next week, but the President said the proposed expenditures for war purposes alone would be about 50 billions.

With about 5 billions for non-defense costs, the budget total may be more than twice that for the current fiscal year.

Revenues in sight for the next fiscal year, as estimated by the treasury, are about 16 billion dollars, but may be supplemented by large new levies which treasury and congressional experts now are drafting.

The federal debt is already close to 58 billions and the deficits in the rest of this fiscal year and next year may bring it to around 100 billions, officials said.

Defense Total Nears 2 Billion.

While these preparations were being made, the treasury disclosed that direct defense spending reached a new high of $1,846,555,311 in December. The effect of war upon the defense program was shown by the fact that this figure was 400 millions more than was spent in November, and was about four times the size of rearmament spending in December, 1940.

The December total brought defense costs in the first half of the current fiscal year to $8,214,186,367, compared with $1,767,068,628 in the similar portion of the preceding fiscal year.

In the last six months, total expenditures of the federal government were $11,552,859,863. Revenues were $4,165,910,978, leaving a deficit of $7,386,948,885.

One reason for the rapid rise of the federal debt to the record level of $57,938,123,096 on Dec. 31 was the spurt in sales of defense savings bonds, which set a monthly record of $536,285,664 in December.

Eastman to Retain I. C. C. Job, Give Up Chairmanship

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special].—Chairman Joseph B. Eastman of the Interstate Commerce commission, who has been appointed director of defense transportation, will retain his position with the commission, but will surrender temporarily his duties as its chairman to Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison, it was announced today.

Our Nation has been attacked. Our Liberty is imperiled. The entire Nation unites to win the war.

We, in the Halsted Exchange National Bank are determined, as we always have been, to give "all-out" assistance in building America's Power.

To us this is a solemn duty. We respond to that duty with an equally solemn pledge to continue to back our faith in the American way of life to the final limit of our ability.

STOCKS PUSH UP IN FACE OF BAD WAR BULLETINS

Volume Slumps to Lowest Level Since Oct. 30.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—The stock market got a late start on a new year's rally today but, led by rails and an assortment of industrials, favorites pushed up in the final hour for gains of fractions to 2 points. There were scattered advances of larger proportions.

The list failed to lose its bearings on the bad news from the Philippines, and, after considerable forenoon irregularity, enough bidding cropped up to lift prices generally.

It was an exceptionally quiet comeback, however, with cessation of heavy tax selling drying up volume to 582,020 shares compared with 1,753,353 last Wednesday. It was lightest full session since Oct. 30. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .9 of a point at 38.0.

Commodity Rise Helpful.

Aside from the ability of the market to take discouraging far eastern bulletins in stride, bullish implications were seen in a brisk rise in agricultural commodity futures following approval of a senate subcommittee of price ceilings on major farm products at not less than 110 per cent of parity.

Oils were soft thruout but they reduced losses at the last. Motors, too, were down most of the day, but they showed modest advances when the closing gong sounded.

Rubbers also exhibited a forward slant notwithstanding the drastic curbs on new tire sales. Rails were firm from the beginning as greater traffic expansion was looked for in coming months. Mail orders reflected prospects for heavier public spending as armament production gains headway. Steels were indifferent for a while but took an upward direction in the concluding hour.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Prices advanced sharply on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as the exchange opened the new year with the smallest volume for a full session since Nov. 4. Transactions totaled 20,000 shares. Of 92 issues traded, 65 advanced, 16 declined, and 11 closed unchanged.

Commonwealth Edison, which advanced ¾ to 22⅞, was the volume leader with 1,500 shares traded. Of other heavily traded stocks, General Motors was unchanged, United States Steel advanced 1⅜ and Cities Service and Armour & Co. advanced ⅛.

LAND OFFERED TO STATE FOR CANAL SECTION

The Commonwealth Edison company yesterday tendered several parcels of land to the state in exchange for a 575 foot section at the north end of Mason's canal near Cermak road and Morgan street on the south branch of the Chicago river.

The company proposes to fill in the section to provide additional space at its Fisk street plant where a new generating unit is being installed. The north end of the canal is adjacent to the company's coal dock and is 100 feet wide.

Hearing on the company's petition was opened before Carter Jenkins, chief state waterway engineer, at 188 West Randolph street. Arrangements were made for appraising the value of the canal section and of the land tendered in exchange.

Illinois law requires that the state be repaid for filled in waterway with land of equal value.

CANADA PASSING THRU INDUSTRIAL, SOCIAL UPHEAVAL

Effects of War Economy Are Widely Felt.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 2.—Because of wartime conditions Canada is undergoing an industrial and social revolution. Economic activities are increasing by leaps and bounds and government prohibitions, restrictions, and taxation are imposed beyond prewar conceptions.

Nearly every plant in Canada capable of war work is wholly or partly engaged in making ships, aircraft, transport, and armored fighting vehicles, guns, and ammunition. The value of contracts awarded by the Ministry of Munitions and Supply to Oct. 1 was estimated at 2 billion 600 million dollars. Of this amount, orders on Canadian government account totaled 1 billion 506 million and these orders have been placed up to a value of 1 billion 325 million with Canadian firms, 40 millions in the United Kingdom, and about 140 millions in the United States.

National Income Rises.

An increase of nearly 11 per cent in the national income was shown in an economic survey covering the first nine months of the calendar year, the rise was from 3 billion 511 million in the same period last year to 3 billion 891 million, largely the result of war demands. The official index of the physical volume of business during this nine month period averaged 133.8, an increase of nearly 13 per cent over the high level attained in the corresponding period of 1940.

Canada's external trade in the same period showed substantial betterment, exports rising [gold excluded] from 869 million dollars to 1 billion 185 million, a gain of 36.3 per cent. Imports increased by an equal percentage to 1 billion 48 million. Exports were 137 million larger than imports, compared with an excess of 101 million in the corresponding period last year.

Employment Index High.

The employment index rose from 119.5 to 147.2. In the manufacturing field employment gained nearly 28 per cent. Nearly 900,000 workers who were not so employed two years ago have been absorbed in business and industry. Some 344,000 men have joined the active armed forces of the country and have had to be replaced in the jobs they left.

Essential materials required for war are being rigorously controled by the Canadian government. Canadians have had wages and prices stabilized under general "ceilings;" they can get no new models in automobiles, radios, etc., until the war ends; they will have less than half as many new automobiles on the market in 1942 as in 1940; domestic production of radios, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, stoves, and refrigerators has been cut by 25 per cent.

Many Restrictions Imposed.

Canadians can make instalment purchases only on strict terms; can get only limited supplies of many metals, rubber, silk, cellophane, certain chemicals. Purchase of new automobile tires is forbidden. Gasoline sales are cut off after 7 p. m. week days and all day Sundays; gasoline is to be rationed April 1, 1942. Citizens can erect no new buildings or additions costing more than a fixed amount; can purchase only a few nonessential products from the United States, and cannot get funds to travel in the United States except for urgent reasons.

Some of these war time "don'ts" are brand new, notably the wage and price ceilings, but all measures ordered by the government have been cheerfully accepted and the government has been urged to go further to effect an all-out "win the war" Canadian economy.

No indication has been given as to how much gasoline will be available to the Canadian motoring public after April of next year, but the government plans to cut off "pleasure driving."

Tax Increase Is Immense.

Canadian taxation has been increased immensely. Income and national defense taxes reach to persons earning as low as $55 a month. Income taxes have been tripled and quadrupled in the various categories. A married man with two children paying $7.20 income tax out of $3,000 earnings per year prior to 1940 pays $215 a year now in taxes based on the 1941 tax act. On $5,000 earning, he previously paid $96; now he pays $735. Forty three per cent of Canada's national income goes for Canada's own war expenditures and the materials it supplies to Britain.

The business outlook for 1942 is that of all-out wartime production limited only by the capacity of machinery and human hands. Civilian consumer demand is expected to be limited by the effort of the government, thru taxation and restriction, to deprive the population of the means and opportunity to buy in competition with war production.

BANK OF ENGLAND NOTE ISSUE UP LESS FOR WEEK

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP).—The Bank of England statement as of Dec. 31, 1941, showed note circulation totaled £751,726,000 [about 3 billion 7 million dollars], compared with £615,855,000 [about 2 billion 463 million dollars] last year. Last week's increase, however, was among the smallest registered since the uninterrupted rise started last September.

Ratio of reserve to liability was 10.1 per cent compared with the record low of 6.0 per cent a year ago.

Private deposits	273,937	+81,129
Govt. securities	240,603	+75,520

Ratio of reserve to liabilities, 10.1 per cent, compared with 14.5 last week. Bank rate, 2 per cent.

Prices of Meat Animals Start New Year Pointing Upward

Live costs of most classes of meat animals advanced in the first market session of the new year at the stock yards yesterday. Hogs led the rise, reaching the best January levels in 15 years. Advances of 15 to 25 cents were general, top loads rising 20 cents to $11.50 a hundred pounds with the average up 15 cents at $11.10.

Small receipts and the announcement of a boost in the lard price ceiling, coupled with the fact that some packing plants have increased their butchering crews in anticipation of immediate heavy selling by farmers, were factors contributing to the lively bidding for hog supplies.

Colder weather and strong consumer demand for fresh pork cuts also stimulated buying. Prices were mostly $4.05 to $4.15 higher than a year ago.

The price range continued narrow, with $11.25 to $11.45 buying most good 175 to 240 pound young hogs. Heavy hogs weighing up to 400 pounds ranged down to $10.75. Top light sows reached $10.65, and those weighing 425 to 500 pounds sold largely from $9.80 to $10.15.

Gains of 15 to 25 cents carried lambs to the highest January level since 1930. The extreme top, at $12.65, compared with $9.90 a year ago. Most fat lambs brought $12 to $12.50. Yearling wethers were quoted up to $10.75, while best old ewes sold at $6.75.

Steers and yearlings brought strong to mostly 25 cents higher prices. The best sold at $14.25. Heifers held firm, while most beef cows, canners, and cutters were 15 cents higher.

BUTTER FUTURE SALES LARGEST ON RECORD; PRICES CLIMB ½ CENT

The Chicago Mercantile exchange had the largest trade in butter futures in its history yesterday. Both butter and egg futures rose more than ½ cent and the wholesale markets for these commodities climbed as the blanket of snow over the midwest threatened to curtail fresh supplies.

Wholesale eggs were up as much as a cent a dozen with best grades sellings at close to 34 cents. Dealers contracting for fresh eggs for delivery next month paid the highest prices in 12 years in negotiating for supplies. Wholesale butter was up ¼ cent a pound on medium grades.

Trading in the butter futures involved more than 10 million pounds—a total of 527 carlots. Closing prices were just under the extremes with January contracts finishing at 33.20 cents. The upward revision in fats and oils ceilings and the apprehension expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard that ceiling prices of 110 per cent of parity on agricultural commodities might prove insufficient stimulate to assure adequate production were factors.

INSURANCE GAINS ARE REPORTED BY O. J. ARNOLD

Policy lapses in 1941 decreased, insurance in force gained 21 million dollars, and sales of smaller policies rose, O. J. Arnold, president of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company of Minneapolis, said yesterday in his annual report.

Has your advertising caught up with today's selling opportunities?

*WHEN YOU CAN HAVE MORE WHY TAKE LESS?

To sell more at lower advertising cost, make the Tribune your basic medium

NEW buying power created in Chicago by the industrial upswing has opened up broader selling conditions which reward energetic promotion. You step up your advertising to take full advantage of Chicago's growing potential when you make the Tribune your basic sales medium.

With total net paid circulation in excess of 1,000,000 every day of the week, the Tribune provides market-wide selling pressure. At one low cost the Tribune during November delivered from 605,000 to 635,000 more total circulation on week-days than other Chicago daily newspapers delivered. On Sundays, the Tribune delivered from 340,000 to 810,000 more than other Chicago Sunday newspapers delivered.

In Chicago and suburbs, the Tribune had from 440,000 to 460,000 more circulation on week-days than other Chicago daily newspapers—and more than any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined. On Sundays, the Tribune delivered from 395,000 to 470,000 more circulation right in metropolitan Chicago than other Chicago Sunday newspapers delivered—and more than the two other Chicago Sunday newspapers combined.

Tribune rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

SHIP CONTRACT WITH SAVANNAH FIRM CANCELED

U. S. Questions Financial Ability to Perform.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special]. —Cancellation of a contract with Savannah Shipyards, Inc., for the construction of 12 emergency cargo vessels for the United States Maritime commission was announced by that agency today.

The action was taken under a provision of the contract permitting its invalidation if the firm failed within 30 days of its signing to satisfy the commission that it had financial ability and adequate managerial facilities to carry it out. The contract was signed on Nov. 25, altho the decision to make the award was announced about a month earlier.

Affiliate of Empire Ordnance.

The company is an affiliate of Empire Ordnance, Inc., whose employment of Charles West, former undersecretary of the interior, and its effort to employ Thomas F. Corcoran, onetime New Deal brain trúster, were the subject of investigation recently by the special senate defense investigating committee.

Frank Cohen, founder of both firms, told the committee that he sought to employ Corcoran to handle a legal tangle which had arisen with the Savannah port authority over the validity of bonds it planned to issue to help finance the shipyard.

Corcoran declined the employment, he testified, but recommended that the firm retain the local law firm of Dempsey & Koplovitz, mentioning that Dempsey's father was a member of the maritime commission.

Contract Near 20 Millions.

The company's contract for the 12 "ugly duckling" ships totaled between 18 and 20 million dollars, according to the commission. Cohen told the defense committee that the shipyard was to get a construction fee of $110,000 a vessel more or less, depending on whether the ships were constructed ahead of or behind a specified time schedule.

Defense committee members charged Cohen with founding his defense enterprises "on a shoestring" and with seeking the aid of West and Corcoran because he believed they could wield influence with the administration to get contracts.

RETAIL SALES DECREASE, BUT PASS YEAR AGO

New York, Jan. 2 (AP).—Buying at retail stores slumped this week in the usual post-Christmas decline, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Brisk promotion activity to move larger than usual stocks was begun, with special markdowns of furs, many kinds of women's apparel, and other items to attract customers with Christmas gift cash in their pockets.

Despite the recession under the preceding week when Christmas shopping spurred business, sales for the nation as a whole averaged 8 to 14 per cent above a year ago. In New England and on the Pacific coast retail business topped a year ago by 7 to 12 per cent, the east 5 to 10, middle west 8 to 14, southwest 13 to 18, south 12 to 18, and northwest 8 to 12.

"The volume of return goods was of normal proportions and a tendency to exchange luxury goods for more practical items was noted," the review said.

Business in wholesale markets was dull.

CHICAGO REGION STORE SALES TOP YEAR AGO BY 38%

Department store sales both in Chicago and in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district were 38 per cent larger in the week ended Dec. 27 than in the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Nationally, sales were up 39 per cent, the federal reserve board reported. Part of the big increase should be attributed to an additional Christmas shopping day in the latest week, the reports said.

Compared with the preceding week, which had one more trading day, both the district and Chicago stores averaged 36 per cent smaller sales.

For the four weeks ended Dec. 27, compared with the corresponding 1940 period, district sales were up 11 per cent and Chicago sales 8 per cent.

Buying of Government Bonds by Reserve Banks Is Light

The 12 federal reserve banks purchased 11 million dollars of United States government bonds in the week ended Wednesday, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

Such buying usually is done to stabilize the market price of the bonds, but the board did not comment on the weeks' transactions. Some support was giver. to federal bonds by the reserve banks in the first week of the war, but little has been required since.

The new purchases raised the 12 banks' holdings of government obligations to 2 billion 254 million dollars.

The report also showed that the lendable excess reserves of reserve system member banks in 101 cities increased 30 million dollars during the week to a total of 3 billion 90 million dollars. These excess reserves are idle funds. Most of the reports for recent weeks have shown declines in the volume of unemployed funds as a result of the quickening of industrial production under the arms program.

New York member banks' total of commercial and agricultural loans, affected by the Christmas holiday, tumbled 32 million dollars during the week, and banks in Chicago reported a combined decline of 1 million dollars.

GRAIN, SOY BEAN AND LARD PRICES UP; TRADE BRISK

Legislative News Seen as Favorable.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

The Chicago Board of Trade started the new year yesterday with the largest volume of trading in more than two weeks. Prices moved sharply higher as legislative news took what was regarded as a favorable turn for the grain trade.

Wheat advanced 1¼ to 1⅞ cents a bushel to the highest levels since early October. The bread grain sold on May contracts at $1.28⅜. Corn climbed 1¼ to 1⅜ cents a bushel to a new high in more than two months. Oats futures sold at three month highs and No. 2 white oats at 58¼ cents a bushel in cash sales was at a new high since 1937. Rye futures climbed 3⅞ cents a bushel in brisk trading to the best levels since early October.

Soy Beans and Lard Climb.

Soy beans shot up 3⅝ to 3⅞ cents with July contracts reaching new seasonal peaks, and lard futures rose 55 to 70 cents a hundredweight following upward revision of ceiling prices on fats and oils. May bean contracts sold at 1.83⅝ a bushel at one time, compared with $1.59⅝ on Nov. 26. Trading in lard futures was the largest since the Office of Price Administration first put ceilings on the market.

OPA Administrator Leon Henderson on Thusrday lifted ceilings on domestic fats and oils to Oct. 1, 1941, levels. Prices in some instances were higher than traders had anticipated.

High Farm Ceilings Voted.

Principal factors behind the advance in the grain markets were these Washington developments:

1. The senate banking committee approved a price control bill providing that ceilings on farm commodities may not be set at less than 110 per cent of parity or Oct. 1 levels.

2. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard asked that control of prices on all agricultural commodities be lodged with the department of agriculture. He told the banking committee that it might be necessary to permit some prices to rise above the 110 per cent of parity levels in order to stimulate production.

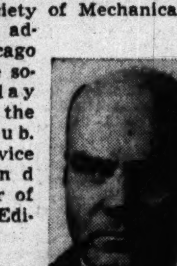

3. The Commodity Credit corporation raised the offering price on its corn one cent a bushel at terminal markets.

NEBRASKA GETS ALL PROPERTIES OF BIG UTILITY

Consumers Public Power District of Nebraska, a state agency, has acquired all Nebraska properties of the Western Public Service company, which served the western part of the state, it was disclosed yesterday. The purchase left only one privately owned power company—the Nebraska Power company, which serves Omaha and some adjacent territory—operating in the state.

The announcement was made by Jackson E. Cagle, Chicago, attorney for an investment syndicate headed by John Nuveen & Co. The syndicate bought the bonds of the power district, which then purchased all Western Public Service common stock from the Engineers Public Service company, New York, a holding company. The price was slightly under 7 million dollars, Cagle said. The transfer was completed yesterday and Western Public Service immediately dissolved.

The district has acquired 14 power companies at a total price of about 50 million dollars.

NOVEMBER NET OF SO. PACIFIC RAILROAD FALLS

The Southern Pacific railroad yesterday reported net income for November of $230,231, a drop of more than 2 million dollars from the $2,586,469 figure for the corresponding 1940 month. Higher taxes and retroactive wage increases were said to have cut sharply into company earnings.

Profit for the 11 month period of 1941, however, was almost 30 million dollars above earnings for the same period in 1940. The company's net income for the first 11 months of 1941 was $34,007,854, compared with $4,206,218 in the preceding year.

AIR BRAKES.

I haven't seen anything in your column on New York Air Brake for several years. I understand this company furnishes a substantial portion of braking equipment to American railroads. Do you have a report? —V. L. H.

Answer: The New York Air Brake company manufactures from 25 to 30 per cent of the air brake equipment purchased annually for original installation by American railroads. Patent licenses for standard equipment are exchanged with Westinghouse Air Brake company. Replacement parts account for a large part of business volume. Plants are in Watertown, N. Y.

Earnings have improved steadily in the last three years. Net profit for the nine months thru last September was $941,424, equal to $3.63 a common share based on 259,120 shares outstanding. This compared with $879,477, or $3.39 a share, in the corresponding 1940 quarters. The common stock, no par, is the company's sole capitalization. Results for years ended Dec. 31 follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Per share.
1939	4,268,206	747,858	2.89
1938	1,784,947	*170,623	....
1937	6,496,916	935,757	3.61

*Loss.

In 1941 dividends amounted to $3 a share, compared with the same payment in 1940, $1 in 1939, 25 cents in 1938, $2 in 1937, and $2.50 in 1936. Nothing was distributed from 1932 thru 1935. At the close of 1940 assets totaled $15,359,000, and net working capital was $2,722,000. The stock is traded on the New York Stock exchange.

LIEN POSITION.

What is the lien position of Brooklyn Union Gas company's 6s of 1947, and 5s of 1957? What is the security of these issues?—M. M.

Answer: The first lien and refunding mortgage 6s and 5s, outstanding in respective amounts of $6,000,000 and $10,000,000, are junior to $14,736,000 of first consolidated mortgage 5s of 1945, but prior in lien to $18,000,000 of debenture 5s of 1950. The two refunding issues are secured by a mortgage on all company property and by a pledge of bonds of predecessor companies.

SHIPYARD SEIZED BY NAVY MAY GO BACK TO OWNER

Union, Company Officials Start Negotiations.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2 [Special]. —The Kearny, N. J., yard of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company, commandeered by the navy on Aug. 23 because the company refused to accept a "union maintenance of membership clause" recommended by the National Defense Mediation board, probably will be returned within a week to its owner, the United States Steel corporation, it was learned in official quarters today.

The navy, busy with prosecution of the war in both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, was said to be anxious to rid itself of the responsibility of running the important shipyard. It is believed determined to return the yard to private management even if no agreement is reached between the company and the CIO's Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers.

Negotiations Are Started.

Company officials and union leaders, headed by John Green, CIO union president, began negotiations in a Newark hotel today in an effort to reach agreement on terms for operating the yard if the navy turns it back to the company. J. H. Love, industrial relations director of the company, said no comment could be made on progress of the negotiations.

High ranking navy officials were said to believe that the no-strike, no-lockout agreement between industry and labor, announced by President Roosevelt on Dec. 23, made such a profound change in industrial relations that it would now be possible to return the yard to the company and be sure of uninterrupted production of ships for the navy and maritime commission even if the controversial question is not settled. It was said in official quarters that the union security issue could be submitted to the new war labor board, which President Roosevelt is expected to appoint shortly.

Ruling Believed Binding.

A ruling by this board presumably would be binding on both sides and would not result, as did the July 26 recommendations of the mediation board, in a strike of the 16,000 workers when the company declined to accept the board's stipulation that present and future union members must remain in good standing as a condition of employment. This strike began on Aug. 7 and continued until the navy reopened the yard on Aug. 26.

It was recalled that the traditional "open shop" policy of United States Steel corporation, which played an important part in the refusal of the Kearny recommendations, has been changed in some degree since the Kearny yard was taken over. In the coal mine strike case the steel corporation agreed to binding arbitration of the "union shop" issue and signed a contract with the United Mine Workers of America when the arbitration board voted 2 to 1 in favor of the union demands.

Japs Fix High Exchange Rate for Yen in Hongkong

TOKIO, Jan. 2 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The Domei news agency reported from Hongkong tonight that Hongkong dollars now were subject to exchange for Japanese military notes at the rate of two dollars for one yen.

Before the fall of Hongkong the Hongkong dollar was worth 25 cents. The last quotation on the yen was 23.4 cents. The 2-for-1 exchange rate therefore more than doubles the yen's value at the expense of holders of Hongkong dollars.

CHICAGO'S NEW BUILDING SETS PEAK SINCE 1930

Value for Year Mounts 10 Million Dollars.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago building during 1941 was nearly 10 million dollars higher in value than in the preceding year, Richard E. Schmidt, building commissioner, reported yesterday. Permits for 5,405 buildings were taken out last year for structures valued at $49,607,397, compared with 3,978 permits for buildings costing $39,928,096 in 1940.

Last year's total was the largest in value of any year since 1930. The depression low point was in 1933 when permits totaled only $3,683,960.

Permits for 4,420 Homes.

Permits were issued last year for 4,420 homes, costing $24,015,969, compared with 3,123 homes valued at $16,666,473, in 1940. This was a gain of 1,297 homes, with a value of $7,349,496.

Despite the good showing of 1941 December permits for all types of building were the lowest of any month since February. December permits numbered 370, costing $2,505,610, compared with 334 permits in November, for buildings valued at $3,312,680. There were 262 permits for buildings costing $1,971,867 in December, 1940.

Increase During Month.

Home building in Chicago last month was larger in both number and value than in the same month last year and November, 1941. There were 311 permits for single family dwellings, costing $1,800,000.

During November, 1941, permits numbered 253 for homes, valued at $1,406,380, and during December, 1940, there were 218 permits for homes costing $1,196,917.

'41 REAL ESTATE SALES TOP '40 IN NUMBER, VALUES

County Recorder Edward J. Kaindl reported yesterday that 54,860 real estate transfers involving property valued at $69,649,952 were made in Cook county last year, compared with the 1940 total of 54,413 transfers involving property worth $66,556,459.

A total of 48,090 new mortgages with a value of $536,613,690 were recorded, against 41,368 with a value of $308,563,341 in the preceding year. Part of the increase in new mortgage values was due to the 200 million dollar bond issue of the Koppers company of Delaware, for which Chicago property is surety.
